Passengers and Sailors of Cobequid Taken Off as Wreck Is Breaking Up.

CONVEYED TO YARMOUTH

Captain and Eleven of His Men Elect to Remain Aboard Until Morning.

RESCUE SHIP STANDS BY

Crash Came in Darkness of Early Morning—Passengers Terrified, but Reassured by Captain's Confidence.

Special to The New York Times.

YARMOUTH, N. S., Jan. 14.—The wrecked steamer Cobequid was found driven on the treacherous Trinity Rock, about ten miles north of this place, this afternoon.

The rescue fleet of steamers one by one reported at the scene, and, despite the fact that the waves were sweeping over the stranded liner, they succeeded in taking off in their lifeboats and the Cobequid's all the passengers and part of the crew, ninety-six in all.

The Captain of the Cobequid and eleven of his seamen decided to remain on the ship until morning, notwithstanding the wreck was breaking up. The Government steamer Lansdowne is standing by.

Snatched from what seemed almost certain death, the survivors are snug to-night in Yarmouth. The wireless appeals for assistance which the distressed steamer first made thirty-six hours before were answered late to-day as the doomed Royal Mail steamer was being racked to pieces on Trinity Rock, six miles off Port Maitland. The rescue will go down in shipping annals as one of the most notable ever accomplished on the Atlantic Coast.

The Cobequid had begun to break up under the cannonading of the terrific seas that had been merciless from the time the vessel struck early yesterday. Quantities of cargo covered the waters as the lifeboats ranged alongside. The coastal steamers Westport and John L. Cann were first to get their small boats into the water, and they were followed soon by the boats of the Government steamer Lansdowne and the steamer Rappahannock. As the work of rescue progressed the sea subsided considerably and no mishap marred the triumph over the waves.

Westport First to Bring Help.

Capt. McKinnon of the Westport found the liner on the southeast part of Trinity Ledge at 4:20 o'clock this afternoon. At the time there was a high wind and rough sea. He took off in three lifeboat loads 72 persons, including all of the passengers, the purser, several deck officers and part of the crew.

The Westport stood by until 6:15 o'clock, when the Jonn L. Cann came up. The latter took off twenty-four men as the Westport was leaving for Yarmouth. The Captain and eleven men of the crew decided to remain on the ship until morning, and the Government steamer Lansdowne remained with them. The Westport arrived at Yarmouth at 9 o'clock and the John L. Cann followed her in.

The 108 persons on the Cobequid included twelve first cabin pasengers and an equal number in the second class. Mrs. W. C. Zoller and her child were the first to go over the side. Then followed Miss Marguerite and Miss Dorothy James, daughters of the late R. H. James, Mayor of St. George's, Bermuda, and two Sisters of Charity. One by one the men were lowered to the lifeboat until only Capt. Hawson and eleven men remained on deck. Preparations had been made here to care for the shipwrecked ones, and they were given vry comfort that the city afforded.

Trinity Rock, on which the Cobequid was transfixed at 5 A. M. yesterday morning, is a pinnacle of granite rising abruptly from the sea half way between this port and Brier Island, where the steamer was at first thought to have struck. The Trinity is awash at low water. The famous Lurcher Shoal, which is indicated by a lightship, lies ten miles outside Trinity Rock, while the course up the Bay of Fundy takes the vessels still further off shore.

The Bay was swept by a typical Western blizzard as the Cobequid, bound from the tropics, began to feel her way toward St. John, N. B. The last of the ebb tide was running and the wind was strong from the west—conditions which tended to drive the steamer closer to the eastern shore than her skipper anticipated.

Ship Stranded in Darkness.

The crash came just before dawn, and a few minutes later the wireless S O S was flashing over the waters. The Cobequid's operator was unable to give her location, for no one on board knew it definitely. Four hours later flood tide and the gale had driven the steamer still farther on the Rock, breaking her back and flooding the engine room. This put out the fires and interrupted the wireless apparatus.

The passengers were greatly alarmed, but the courage of Capt. Hawson and his abiding faith in his ship reassured them time and again. The steamer made water rapidly, and the cargo began to tear away. Throughout the day and night that followed the officers scanned the sea for passing craft, and the operator worked heroically to restore his wireless outfit.

Meanwhile, steamers that had picked up the first cry for help were searching for the distressed craft. A heavy vapor caused by the action of the intense cold on the water handicapped the searchers, and it was a fisherman on the Port Maitland shore who first made out the Cobequid as the vapor rose this afternoon and revealed the liner on the dreaded Trinity.

Darkness was gathering fast when the rescue began, but the boatmen from the coastal steamers knew the Rock and the surrounding shoals as well as they did their own front yards ashore, and they went at the work with perfect confidence. Less than five hours later those who had faced death for two days were being warmed and fed at the hotels here. So far as could be learned to-night none of the party was permanently the worse for the adventure.

GROOME MAY HEAD POLICE.

Reported Selection of Commander of Pennsylvania's Constabulary.

It was reported last night that Mayor John Purroy Mitchel has determined upon the appointment of Major John C. Groome of Philadelphia as Police Commissioner.

Major Groome is Superintendent of the Department of Pennsylvania State Police. Major Groome was chosen for his present place by Gov. Pennypacker at a time when the police force of Pennsylvania seemed to be demoralized and entirely under the control of the politicians. There was much complaint of the inefficiency of the police during labor troubles. When the miners struck there always was loss of life, with attendant destruction of property.

Groome was Captain of the City Troop, one of the most famous military organizations in the country. The first thing he did after he took charge of the 228 State cavalrymen was to see that every man obeyed orders implicitly, and would accept orders from no other man except the Major himself. Groome drilled the men, and soon they became very efficient. The first strike Groome was called upon to fight was the worst that ever beset Pennsylvania—the strike of the anthracite miners.

At first the strikers laughed at Major Groome and his men. Very soon they ceased to laugh, and when they heard the rattle of the hoofs of the horses of the State Police and knew that a charge was coming, they fled. Since that time Major Groome and his men have been the greatest force in the anthracite region for the advancement of peace.

City Chamberlain Henry Bruere said last night that he did not know whether the Mayor was thinking of offering the place of Police Commissioner to Major Groome.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—Major Groome said to-night over the telephone that the office of Police Commissioner of New York had not yet been offered to him.

THREATENS TO VETO BILL.

Wilson Against Post Office "Rider" Giving Spoilsmen 2,400 Places.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Since his return from Pass Christian yesterday President Wilson has shown a keen interest in the effort to attach a legislative rider to the annual Post Office Appropriation bill that will place 2,400 Assistant Postmasterships under the spoils system, and there is good reason to believe that he has made known to Chairman Moon and other members of the House Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads that his inclination is to veto the appropriation measure if such a provision is retained.

The President's objections are twofold. He had previously shown that he was opposed in principle and practice to the enactment of general legislation through bills designed merely to carry appropriations and to provide for the fulfillment of laws previously enacted. But beyond this he is now in arms against the tendency of his party supporters in Congress virtually to abrogate the civil service law and regulations in order to create jobs for importunate constituents.

The tug of war between the President and the House may not come this week, although the Post Office measure is to be taken up for consideration in the House to-morrow. The "spoilsmen's" rider is included in the bill, as it was reported to the House from the Post Office Committee last Monday, but this item will not be reached until Monday, or Saturday of this week, at the earliest.

WIRELESS-AERO TESTS.

Marconi Hopes Soon to Accomplish Important Results.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Important wireless experiments with aeroplanes in flight are to be made by William Marconi shortly at London with a large biplane, fitted with improved wireless apparatus and carrying a pilot and an operator.

A "shore station" will be established at some point probably about a hundred miles from London and moved about until the limit of efficient communication is reached. It is understood that results far in advance of those of any previous wireless tests are anticipated.

The best installation hitherto procurable, which is fitted on most naval hydro-aeroplanes, has a range of only 60 miles. A radius of 500 miles is the aim of the Admiralty air experts for the big seaplanes, and they are hoping for a wireless set of the same range in the near future.

CLAFLIN OUT OF BANKS.

Drygoods Man Withdraws from Financial Institution Boards.

John Claflin, head of the dry goods firm of H. B. Claflin & Co., and President of the Chamber of Commerce, has decided to withdraw as a Director in every financial institution on whose board he is a member. When this became known in the financial district yesterday it started a report that Mr. Claflin was to be a member of the Federal Reserve Board. This was denied by Mr. Claflin himself.

"About sixty days ago," he said, "I notified the financial institutions of which I am a Director that I would decline re-election. In spite of this some of the banks that had meetings yesterday re-elected me. I shall insist on withdrawing, however."

"Is it true?" he was asked, "that you are to be a member of the Federal Reserve Board?"

"Oh, no," said Mr. Claflin, "No such position has been offered to me, and of course I could not think of taking it if it were. My reason for withdrawing is that I have a good many things to do and I am away a considerable part of the time, so that in my opinion it will be better for somebody else to take my place on the various boards."

The financial institutions of which Mr. Claflin is a Director are the American Exchange National Bank, the Astor Trust Company, the National Bank of Commerce, the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company, and the United States Trust Company. He is also President of the Associated Merchants Company and the United Dry Goods Company, and a Director or trustee of the Atlantic Mutual Insurance Company, the Cologne Reinsurance Company, the Commercial Union Assurance Company of London, the Commercial Union Fire Insurance Company, the German Alliance Insurance Company, the German-American Insurance Company, the Home Insurance Company, the New York Life Insurance Company, and the Palatine Insurance Company.

TURK SLAIN IN PARIS AS HE TRIES MURDER

Mortally Wounds Cherif Pasha's Valet and Is Killed by Cherif's Son-in-Law.

WIFE'S PRESENCE OF MIND

She Escapes by Feigning Death—Cherif Says Nine Bravos Were Sent to Paris to Kill Him.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—An attempt was made this morning to assassinate Gen. Mehmed Cherif Pasha, Turkish ex-Minister at Stockholm and brother-in-law of the present Grand Vizier. The attempt failed, and the assailant was shot dead by Cherif's son-in-law, Salih Bey.

Cherif Pasha to-night, describing the affair, said:

"I had known for several weeks that a determined attempt was about to be made on my life. I had warning letters from friends. So has Prince Sabaheddin, who also lives in Paris. The plot is a political one, organized by the Committee of Union and Progress, (Young Turks,) of whose policy I am one of the most active opponents.

"Some weeks ago there arrived in Paris nine Turkish bravos, most of them policemen, sent from Turkey by enemies of mine in high positions. These bravos began to prowl around my house. I called on my household to carry arms. Only yesterday I asked the Minister of the Interior for special police protection, which has been instituted to-day.

"Last night one of the bravos called at my flat when I was and told my valet he had a letter for me. At 9 o'clock this morning he came again and asked to see me. I was in my bath, and the valet suggested that the man leave the letter. The stranger insisted that he must see me. Suddenly drawing a revolver he fired at Ismail Hakki, the servant, the bullets hitting him twice in the chest and piercing the lung. The valet fell in the hall.

"At the sound of the shots my wife, Princess Emanine, who is a sister of the present Grand Vizier, came running into the hall. The assassin fired at her, and, with great presence of mind, she fell to the ground and feigned to be dead.

"The man rushed toward the room which I use as a study, treading heavily on my wife's head as he did so, but by this time my son-in-law, Salih Bey, who has been staying with me since he finished his service in the war, had leaped from bed and entered the hall. Seizing from the floor a revolver which the wounded servant had drawn from his pocket, he fired three times at the man, who returned the shots.

"Then, the revolver being empty, Salih Bey sprang back into the Princess's bedroom and snatched up a revolver with which she, like the other members of the family, had been provided. He went into the hall again and with the first shot put a bullet through the assassin's brain. The man was a Mussulman. He had a copy of the Koran and 200 francs ($40) in his pocket.

"Meanwhile the Princess had hurried down five flights of the servants' staircase to send the concierge for the police.

"The revolver with which the assassin was armed was a regulation Turkish police weapon. He had another in his pocket and also a Turkish dagger of the kind which was used in the murder of Zekki Bey in Turkey two years ago.

"Of course, my life is still in danger. The present Turkish Government is made up of brigands and assassins, who stick at nothing to remove an enemy. Some of my friends are going to see the French Premier to-morrow and urge him to order the expulsion of nine Turkish assassins who are staying in Paris."

The valet has since died.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—Gen. Mehmed Cherif Pasha is one of the chiefs of the Turkish Radical Party.

Cherif is the editor of a newspaper published here in the interests of Constitutionalism in Turkey and he also directs a widespread agitation in Turkey.

The police had not been able, up to a late hour to-night, to discover the identity of Cherif Pasha's assailant. They are of the opinion that he had accomplices, and an open warrant for their apprehension has been issued.

Clerks in the shop where the man's clothing was purchased identified the body as that of a man who came in company with two other foreigners, who spoke French with difficulty. He refused to have the clothes delivered, and took them away with him.

The assassin's pistol is of the type used by the Turkish police and is stamped with the Government mark.

In a statement given out to-night Cherif Pasha says:

"Three weeks ago Azim Bey, ex-Chief of Police of Constantinople, arrived in Paris. By chance I learned he had orders to suppress me. Ten days ago Azim Bey went to London, but left his men behind with instructions to carry out their mission. As they delayed, I presume that Enver Bey, who is a typical man of action, sent them a sharp reminder and ordered them to do their work."

An attendant at a hotel to-night identified the body of Cherif Pasha's assailant, which is now at the Morgue, as that of a man who called on Azim Bey, a guest at the hotel on Dec. 24, and was closeted with him for an hour and a half. Azim Bey, while at the hotel, was accompanied by two men, one of whom mounted guard at the door of his room and the other at the end of the corridor, allowing no one to enter. Whenever Azim Bey left the hotel the guards accompanied him.

MILLION IS PAID OUT TO ALTMAN WORKERS

Special Bequests to 400 Have Been Paid—$25,000,000 to $30,000,000 for Charity.

More than a million dollars has been distributed among employes of B. Altman & Co., under the will of Benjamin Altman, who died on Oct. 7 last. The last of 400 checks in payment of Mr. Altman's bequests to his employes were handed out yesterday by the executors of his will. Each employe who had been in the service of the dry goods house founded by Mr. Altman for fifteen years got a check for $1,000.

Those who had been employed for eighteen years got $1,500 each, and those who had served twenty years got $2,500 each. Checks for $5,000 each were given to several employes who were named by Mr. Altman in his will, including Jennie Stack, Lillian McKeon, Charles Haynor, Etta Witte, Abraham Trier, Emanuel Trier, Benjamin Jenkins, J. H. Doran, and Friedrich Schmidt. Gifts of stock were made to Frank L. Nugent, Milton M. Klein, James H. Thompson, Alfred P. Boehm, William Scherer, and Flavius J. Perry, who already had holdings in the Altman Company. The names of the employes who received the $2,500, $1,500, and $1,000 checks were not made public.

In accordance with Mr. Altman's wish the inheritance tax on these bequests, if one is required to be paid, will be met out of his residuary estate, since it was his desire that the gifts should be free of any tax.

The Trustees of the Altman Foundation, M. Friedsam, George R. Read, Dr. Bernard Sachs, and Edwin J. Steiner, will soon receive from the estate the legacies provided in the will, estimated at between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000, to be applied to the support of such philanthropic and charitable institutions as the Trustees may select.

The announcement was made that the Trustees, who have absolute discretion in applying the funds coming into their hands as income, will soon meet to organize and formulate plans for the benefit of the Altman employes and of various charitable institutions.

The Altman Foundation, which was created by a special act of the last Legislature, will enjoy the income of the greater part of the stock in B. Altman & Co. In his will Mr. Altman provided for the continuance of his business along the lines on which he had conducted it.

Final arrangements for the transfer of the business are being held up by legal formalities. One Trustee has yet to be elected. The estate has not been appraised for inheritance tax purposes and some interesting questions will come up on the appraisal.

Mr. Altman's executors say that since the purpose of the Altman Foundation is philanthropic, the great bulk of the estate is not taxable. They hope to convince the Transfer Tax Appraiser and the State Controller of this, though there is a possibility that the unusual nature of the foundation, including the employes of B. Altman & Co. among its beneficiaries, and not operating any charitable work of its own, but merely aiding other charities, may move the Controller to ask the Surrogates' Court to assess a tax upon the transfer of the B. Altman & Co. stock to the foundation.

BRADLEY GIRL ARRESTED.

Sent to a Sanitarium in Mobile—Foster Held on Two Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

MOBILE, Jan. 14.—Joel M. Foster, the poultryman of Brown's Mills, N. J., who eloped with Delilah Bradley, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Richard Jones, Jr., this afternoon on the charge of violating the White Slave act. His attorney waived examination, and the prisoner was held for the Federal Grand Jury in $5,000 bond, which was signed by W. P. Mayer, a real estate man of this city, formerly of Chicago. United States District Attorney Pitts announced that Delilah Bradley would be held as principal witness for the Government under bond in the same amount, but that under no circumstances would he allow the defendant to furnish the bond. "Her father is her custodian, morally and otherwise," said Mr. Pitts, "and he can sign her bond and take her in charge." This Mr. Bradley did.

No sooner had Foster returned to the hotel where he is stopping than Detective Warren Burch served a warrant on him, charging him with adultery. In the meanwhile Chief of Police F. W. Crenshaw had placed the girl under arrest on the same charge as she came out through a side entrance of the Government building. Both were taken to the police station.

From there the girl was sent immediately to the Inge-Bondurant Sanitarium. While in the office of Chief Crenshaw she walked to and fro in a condition of such wrathful excitement that a trained nurse was called to take charge of her. Her father was unable to control her.

Foster was released after furnishing bond in another $5,000. To-night he gave out a long statement embodying the charges against another man contained in the affidavit made by the girl yesterday, which her father pronounced false. He expresses his intention to marry her as soon as he is divorced.

SUES FOR WIFE'S LOSS.

R. M. Shaw Wants $50,000 Damages from Richard Darling.

Robert Marsden Shaw, banker of 20 Broad Street, and a son of Mrs. Vivian M. Shaw of Morristown, N. J., has brought suit against Richard Darling, President of the Acme Safe Company, charging that Darling "stole" his wife from him. Mrs. Shaw was Katherine Earl Lyall, daughter of Mrs. E. Drummond Lyall and niece of Edward and Harwood Drummond. Mr. Darling will deny the charge as preposterous and will assert that Mrs. Shaw left her husband before he met her. The suit is for $50,000.

The Shaws were married last May and young Mr. Shaw has retained for the purposes of the present suit Joseph A. Shay, who was the lawyer for ex-Police Lieut. Becker after Becker went to the death house at Sing Sing.

DR. SPITZKA'S BRAIN WEIGHS 1,400 GRAMS

Dead Alienist's Wish That It Be Examined Carried Out by His Son.

The brain of Dr. Edward Charles Spitzka, the neurologist and alienist, who died on Tuesday at his residence, 66 West Seventy-third Street, was removed on Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Yesterday it was placed on the scales. It weighed 1,400 grams. It has since been placed for preservation in a chemical solution.

The removal of the brain and its preservation in the interest of science was done in accordance with a promise exacted by the late Dr. Spitzka from his son, Dr. Edward A. Spitzka of Philadelphia. Dr. Edward Charles Spitzka in 1891 founded the American Anthropometric Society, the members of which agreed to bequeath their brains to the society for scientific study. Since the foundation of the society many of its members have died, and generally the compact with the society has been regarded, so that it has been possible to make a scientific examination of the brains of many prominent men. In many cases, however, relatives have intervened to prevent the fulfillment of the agreement.

In the case of Dr. Spitzka, some members of his family were unfavorable to the plan of giving his brain to the society for scientific purposes. The plan was carried out, nevertheless, because of a pledge between Dr. Spitzka and his son, Dr. E. A. Spitzka, that the survivor should cause the removal and the scientific study of the brain of the first of the two to die.

The examination of the brain of Dr. Spitzka, which will require a period of several months, will be made by his son, who is the prosector of the American Anthropometric Society. When the examination will begin, the son could not say last night.

As the prosector of the society, it has fallen to Dr. E. A. Spitzka to make anatomical studies of the brains of a number of its deceased members, including Dr. William Pepper, Dr. A. J. Parker, Joseph Leidy, Philip Leidy, Dr. Harrison Allen, Prof. E. D. Cope, Dr. Persifor Frazer, Dr. H. H. Scudder, Dr. John H. Musser, and many others.

Such study of brains includes microscopic examination, projection drawings of sections, and research into the comparative size and development of the different parts.

The removal and weighing of the brain of Dr. Spitzka was done by Dr. John H. Larkin of 498 West 130th Street. Dr. E. A. Spitzka said last night that age and long illness of his father caused a reduction in the weight of brains, and that his father's brain would have been considerable heavier than 1,400 grams had he been younger and not wasted by illness.

The average weight of the human brain is 1,300 grams. Of the brains of noted men that have been weighed, the heaviest was that of Ivan Turgenieff, which weighed 2,012 grams. The brain of Daniel Webster weighed 1,518 grams.

WOMEN'S FINANCIAL DAILY.

New Venture to be Started by the Women's Bank of Berlin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—A novel social function will take place on Saturday at the Women's Bank of Berlin, the only financial institution in the world organized and conducted exclusively by and for women.

To celebrate five years of extraordinarily successful existence the bank has invited several hundred distinguished guests to attend a breakfast at its premises in the West End. They will listen to a recital of the institution's prosperous history and future plans.

One of the day's events will be the announcement that the bank has decided to issue the world's first financial daily for women. It will start with an edition of 30,000, which represents the bank's present list of shareholders and clients. The paper will be devoted not only to the bank's interests, but to all financial and commercial topics of feminine interest.

The bank's assets now amount roundly to $250,000. It paid a 5 per cent. dividend in 1912. What will be distributed for 1913 will be made public on Saturday.

The advertising matter of the bank emphasizes the fact that 9,000,000 German women are engaged in trade and industry, and that if even a percentage of them band together for financial purposes they would represent a great capitalistic power.

DANCE 4,300 YEARS OLD.

"Tatao," a Chinese Measure, to be Introduced in Place of the Tango.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—A real successor to the tango has at last been found and officially approved. It hails from a most unexpected quarter.

The Paris Academy of Dancing Masters announces that the new dance is already being taught and prophesies for it a great success. The new dance is the "tatao," which has been popular in China since the year 2450 B. C.

"Tatao" is a Chinese word which means "sweetness" and "harmony." The dance is a slow, graceful measure, full of quaint steps and languorous, dipping movements. M. Lefort of the Paris Academy of Dancing Masters, who is introducing it, says:

"It is quite easy to dance and to learn. It is an essentially harmonious and dignified measure. The feet move in one and two measure, and many of the graceful steps are seen in the tango. Balancing on the foot, the slide, and the dip, with one knee almost touching the ground, are included in this old Chinese measure."

LEADERS ACCEPT WILSON TRUST PLAN

Interstate Trade Board, with Large Supervisory Powers, Conspicuous on Programme.

WILL AIM TO CONCILIATE

Personal Guilt Principle to be Established—Individuals to Have Larger Rights to Sue.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—In conferences to-day with the Senators and Representatives who will have charge of the anti-Trust legislation in Congress, President Wilson emphasized the point that he wanted the subject to be considered in a spirit of conciliation and with due regard for business interests. The President's coming address on anti-trust measures, it was brought out, will trust measures, it is asserted, will set forth clearly that the proposed interstate commission will be mainly a body for making inquiries and giving information, and that it will not have power to fix prices for the sale of trust commodities or exercise such supervision over industrial affairs as the Interstate Commerce Commission has over railroad rates.

At the same time the legislative programme is intended to be of a far-reaching character. Its salient points are:

1. Prohibition of interlocking directorates and "communities of interests" in interstate corporations, the law being so framed as to reach persons not serving as Directors of supposedly competitive concerns, but, nevertheless, exercising control over these concerns through dummy Directors or otherwise.
2. Formation of an interstate trade commission, having supervisory and regulatory powers, but without powers to fix prices.
3. Extension of the period of the statute of limitations, fixed by the Sherman law at three years, to five years.
4. Passage of a supplemental provision to the Sherman law giving individuals the right to begin suits in equity under that act against combinations in alleged restraint of trade and commerce. Under existing law only the Federal Government has this right, and at present individuals may only sue for damages.
5. Addition to the Sherman law granting to individuals the right of intervention if Government suits bring it under that law.
6. Another addition to the Sherman law providing that individuals suing for damages under that law shall have the benefit of any findings by the courts or otherwise in any suits that the Government has brought under that law. As the law now stands, an individual suing an alleged illegal combination or monopoly for damages must from start to finish prove his case showing that the Sherman law has been violated. But under the proposed supplemental provision, by utilizing findings in Government suits, the individual would only have to prove his damages.

It is said also that there will be an elimination of all uncertainty as to what constitutes a restraint of trade under the Sherman law through specific definition of monopolies and trusts; that all possibility of "immunity baths" for offending corporations or individuals will be removed, and that provision will be made for penalties based on individual responsibility and personal guilt.

The Interstate Trade Board is to be a sort of committee on conciliation. It is apparently based on the idea that the Attorney General's policy of endeavoring to induce alleged illegal combinations to dissolve and reorganize voluntarily will be consistently successful. The Trade Board will be expected to assist the Attorney General in this work and when such work is not provided it will seek to make itself acquainted with the affairs of industrial corporations to ascertain whether the laws are being observed.

As it is understood now, the board will be an extension of the Bureau of Corporations, and there is reason to believe that Joseph E. Davies, the present Commissioner of Corporations, will be its Chairman if Congress enacts this proposed legislation. Mr. Davies is in the full confidence of President Wilson in the drafting of the anti-trust legislation programme, and is to have an intimate part in the arrangements for putting the proposed new statutes into operation.

Significant Talk of Newlands.

An inkling of the purposes the President and his Congressional advisers have in mind in the suggested formation of the Interstate Trade Board was given to-night in a statement by Senator Newlands of Nevada, Chairman of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, who was one of those called into consultation by the President today in connection with the anti-trust measures. While declining to discuss his conference at the White House, Mr. Newlands announced his continued advocacy of his own bill for an industrial commission.

"I still believe," said Mr. Newlands, "that the organization of such a commission would be a most efficient instrumentality for bringing 'big business' in harmony with them. Such a commission with powers of publicity, investigation, and correction, would be of great service in effecting compliance with the law without resort to the courts and also of service to the courts and the Attorney General in the dissolution and reorganization of corporations organized in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

"Such a commission, while having no power to give immunity, would be an effective agent in speedily adjusting the organization of big corporations which are now showing a desire to conform to the law. This course would be conducive to industrial peace, under which big business can go on without violent readjustments prejudicial both to the public and themselves."

The first conference at the White House to-day was attended by Chairman Clayton of the House Committee on the Judiciary and Representatives Carlin, Webb, and Floyd of Arkansas, Democratic members of that committee. Late this afternoon the President had a conference with Chairman Newlands and the Democratic Senators on the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. To the Senators and Representatives who saw him the President sketched his forthcoming address on anti-trust legislation and found his visitors in thorough accord with his ideas.

The Trade Board as provided for in the proposed law will consist of five members, not more than two of whom shall be of the same political party, thus making it a bipartisan body similar to the Interstate Commerce Commission. One of its functions will be to see whether decrees of the Federal Courts for the dissolution of combinations in restraint of trade are being observed in letter and spirit. Thus the board would take out of the hands of the Attorney General his present inquiry into the allegation that

TRAIN FROZE TO RAILS.

Had to be Thawed Out Before It Could Leave Saratoga.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 14.—The Delaware and Hudson train due to leave Saratoga for this city at 7 o'clock this morning froze to the rails and had to be thawed out, which consumed half an hour.

Reports from Saratoga are that the record cold weather occurred last night, the mercury dropping to forty-five degrees below zero at Wilton. In Saratoga Village it was thirty-five degrees below zero.

DEMAND WASHINGTON WILL.

Bill in Virginia Legislature Authorizes Gov. Mann to Act.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 14.—Soon after Lieut. Gov. J. Taylor Ellyson called the State Senate to order at 12 o'clock today, Senator R. E. Thornton of Fairfax County introduced a bill directing Gov. Mann to communicate with J. P. Morgan and demand the return to Virginia of the will of Martha Washington, which was taken from the archives of Fairfax County during the war.

The bill directs that in the event of failure to obtain the paper by courtesy, the Governor of Virginia begin suit in the United States Court.

An effort to have the bill placed on its passage failed, and the measure will come up in due course of time.

AMERICANS TIRE OF CANADA.

In Six Years Exodus Has Almost Equaled Volume of Arrivals.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—While the large immigration into Canada from the United States is well known, having been dwelt upon frequently, little mention has been made during the last six years of the fact that the exodus the other way also has been heavy.

The number coming cross the line to settle in Canada numbered 618,112; but the number crossing from Canada in the same period to become permanent residents of the United States was 594,919. Thus Canada's net gain in the six years was only 23,193.

A very considerable portion of the exodus was made up of Americans who had settled here but were returning to their own country. These numbered 22,232 in 1910, but in 1913 the number had increased to 54,497.

BECKER NAMED IN WILL.

Shares in Mother's Estate—His Address 354 Hunter St., Ossining.

Charles Becker, former police Lieutenant and convicted murderer of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, is a beneficiary under the will of his mother, Mrs. Mary Becker, who died on Dec. 8. The will was filed for probate yesterday. Mrs. Becker was never told of her son's arrest and conviction in the Rosenthal case, but believed that he was in business on the Pacific Coast.

In Mrs. Becker's will, drawn up eleven months before she died, an estate of $3,500 is divided among her children and grandchildren, each child receiving one-ninth of the estate, and each grandchild one-eighteenth. The beneficiaries are Paul, Jackson, John, and Charles Becker, sons; Elizabeth Neuberger and Catherine Geuither, daughters; Edward and John Meyrauch, grandsons, and Laura and Mary Meyrauch, Mary Roberts, and Maud Shaw, granddaughters.

In the petition filed with the will Charles Becker's address is given as 354 Hunter Street, Ossining, N. Y.

BERING COAL FAILS IN TEST.

Navy Finds the Alaskan Product Useless for Its Purposes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Coal taken from the Bering River field in Alaska and tried experimentally by the American Navy to determine its fitness for naval uses was a complete failure, according to testimony given before the House Committee on Naval Affairs today by Rear Admiral R. S. Griffin, chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering of the Navy Department.

This coal was mined by a naval expedition last Summer and thoroughly tested both on board the cruiser Maryland and at the steam engineering laboratory at Annapolis. Chemically, the Bering River coal appeared to be better than the famous Pocahontas coal, but when the Alaskan coal was tested it failed utterly to give the anticipated results. This was very disappointing to the officers of the navy, who felt that the results of these tests would have an important bearing upon the supply of coal for the navy in Pacific waters and upon the commercial supply of coal on the West Coast.

BERNHARDT IN THE LEGION.

Actress Decorated at Last—Players Give Her Diamond Cross.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—Sarah Bernhardt was decorated to-night with the Legion of Honor. Mme. Bernhardt had been nominated many times by various Ministers of Instruction, notably M. Briand, but the Chancery had always rejected the nomination for reasons not made public. It is understood that the same objections were opposed on the present occasion, only to be withdrawn on the direct intervention of President Poincaré.

The news of the honor accorded to Mme. Bernhardt caused great rejoicing in literary and artistic circles. Hundreds of telegrams of congratulation poured in on her from all parts of the world.

The members of her company gave her a cross set with brilliants.

PAY GAME LAW FINES.

Louis Sherry and William E. Corey Settle with Conservation Board.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Louis Sherry, the New York restaurant man, and William E. Corey, formerly head of the Steel Trust, to-day settled with the Conservation Commission their fines for violation of the game law.

It was shown that Mr. Corey had in his possession in the closed season at the Metropolitan Club of New York eleven partridges and a quarter of venison. Possession of the birds cost him $150 and the venison $50.

Mr. Sherry paid $10 for possessing venison, from which the legal tag had been removed. His butcher pleaded ignorance of the law.

To-day.

It will be cloudy and a little warmer, the weather forecaster says, probably with local snow at night.

Eight more persons, four women and four men, died in New York City yesterday as a result of the bitter cold weather, and two names were added to the list of victims from nearby points in New Jersey. This brings the death toll in the greater city in the last two days to eleven and in the metropolitan district to fifteen.

The below zero weather that began at 7 o'clock Tuesday night continued until 9 o'clock yesterday morning. At 2 A. M. the mercury reached 5 degrees below, the lowest January register in the history of the Weather Bureau, with the single exception of Jan. 10, 1875, when the thermometers registered 6 degrees below.

After 9 o'clock yesterday morning, however, a moderation in the rigorous conditions that had prevailed became more and more pleasantly noticeable, and if the Weather Bureau has predicted correctly there will be no more weather of the below zero variety for at least several days to come. During the day the mercury climbed steadily, until at 4 P. M. it had reached 19 degrees above, but then with the approach of night it began to descend again, reaching 13 degrees at 9 o'clock last night, with a possibility of a still further decrease to 10 or 9 degrees above by this morning.

Great Rush for Food.

The suffering in the city and its environs still continues, and last night the rush for food and shelter on the part of the unfortunate was just as great as it had been for the two previous nights. At the municipal lodging house capacity was reached by 8 o'clock, and at 10 o'clock more than 1,000 homeless men, who had been unable to get accommodations in the city's big home for the homeless had been sent to the charities pier and the city steamboats, moored alongside it, for shelter. The Salvation Army, the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, the Bowery Mission, and many other institutions cared for perhaps 3,000 more persons who sought shelter of them.

The first of the deaths due to exposure reported to the police was that of Mrs. Mary Hickey, an octogenarian, who was found frozen in the airshaft of the tenement house at 168 East Eighty-sixth Street early yesterday morning. The old woman had occupied a small apartment on the second floor. She had been ill several days, and the police said that the evidence indicated that she had wandered into the basement and then into the airshaft while in a delirium. The body was found by the janitor when he went to the shaft to get an ash can.

The second death reported was that of Patrick Noonan, a carpenter, who lived over a saloon at 353 Broome Street. Noonan had a lighted gas stove in his room, and it is believed that during Tuesday night the gas froze and later thawed, the fumes pouring out. He was found dead in bed by the proprietor of the saloon.

Second Gas Victim.

James Morgan, who had a furnished room in the house at 338 Avenue A, also left a gas stove burning in his room when he retired Tuesday night. During the night the gas froze, and then thawed out later. Morgan was overcome by the fumes and was dead when Dr. Jack of Bellevue Hospital got to the house in response to an ambulance call.

The body of a woman known as Miss Walters was found in a room on the ground floor of the tenement at 320 East 121st Street. The body, fully dressed, was discovered frozen on the floor. Dr. Roohan of Harlem Hospital said that the woman had undoubtedly died of exposure. The body was removed to the Morgue.

In the hallway of a vacant house at 106 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, Andrew Gray, a homeless man, 62 years old, was picked up early in the morning. He was unconscious and died within an hour after he was removed to the Kings County Hospitatl.

There is a stable at Johnson Avenue and Varick Street, Brooklyn, and in a stall of it yesterday morning lay the body of John Kipple, another homeless unfortunate. The man had probably been dead several hours when the body was discovered.

A poorly clad woman, wearing neither hat nor coat, was noticed by several persons walking in Franklin Street, in the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn, late in the afternoon. It was evident that she was very ill. In front of 153 Franklin Street she tottered and fell to the sidewalk. An ambulance was summoned from the Williamsburg Hospital, but she died before she reached the hospital. Her identity has not yet been established.

Drops Dead on Elevated.

Joseph E. Sackman, 55 years old, a tailor, living at 1,284 Boston Road, dropped dead of heart disease aggravated by the extreme cold, on a Second Avenue Elevated train.

He boarded a southbound train at 169th Street and was forced to stand on the platform. At 161st Street, the crowd having thinned to some extent, Sackman went inside, and as the train began to move again he dropped into the arms of one of the passengers. The train was stopped and the man was removed, while a call was sent for an ambulance. Dr. Weinberg of Lebanon Hospital, who responded to the call, pronounced the man dead.

In the Kings County Hospital, and both near death, are Mrs. Henrietta Gennage, a widow, 70 years old, of 324 Broadway, Brooklyn, and her invalid son, Ernest, 45 years old. The mother and son were found in their poorly furnished apartment, both of them unconscious, in the morning. They had been without fuel or heat during all the zero weather, it was said.

Collapses While Seeking Job.

Minna Tolestrano, 19 years old, went to a factory building at Third Avenue and Third Street, Brooklyn, seeking work. There were many others also in line at 7 A. M. The girl was very weak from lack of proper nourishment and exposure to the cold. Suddenly after standing in line about an hour she fell unconscious to the street. She was taken to the Kings County Hospital in a serious condition.

Daniel Sando, 18 years old, of 310 East 107th Street, was overcome while at his work at 129 West 101st Street. He was removed to the Knickerbocker Hospital, where he was found to be seriously affected by exposure.

William Hennessey, 63 years old, who lives at 236 West Sixty-fifth Street and is an attendant at Riverside Park, was overcome at Seventy-second Street and Riverside Park. An ambulance was called from the Polyclinic Hospital and the man taken there.

While on a shopping tour Mrs. Delia Tibbetts, 35 years old, of 403 East 135th Street, collapsed on the street opposite 346 East 125th Street. An ambulance was summoned from the Harlem Hospital, where the woman was attended by Dr. Keffelbaum.

Among the most severe cases reported was that of Sophie Nootschwisky, 64 years old, of 100 East 110th Street, who was overcome while on her way to work. An ambulance was called and she was afterward taken to her home.

The low temperature was indirectly the cause of another serious case reported to the police. Jacob Strauss, 42 years old, a street sweeper, of 435 East Ninth Street, while at work at Fourteenth Street and Avenue A, slipped on the icy street and was unable to get out of the way of a large automobile, which struck him, causing a fractured skull. The injured man was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

35 Alarms of Fire.

Between midnight and noon yesterday thirty-five alarms of fire were sounded in Manhattan alone. At Fire Headquarters it was said that many of the fires were due to people trying to thaw out frozen water pipes by piling burning paper and other rubbish around them. Only one of the fires was of more than one alarm. Twelve of the alarms were turned in when the mercury was hovering around the 4 degree below mark.

One of the worst of the fires endangered the lives of more than 600 persons in the buildings at 103 and 105 Bowery. The fire was discovered in the rear of the restaurant, at 103 Bowery, a few minutes after 2 A. M. The lodgers were driven into the street, all of them scantily clad, and the suffering was intense. Scores were in their bare feet. A second alarm was turned in before the firemen got the blaze under control. Doctors from Gouverneur and other hospitals in the district kept a close watch on the shivering crowd. None, however, was overcome so far as the police records show.

In another fire that was discovered in the cellar of the tenement house at 211 Eldridge Street, 300 tenants were driven into the street. This fire occurred at 7 A. M. The blaze was quickly extinguished, and the tenants were soon back in their flats trying to thaw out after their half hour's exposure to the bitter cold.

Fifteen families were routed out of the apartment house on the southeast corner of Sixty-first Street and Columbus Avenue at 4 A. M. This fire started in the basement, and was quickly put out after the firemen arrived.

At about the same time another fire started in the rear of the drug store on the ground floor of the Glendenning apartment hotel, at Amsterdam Avenue and 103d Street.

There are about 150 persons living in the Glendenning, and as a result of the excitement following the order to tenants to leave the building William J. Willett, a retired decorator, who lived on the third floor with his wife, suffered a hemorrhage of the brain. He died before medical aid could be sommoned. The fire proved a stubborn one and did about $3,000 damage.

Despite the moderation in the temperature there was no considerable decrease in the number of men and women who applied for shelter and food at the city and private charitable institutions. At midnight last night Supt. Yorke of the Municipal Lodging House said that more than 1,800 persons had sought relief and that all had been cared for. Of this number thirty-three were women and eight little children.

City to Care for Homeless.

The cold wave that is now passing has brought home to the City Government the fact that it has a serious problem to solve in caring for the thousands of homeless persons who are rendered helpless in such weather as has prevailed during the last few days. Mayor Mitchel has taken up the matter and last night it was announced from the City Hall that a plan of co-operation between the city departments for the care of the homeless in bitter cold weather had been worked out. The announcement giving the details of this plan is as follows:

The Mayor this afternoon announced the first striking illustration of his plan for closer co-operation between the city departments. It is in connection with the care of the homeless men and women out of work who apply to the Municipal Lodging House for food and shelter. The heads of the Departments of Charities, Correction, Docks, Police, Fire, and Streets are all working together in a plan to provide for these homeless men and women who are out of work.

The Department of Charities is prepared to take care of 610 men and 40 women and children at its Municipal Lodging House, where these unfortunate people receive hot coffee, bread, and bean porridge, and a comfortable bed, and are given their breakfast of coffee, bread, oatmeal, and milk. The applications for shelter for men, however, have been exceeding the capacity of the lodging house at the rate of about 1,000 each night.

Commissioner McKay of the Police Department has co-operated by sending special officers to help take care of the overflow on the boats and in the waiting rooms of the Department of Charities, and also to see that the men are not disturbed in their sleep and their pockets are not picked by a few of the less thrifty. Last night Inspector Schmittberger was on hand with some of his men, under orders of Police Commissioner McKay, to open up the station houses of the department if the overflow could not be cared for by the Charities Department, but this was unnecessary.

Arrangements have been made with Commissioner R. A. C. Smith of the Dock Department for the use of the recreation pier at the foot of East Twenty-fourth Street, and arrangements for inclosing this have been completed, and Commissioner Adamson of the Fire Department has worked out plans and given his personal approval for its heating. The Charities Department is installing equipment for heating and for feeding the men, and for the first time this overflow will be taken care of with beds instead of having to sleep on the floor with newspapers for mattresses, as in the past.

It is the rule of the Charities Department that men cannot be lodged more than three consecutive nights in any one month, but owing to the severity of the weather, Commissioner John A. Kingsbury of the Charities Department has made arrangements with Commissioner Featherson of the Street Cleaning Department so that men who are willing to work may be harbored for a longer period.

Work has been provided for these men through the co-operation of Commissioner Featherson of the Street Cleaning Department. Tickets were issued this morning and the men who had used the lodging house for more than three nights having these tickets were entitled to work on the streets for a period of three hours. These tickets when returned punched by the foreman of the Street Cleaning Department indicating that work had been performed entitle the holders to further meals and lodging. By this arrangement the Charities Department can furnish food and lodging to homeless men for more than three nights and during the time when the weather is so unusually severe.

Commissioner Kingsbury announced last night that he had completed arrangements with Dock Commissioner Smith to have the recreation pier at the foot of East Twenty-fourth Street fitted up for the accommodation of the homeless. Stoves are to be installed and sleeping arrangements sufficient for 1,000 persons will be provided for. The pier will be ready for use, it was said, by to-morrow night.

Liners Covered With Ice.

Three passenger liners arrived yesterday covered with ice and snow. In the rigging of each ship was a mass of icicles that reached as high aloft as the foretop and made the crow's nest look like a huge ball of ice. The decks were from three to six inches deep in frozen snow that had to be broken away with axes by the longshoremen before they could get to the hatches to hoist the baggage out of the hold.

Capt. Charles Polack of the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, which was twenty-four hours late from Bremen and brought 306 first, 299 second, and 663 steerage passengers and mails, said that the blizzard he passed through on Tuesday was the worst he had ever experienced at sea.

"For fourteen hours," he said, "we had a blinding snowstorm, with a gale blowing at eighty miles, and it was impossible to see a ship's length ahead. There was a mountainous sea, with a heavy swell."

Capt. S. W. Plunkett of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Tagus, which came in from Southampton via the West Indies, with all gear on deck frozen, said that in the snow squalls the velocity of the wind reached ninety miles at time. Crossing the Gulf stream early Tuesday morning the temperature of the air was 11 and that of the water 42, which caused a dense mist to form through which it was impossible to see even the funnels from the bridge, he averred.

Capt. Ernst J. Tarnow of the Hamburg-American steamer Prinz Joachim, which arrived from the tropics of the West Indies, glistening in the sun like a gigantic Christmas toy ship, said that he had never been so cold before in his life. As he spoke to the reporters on the iceclad bridge deck his teeth chattered audibly.

MAKE CHARITY APPEALS.

Children's Aid Society and A. I. C. P. Busy with Relief Work.

Cornelius N. Bliss, President of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, issued a statement yesterday in which he stated that the society had increased its emergency relief staff to meet the conditions due to the cold weather. Any person who knows of any family in real need may communicate with the society's Bureau of Relief at 105 East Twenty-second Street. The telephone number is 348 Gramercy. The society is prepared to give immediate relief to any case of great suffering.

"We are receiving," said Mr. Bliss, "many appeals for coal and clothing and any help from the public supplying these necessities will be greatly appreciated. The association is receiving daily more than 100 applications for assistance, and at the present time has nearly 4,000 needy families in its care."

The Children's Aid Society issued an appeal for money and clothing for the 12,000 children attending the society's industrial schools, and also for the families of those children. Contributions for immediate relief may be sent to Edwin G. Merrill, Treasurer, 105 East Twenty-second Street.

FIND BODY INCASED IN ICE.

Engineer Thought to Have Fallen Through Frozen Reservoir.

Special to The New York Times.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Jan. 14.—The body of Andrew Miller, 23 years old, was found incased in ice late this afternoon shortly after the crew of the tug Tacony brought to shore the limp body of Charles Collins, a carpenter of 10 South Street, New York City, who was almost frozen to death while battling with the icy waves in Staten Island Sound. Collins was rushed to the Perth Amboy Hospital. He is in a precarious condition.

Skaters on the ice-covered reservoir near the Lehigh Valley docks discovered the body of Miller in the ice. Coroner James J. Flynn was called, and after a gang of boys with picks worked for nearly half an hour the body was taken from its frozen grave. Believing that others might have suffered the fate of Miller, Flynn had the two steam shovels of the company clear the reservoir of ice. No trace of any more bodies was found.

INVALID FROZEN TO DEATH.

Mother Who Nursed Her Breaks a Leg and House Fire Goes Out.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Jan. 14.—Susan Jackson, 67 years old, a confirmed invalid, who lived with her mother, Mrs. Sarah B. Jackson, 85 years old, in a cottage at 18 Steuben Street, was found frozen to death to-day. The mother is in the Memorial Hospital in a precarious condition.

Susan Jackson suffered from dropsy and other ailments and had sat in the same invalid's chair for the last two years. She was absolutely helpless and her mother devoted most of her time to taking care of her. Last night Mrs. Jackson was in the kitchen when she tripped and fell. It is believed that one of her legs is broken. The kitchen fire went out and the little cottage became intensely cold.

The daughter appealed to her mother for help, but the older woman explained that she was unable to move. Both women joined in cries for help, but they were unheard, and the daughter sank steadily.

Two neighbors went to the cottage this afternoon to see how the aged women were getting along. They found the daughter dead in her chair, while the mother was lying in a semi-concious condition on the kitchen floor.

GET SLAYER THROUGH COLD.

Cuban Who Killed Woman Forced to Seek Help from the Police.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 14.—For the murder of his landlady yesterday, a murder provoked by the bitter cold, Andrew Rever, a Cuban, was arrested to-day, and his arrest was caused by the cold.

The slaying was done in the kitchen of Mrs. Kate Potts in Pennington when she tried to drive him from the stove, close to which he was seeking what little warmth there was in the house. After the shooting Rever escaped, but wandering abroad in such weather was torture, and, with his ears frozen, Rever went to the Central Police Station for help. They passed him on to the Mercer Hospital, where he was recognized as the man wanted for murder.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 14.—Having been found unconscious from the cold at Perry and Warren Streets early this morning, an unidentified man died in the Central Police Station this afternoon. Several Fatalities—Snow Stops Almost All Marseilles Traffic.

The Prefect of Paris is arranging to place large coke fires in the streets for the homeless, and is distributing food supplies and fuel to the needy.

In the south conditions are even more severe than in the north. Snow has fallen continuously for thirty-six hours, and is still falling at Marseilles, causing the suspension of all traffic, with the exception of a few street cars. Work along the waterfront is almost at a standstill.

Many towns and villages in the country are cut off.

SIEGEL DEPOSITORS GET ASSURANCES

Hear They Will Soon Receive a Substantial Sum and Security for Balance.

MEETINGS TO ARRANGE IT

Senate Committee Lets Siegel Go Without Testifying—Bankers Appeal to Friends and Relatives.

Depositors in the failed private bank of Henry Siegel & Co. saw their first chance of recovery late yesterday afternoon when steps were taken for reorganization and for settling the claims of the bank's depositors immediately. At the instance of the mercantile creditors a conference was called at the office of Pierre Jay, Vice President of the Bank of Manhattan and Chairman of the Committee of Mercantile and Bank Creditors of the Siegel corporations.

Present at this meeting were the lawyers for practically all the interests concerned and Henry Siegel himself.

Beyond expressing the conviction that daylight was beginning to glimmer on the horizon, those present at the conference refused last night to discuss what had taken place there. This, however, was told in a statement issued later in the evening by P. J. Munch, Chairman of the Committee of Ten appointed by the depositors. Mr. Munch said:

> The meeting was held to determine what arrangement agreeable to the Chairman of the Depositors' Committee can be made for the payment of a substantial sum to depositors and when. Another meeting will be held within a week to determine what amount shall be paid and when and to arrange for security for the payment of the balance to the depositors.

Mr. Munch added that the Depositors' Committee of Ten would meet at Coudert Brothers' office to-morrow to fix the terms of the arrangement in question. A report of the present situation will be made at 2 o'clock this afternoon to a meeting of the depositors in the temporary quarters of the Siegel bank at 43 West Thirteenth Street, at which as many depositors as possible are urged to be present.

The first intimation of a turn for the better was given yesterday morning at the hearing into the Siegel bank failure by the Senate Committee on Banks and Banking in the Aldermanic Chamber of the City Hall. Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel, copartners of the bank, and others connected with it and the various Siegel corporations had been subpoenaed to attend the hearing. Mr. Siegel was present, and so was Oscar Prall, Treasurer of the Fourteenth Street Store. Mr. Vogel, it was explained, was in Chicago. Both he and Mr. Siegel, however, were represented by John B. Stanchfield.

Give Siegel More Time.

After Daniel P. Hays, counsel for the Senate Committee, had examined Henry Melville, receiver of the failed bank, bringing out the bank's procedure of receiving deposits and paying out cash on withdrawal slips to depositors, Henry Siegel was called. Mr. Stanchfield arose for his client. He suggested that any examination of Mr. Siegel or the other principals in the case of the bank be suspended for a while, inasmuch as all their efforts were required to reorganize the various concerns and branches under them.

"I am quite as keen as the Chairman of the committee, and I express the heartfelt desire both of Mr. Siegel and Mr. Vogel when I say that these 15,000 depositors of the bank should be paid their deposits," he said. "All legal representatives of the various creditors and depositors are being taken into the confidence of Mr. Siegel with the purpose of reorganizing the various enterprises.

"Your committee may appoint any one to represent you, and I am willing to stipulate that he shall be invited to attend and keep in touch with any conference to be held at any time between Messrs. Siegel and Vogel and their creditors. On this understanding, I ask a suspension of these proceedings as far as Messrs. Siegel and Vogel or any of their employes are concerned."

Daniel P. Hays at once agreed, as counsel for the Senate Committee, and so did Chairman Pollock, suggesting that Mr. Hays be invited to attend the conferences mentioned by Mr. Stanchfield, as the committee's representative.

Figures Are Kept Secret.

William A. Marble, receiver for the Siegel stores, was then called to testify concerning the assets and liabilities of those, inasmuch as that would largely determine the value of the 34,605 shares of the Siegel Stores Corporation Stock, which is the chief collateral security protecting the depositors of the failed bank. Mr. Marble explained that his accountants had had time to go over only the Fourteenth Street Store and Simpson Crawford Company as yet, and that the figures reported in those cases were only tentative. He handed the Chairman of the committee a copy of the sheets showing the assets and liabilities of those two stores, but requested that the information therein contained might be kept private. Senator Pollock agreed to keep it so.

Asked whether there was any prospect of a reorganization of the Siegel enterprises Mr. Marble said:

"So we are told by the creditors' committee. Our duties as receivers are to keep these stores active and alive. By doing that there is apparently a possibility of the creditors reorganizing the stores."

J. P. Munch, Chairman of the Depositors' Committee, was the next witness. He testified that he had been a depositor in the Siegel bank ever since 1908. At that time, he said, he saw in the Siegel bank a glass sign bearing the words: "Members of the American Banking Association."

Mr. Munch said he had spoken to between 3,000 and 4,000 depositors of the bank since its failure, and only one of them, a woman, had told him they thought they had been dealing with a savings bank protected by law. Phil Gross, another depositor, testified that he, too, had labored under the wrong impression that the bank was protected by State law.

Mr. Munch told the committee he had had an interview with Henry Siegel that morning.

"I told him that many of the larger depositors thought they would give him more time if he could prove that he could reorganize. He told me he would be glad to do it, and that as soon as he reorganizes he would pay the depositors something and guarantee to give them the rest as the stores progress. I suggested that he give some written statement to that effect."

This statement was given out by Mr. Siegel's lawyers, Stanchfield & Levy, as a letter to Mr. Munch later in the day. It will be read to the meeting of the depositors this afternoon. The letter said:

> J. Philip Munch, Esq., Chairman Depositors' Committee, 326 Avenue O, Brooklyn, N. Y.
>
> Dear Sir: In reply to your request as to the plans of Messrs. Siegel & Co. for the relief of their depositors, we would say on their behalf that every possible effort is being made toward that end. All of the attorneys representing each of the numerous classes of creditors are most anxious to reach this result. We are working steadily to ascertain the exact financial status of each store and of the firm and to bring all merchandise creditors into an extension agreement under which the stores may be reorganized, and especially to secure moneys from relatives and friends that will provide a substantial cash payment to depositors and improve the security for the payment of the balance.
>
> We are, however, being greatly impeded by the number of proceedings now pending. This reorganization work demands all the time and attention of our clients, as well as the attorneys.
>
> The results will be delayed and perhaps entirely frustrated if we must go through long examinations and legal proceedings, for we cannot attend to these matters without abandoning our work on the reorganization.
>
> Mr. Siegel and Mr. Vogel desire only the chance to work for their creditors, especially the depositors. If they are given the opportunity they will devote themselves entirely to this task, and will work harder for these depositors than they have ever worked for themselves. They are unwilling to allow the depositors to suffer any loss if only they be given the opportunity and assistance of the creditors and courts to prevent it.
>
> We shall endeavor to keep your attorneys informed of our plans and progress, and we trust that your committee may be able to impress on all depositors the great importance of their patient co-operation. Yours very truly, STANCHFIELD & LEVY.

It was learned yesterday that one of the reasons for the sojourn of Frank E. Vogel, one of the partners of the failed bank, in Chicago, was to raise money among the friends and relatives of himself and Mr. Siegel there. Mr. Vogel is a brother-in-law of the late Nelson Morris of Chicago. Besides the relatives and friends of the two partners, it was said substantial help would be rendered by the mercantile creditors themselves to meet the claims of the bank depositors.

It was said yesterday that no further developments had taken place in the District Attorney's office in the Siegel case.

WALL STREET BANKS TO AID.

Senate Committee Issues Many Subpoenas in Investigation.

The State Senate Committee on Banks and Banking, appointed to investigate the subject of private banking with a view to remedial legislation as a result of the conditions disclosed in the failure of the private banking firm of Henry Siegel & Co., shifted at its session in the City Hall yesterday from consideration of the Siegel bank into a broader and more comprehensive investigation of the entire field of private banking throughout the city and State.

When the committee adjourned its session yesterday afternoon, its Chairman, Senator H. W. Pollock, announced that subpoenaes would be served on the following private bankers, to appear and testify when the committee resumes its sessions to-morrow morning: Jacob Gimbel, representing the bank in Gimbel Brothers department store; J. B. Greenhut of the Greenhut-Siegel Cooper Company; Percy Straus of R. H. Macy & Co., Samuel J. Bloomingdale of Bloomingdale Brothers, William H. Porter of J. P. Morgan & Co., James Speyer of Speyer & Co., Jacob H. Schiff or Paul M. Warburg of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Henry Seligman of J. & W. Seligman & Co., S. Jarmulowsky, E. Kass, and many east side bankers.

Senator Pollock said that most of those named he had reason to believe were eager to enlighten the committee on their methods of business. He added that although the Van Tuyl Banking Committee and its sub-committee on private banking has been studying the subject in question for some time and is expected to render a report next week, it was deemed wise to let the present committee take up the investigation at this point, since it, unlike the Van Tuyl committee, could examine witnesses under oath. The Van Tuyl committee, before which some of the leading private bankers have already appeared, will, it is understood, recommend transferring jurisdiction over private banks to the State Banking Department instead of the State Controller.

As a matter of fact, Senator Pollock said, there was at present not even real supervision over such banks vested in the State Controller, for by filing a bond ranging from $10,000 to $100,000 in the discreton of the Controller such banks and bankers under the General Business law became exempt from all further control, and are not even required to file with the Controller from time to time a report of their assets and liabilities, the number of their depositors, or any other facts concerning their business.

SAFEGUARD FOR CLERKS.

Insurance Department to Watch Mutual Aid Societies.

Attorney General Carmody has determined to begin proceedings for the dissolution of the charter of the Mutual Benefit Society attached to the store of Kesner & Co., prior to the dissolution of the firm, in order that the employes may get the money which they had contributed to the fund.

The Insurance Department determined to make an investigation of the conduct and method of management of the various mutual aid associations maintained by the several department stores of the city. The work was assigned by Deputy Supt. Hoey to Chief Examiner Conway, who specifically inquired into the method of collecting dues and assessments on their investment, the segregation of accounts and funds, the percentage of expenses and the legal interest which members had in the balances. It was found that the associations in all the stores were doing a philanthropic work of great scope and merit, and at a minimum cost to the persons concerned in them. These associations have been aided by the firms, and their work was supplemented frequently at the expense of the firms. Some of the stores maintained their own medical staff for the benefit of the employes, and prescriptions were filled free at the drug department of the store.

Some criticism was made, however, of the manner of investing the funds in certain cases where they have been mixed with the accounts of the firm. In other cases the constitution of the association makes no provision for the vesting of the funds in the event of the firm's failure. Treasurers are rarely bonded, and the treasurer in some cases is the store itself. It was recommended that the constitutions should in each case be approved by the Superintendent of Insurance, and that the law be amended to give protection in the very small percentage of cases where abuses are now likely to creep in.

SCOTT GREAT REPORTER.

Explorer's Dying Words Epitomize Journalism, Says F. Matthews.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 14.—In a lecture on "The Citizen and the Press" at Cornell University to-day Franklin Matthews of the teaching staff of the Columbia University School of Journalism characterized Capt. Robert F. Scott, who lost his life in his antarctic polar expedition, as the "foremost reporter of modern times."

Scott, said the speaker, was born and lived and died a reporter, although Scott and the world never realized it. Scott's memory deserved from England as "high a monument as Nelson's," he declared. Mr. Matthews quoted Scott's dying words, "These rough notes and our dead bodies must tell the tale," as a true epitome of the spirit of modern journalism.

LEADERS ACCEPT WILSON TRUST PLAN

the court decrees dissolving the Tobacco Trust had been ineffective.

The board is to have power to undertake such inquiries of its own initiative. Generally, it will work in harmony and co-operate with the Department of Justice. In large measure, as the Attorney General seeks to punish corporations that do not obey the law, the board will endeavor to persuade such corporations to be good, and thus escape an application of the punitive power of the Department of Justice exercised through the courts.

To Address Congress Next Week.

While it was the expectation of those directly concerned that the President would deliver his address to Congress Monday or Tuesday, no definite date for his appearance at the Capitol has been fixed. Much will depend on the progress made with the measures intended to carry his ideas into effect.

Tentative drafts of these bills have been prepared, but it was not decided today whether they should all be embodied in one bill or divided among several bills. It is also to be determined whether the bills shall be amendatory of the Sherman anti-trust law or supplementary to it, or both. President Wilson, however, has expressed the conviction that the Sherman law should be allowed to remain intact, and it is likely that his wish will be followed.

It was made clear to-day that the new legislation should be directed exclusively by the Democratic Party. Republican members of the committees concerned will not be consulted. The Democratic leaders believe that the party will obtain much credit from the new trust legislation, and they are unwilling to share its enactment with their Republican associates in Congress.

The experiment of letting Republican members of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency participate in the preparation of the amended Currency bill enacted did not turn out happily from the Administration's viewpoint, and it is not to be repeated in the disposition of the anti-trust bill or bills.

U. S. TO CONSERVE RADIUM DEPOSITS

Secretary Lane Asserts That It Is to be One of the Policies of the Administration.

HAS DR. H. A. KELLY LECTURE

Baltimore Physician Talks to Fifty Members of Senate and House on Radium Situation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—That it would be the policy of the Wilson Administration to segregate its public lands containing carnotite, pitchblende, and other radium-bearing ores, not only in the interest of humanity, but to prevent such radium wealth as the public domain might contain from being monopolized by private interests, was emphasized to-day by Secretary Lane of the Interior Department.

This emphasis was shown in two ways. First, during a private lecture by Dr. Howard A. Kelly, the radium expert and philanthropist of Baltimore, in the office of Secretary Lane, and, secondly, by the action of the Secretary in sending a letter to Gov. Elias M. Ammons of Colorado repudiating the allegation that the Federal Government in its contemplated legislation respecting radium had any desire to rob Colorado of its mine radium wells.

In his lectures Dr. Kelly emphasized the importance of preventing the radium wealth of the country from falling into the hands of monopolists who might take advantage of its scarcity to raise the price to almost prohibitive figures.

In his letter to the Governor of Colorado Secretary Lane also asserted that the purpose of the Government in urging the passage of the Foster joint resolution for the withdrawal of public lands containing radium is to prevent monopoly and to develop as large a supply of radium as is possible under government auspices so that it may have the widest use in the hospitals of the country.

Dr. Kelly lectured before fifty members of Congress, by invitation of Secretary Lane.

Those invited were the members of the Senate and House Committees on Mines and Mining and Public Lands. These are the four commmittees directly responsible for the primary consideration of the legislation. Dr. Joseph A. Holmes of the United States Bureau of Mines and Prof. Parsons, its radium expert, also were present.

The newspaper men were not invited and none was present. This was because Dr. Kelly did not care to have it appear that he was in any way seeking self-advertisement. Nor did Dr. Kelly wish to appear unethical to the committee in Baltimore, representing its oldest medical society, which has been discouraging the discussion by surgeons of their medical cases.

Dr. Kelly's lecture was primarily intended to fully acquaint the members of the Senate and House, who are soon to consider the Foster and Ferris Radium bills, as to the various elements entering what has been described by the Government scientists as the "American radium situation." It was supplemented by short talks by Secretary Lane and Drs. Holmes and Parsons on the extent of the known deposits of carnotite in Colorado and Utah.

Dr. Kelly gave a scientific narration of the history, qualities, and properties of radium, and with the aid of stereopticon pictures of cancer cases he had been treating, demonstrated some of the things that could be done with this new element. Dr. Kelly spoke of radium as the miracle of science, and indicated his belief that it was a sure cure for ordinary skin cancers. He showed many pictures of such cures he had himself made.

As to its ultimate possibilities in cancer treatment Dr. Kelly said this remained to be unfolded by the future. The greatest difficulty now was in obtaining enough radium to properly treat the more malignant forms of cancer. Dr. Kelly said he would like to have from twelve to fifteen grams of radium. It was now worth $120 a milligram, or $120,000 a gram. At this price it would cost $1,440,000 to obtain the quantity he would like to own. But Dr. Kelly told the members of the four Congressional committees that, although he had been trying to buy more radium, it could not be obtained in the world's market.

In a reference to the case of Congressman Bremner of New Jersey, a personal friend of the President, who has been receiving the radium treatment in Dr. Kelley's hospital in Baltimore, Dr. Kelly said he would accomplish much better results, he was confident in that case, if he could only obtain more radium. It was made plain in connection with Dr. Kelly's lecture that he was interested in radium primarily as a philanthropist, and was not seeking to make any money out of his treatments. Any income he received from radium treatment, he said, is not being used for his private purposes, but was being put back into the cause of humanity.

Then Dr. Kelly told the Congressional committees he favored the Foster bill, which had been drafted by Secretary Lane's experts, and he thought the Federal Government should do everything within its power, and do it at once, to take over the control of ore radium bearing ores on the public lands, and the extraction of the radium from them. He thought this should be done for the benefit of the whole Nation, so that the Government would see that the radium was distributed where it would do the most good.

Unless this was done, Dr. Kelly said, it would fall into the hands of private individuals who would surely monopolize the output and raise the price. The price had been going up rapidly, Dr. Kelly told the Congressmen.

The letter that Secretary Lane sent today to Gov. Ammons of Colorado was in reply to a statement just made by the Governor to the effect that it seemed that the Federal Government wanted to gobble up every precious mineral deposit in that State. The Governor spoke of about 14,000,000 acres of Colorado land being withdrawn from entry.

Secretary Lane told the Governor these figures were wrong, that 5,000,000 acres represented what had been withdrawn under existing laws, but that included no radium lands. Secretary Lane also told the Governor that the whole purpose of the Government was to obtain and retain control over such public lands as would be necessary to obtain the radium in those lands.

The Secretary denied that the Government wished to tie up any of these lands, but was insistent upon withdrawing such lands as were necessary to obtain radium for the use of the nation and preventing its being monopolized.

PASTOR OPPOSED DANCING.

The Rev. Mr. Bullard Says Cliques Forced His Resignation.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Jan. 14.—Following a long squabble that ended in his open protest against the introduction of dancing into the parish house and the use of lottering to raise money for the young people's activities, the Rev. Charles B. Bullard has resigned from the pastorate of the Elmwood Presbyterian Church here and declined to reconsider his resignation.

"Because I refused to be muzzled in my denunciation of such sins as gambling and dancing I was lied against," said the minister in explaining his resignation.

It was not, he said, because of his advancing years.

"The real reason why the pews of Elmwood Church are not better filled is to be found in the wranglings and jealousies of ambitious cliques," he added.

CITY BREVITIES.

There was not a quorum at the meeting of the Equal Franchise Society yesterday at its headquarters, 8 East Thirty-seventh Street, where the election of officers was to have taken place, and another meeting has been called for Friday, Jan. 23, at 2:30 P. M.

The managers of the Chemical and Drug Exposition, which will occupy Madison Square Garden next week, have set aside a dance floor for use both afternoons and evenings.

SLAPPED, HE ARRESTED HER

Headen Was Called Annoyer, but Mrs. Read Was Found Guilty.

Complaining that she had "humiliated" him by slapping him in the face, William H. Headen of 406 East 17th Street, Flatbush, followed a woman passenger out of the subway at 18th Street yesterday, caused her arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct and so pressed the complaint in Essex Market Court that she was found guilty. Magistrate Harris suspended sentence.

The woman said she was Mrs. Alice Read, and gave her address as 748 Sterling Place. A woman of that name lived at that apartment house until a few weeks ago.

"There were many empty seats," Mrs. Read testified, "but he simply wanted to sit beside me. At first I paid no attention to him, but when he persisted in his annoyance I told him, 'You have insulted me. If you don't stop I'll slap you.' He only laughed, and I slapped him in the face. 'If you persist I'll slap you again,' I said. He laughed and said, 'Oh, you will, will you?' I said, 'Yes, I will,' and I slapped him again, knocking his hat off."

In his defense, Headen said he had been jammed against Mrs. Read because the car was crowded.

TO LET TRAVELERS VOTE.

Assemblyman Elsner Preparing a Bill for Salesmen and Others.

Discussion of "votes for salesmen" dominated the semi-annual meeting of the Associated Traveling Salesmen of New York, at the Hotel Marseille. It was announced by Assemblyman Mark Elsner of the Seventeenth Assemly District, that he would soon put before the State Legislature a bill which provides that salesmen living in this State may cast their votes in any city, State, or national election wherever they are at the time of election. This bill is said to follow a suggestion made by Champ Clark. It was pointed out that there was a measure now in effect in Kansas whereby Kansans are allowed to participate in State elections when away from home. The bill will be put before the officials of the organization for discussion on Dec. 24.

W. R. Corwine, Secretary of the Clothiers' Association of New York, also spoke on the subject. He said that in civil war times nearly 200,000 soldiers were enabled to participate in the second election of Lincoln, while in the field, and asked if these soldiers were any better qualified to vote than the salesmen or the soldiers and sailors of to-day. It was also brought out at the meeting that there were 600,000 salesmen in this country who lose their right to vote because business took them out of their districts at election time. Beside these men, it was said that several thousand actors, railroad men, postal clerks, and other workers were also deprived of their right to vote for the same reason.

BANKER PRAISES WILSON.

New Currency Law Topic of Speech at Piano Men's Dinner.

Speaking at a dinner of the National Association of Piano Manufacturers and merchants in America, held at the Murray Hill Hotel last night, Newton D. Alling, Vice President of the National Nassau Bank, predicted that the new currency law would remove "the sore spots in our commercial and financial life of which we have been complaining for the past quarter of a century." Mr. Alling described the operation of the law as he thought it would affect the piano industry, and at the close of his remarks paid a tribute to the wisdom of President Wilson.

"There will come a time when bankers in this country, big and little, will rejoice that there is a man in the White House with the understanding and the determination to see the bill through at this critical juncture," he said. "The new banking and currency law will have a beneficial effect on industries and banking, while the removal of an uncertain reserve-carrying system will commend itself to every banker and business man in this country."

W. G. PAYNE GIVES WARNING

He Bids Merchants Beware of Man Calling Himself R. D. Payne.

The police and the Pinkertons have been asked to look for a man passing himself off as Ralph D. Payne, brother of William Garnett Payne, a real estate and insurance broker at 150 Broadway, who, by these representations, has managed to cash a string of bogus checks stamped with bogus certifications. The sufferers have been merchants along Broadway, druggists, haberdashers, and the like.

Mr. Payne, who has no brother Ralph, has made the complaint to the police, and the Fifth Avenue Bank and the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company have put the Pinkertons to work. The checks drawn to "Ralph D. Payne" have been in amounts ranging from $30 to $50, and have been cashed in making small purchases. The man who has been passing these off on the obliging stores has shown a business card with "Representing William Garnett Payne" printed in the corner.

RIGGS ARMOR ALL HERE.

Prof. Dean Says Collection Will Soon Be Set Up.

Prof. Bashford Dean, Curator of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, who arrived yesterday from Europe on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, said that the entire Riggs collection of armor had been shipped in 100 cases to New York. The last shipment of ten cases arrived here a few days ago, he said.

With regard to the arrangement and classification of the armor, Prof. Dean said no plan would be decided upon until Mr. Riggs arrives here next month.

Another passenger was Prof. Riesser, President of the Hansa Bund, who has been invited to New York by the American Bankers' Association. During his stay he will inquire into financial and banking conditions in this country.

One of the Sisters of Charity on the Cobequid was Sister Baptista, a native of St. John, N. B. She was for some time in the convent at Wellesley, Mass.

Nearly All Were Frostbitten.

All those aboard the Cobequid suffered greatly from the intense cold. Most of them were frostbitten and all of those who arrived late to-night showed the effects of exposure to zero weather.

Benumbed with the cold and dazed by their long ordeal, few of the rescued could give an intelligent account of their experiences to-night. One of the officers of the Cobequid said:

"The ship struck Tuesday morning while we were trying to locate the lightship off the Lurcher Shoal. In the blinding snowstorm which prevailed we overshot the mark and brought up on the southeast end of Trinity Ledge. It was low tide, and later in the morning, as the tide rose, it forced us further and further up on the shoal. The steamer began to pound heavily, and in a few minutes the engine room was filled with water. This stopped the dynamos, putting the lighting system and the wireless apparatus out of commission.

"Immediately after the ship struck we sent out an S O S, which was picked up by the Cape Sable wireless station. Later, with the engine room flooded, our operators had to depend entirely on the auxiliary storage batteries. Then the gale carried away the deck connections of the aerials. A temporary connection, which proved unreliable, was fixed up, but an hour later this, too, went by the board. Again we rigged up a connection, but the batteries were growing weaker, and we could send only a faint spark. The puny waves could not reach Cape Sable Station, only ninety miles away, but we were able to pick up the medley of messages regarding ourselves, and knew that we were being searched for in vain off Brier Island, forty miles away in the position we erroneously gave before our wireless failed.

"Early to-day the Canadian Northern liner Royal George, outward bound from St. John, picked up our feeble cry and the rescue followed."

Life Belts Served Out to All.

It was a day and night of terror on the Cobequid. Life belts had been served out to all on board, and when the seas began to break over the ship all hands were ordered below, where they huddled in the cabins. It was feared that the hull would part. This morning's daylight and the knowledge that the wireless appeals for help had been heard gave renewed hope, but the position of the ship grew more dangerous hourly. Up to noon the gale showed no signs of subsiding. The bridge, chart house, companion ways, in fact everything movable on deck, including all but four life boats were washed away.

Various expedients to prevent suffering from cold were adopted. Fires were kindled in an iron bucket, in which holes had been cut to afford a draft. This crude utensil was used to heat water and make tea. One of the crew suffered a broken arm, but this was the only accident.

The Cobequid used three of her own boats in transferring the passengers, and the seamanship of the officers and men who manned them challenged the admiration of the rescue fleet. When the Westport hove in sight the Cobequid put over a small boat in charge of Chief Officer Kirby. In it were placed nine women and children and eight male passengers. It was a dangerous task to get the boat away, for the falls and davits were coated with ice, and it was necessary to beat the running tackle with marlin spikes to free it from the frozen surface. Two other small boats were subsequently safely launched, and all three reached the Westport.

The officers of the Cobequid are: Captain, J. Howson; chief officer, F. W. Kirby; second officer, W. F. Bulleit; third officer, R. F. Powell; purser, R. Houghton; surgeon, W. H. Lister; chief engineer, D. M. Douglas; second engineer, W. Wells; third engineer, A. Forsythe; fourth engineer, G. H. Lang; fifth engineer, H. H. Gladwin; wireless operators, J. W. Hitcher and E. T. Shripton, and chief steward, G. C. Porter.

SCHOONER CREWS SAVED.

One Death Results from Loss of John Paul and Greta in Storm.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Jan. 14.—Survivors from two schooners, the John Paul and the Greta, wrecked in these waters in the recent storm, have found places of safety. Five members of the crew of the John Paul, which sank in Nantucket Sound early yesterday morning, were saved by the crew of the Cross Rip Lightship as they were being swept out to sea. The cook, John Thorr of New York, died from exposure just before the rescue, which was due to the alertness of the lightship's watch, who heard the cries of the men from the Paul and summoned the lightship's crew on deck in time to throw over several lines as the long boat of the Paul swept by.

Capt. C. A. Berriman of St. John, N. B., and all the members of the crew of the British schooner Greta were brought to this port to-day on the tug Nemasket, which took them off their dismasted vessel. The Greta is supposed to have sunk. Besides the Captain the rescued are Fred Churgood, John Olsson, Albert Johannssen, Frank Soderstrom, and Charles Hansen.

FIND THREE BODIES IN BOAT.

Sailors from Steamer Acilia, Which May Have Met Disaster.

VALPARAISO, Chile, Jan. 14.—Two boats containing dead bodies—the second mate and two seamen of the German steamer Acilia—were found to-day in Aguirre Bay, Tierra del Fuego.

The Acilia left Tocopilla, Chile, early in October and later called at Corral, Chile, whence she sailed for Hamburg on Oct. 27. No report of an accident to the Acilia has been received by the authorities. An examination of papers found on the dead sailors is expected to throw light on what happened.

LINER DANIA OVERDUE.

No Answer to Wirless Queries Sent Out from Havana.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 14.—Anxiety is felt here regarding the Hamburg-American Line steamship Dania, which was due here on Monday.

No answers have been received to wireless queries sent out by the company's agents. She was last reported at the Azores.

On the vessel are 300 passengers bound for Havana.

Julius P. Meyer, Assistant General Manager of the Hamburg-American Line and Vice Director of the company in the United States, said last night that he did not think there was any need for anxiety over the delay in the arrival of the Dania at Havana.

ASKS WHO ARE JURORS.

John B. Stanchfield Shows How Many Escape Jury Service.

The first panel Sheriff's Jury held its annual dinner last night at the Hotel Knickerbocker, with Sheriff Grifenhagen as its guest. He was welcomed warmly, and pledged himself to an "honest and business-like service of the people."

The toastmaster was William H. McElroy, who relinquished his functions midway through the evening to Judge Mayer of the United States District Court. Frank R. Lawrence, President of the Lotos Club, was the first speaker, and then John B. Stanchfield traced the history of trial by jury from the days of King Henry II.

"I wonder," he said, "whether the men to whom I am speaking are cognizant of the changes that have taken place in the constituents of the trial jury, that institution which has been regarded for centuries as the greatest bulwark of personal liberty and private property."

Mr. Stanchfield then enumerated the men exempted by law from jury duty as "the clergy, physicians, surgeons, dentists, chemists, embalmers, lawyers, teachers, reporters, officeholders of the nation, State, and city, Captains, engineers, and officers of vessels," &c., and went on:

"Now I ask you what is there left [laughter]—left of men of strong, assertive, patriotic citizenship, who have the interest of the country at stake?"

MRS. WILLIAMS NOW FREE.

Brewer's Daughter Gets Divorce from Chauffeur Husband.

Justice Van Siclen in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday granted an interlocutory decree of divorce to Mrs. Olga Julia Everard Williams, the daughter of the late James Everard, the brewer. William Williams, the husband against whom the decree is issued, was at one time the family chauffeur of the Everards. The couple eloped from the Everard home in Stamford, Conn., in 1910, and were married in Newark, N. J.

Give Wide Choice in Dances.

The Men's League for Women Suffrage, which will hold its "First Voter's Dance" at the Masonic Temple, Clinton and Lafayette Avenues, to-night, has arranged that no one's feelings will be hurt by the character of the dances. It will have two ballrooms, in one of which none but the old dances will be permitted, while in the other the tango, the turkey trot—any of the new dances—can be danced to the heart's content.

Marie Lloyd's Face Burned by Acid.

Special to The New York Times.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Jan. 14.—Marie Lloyd was severely burned about the face last night while removing her make-up after a performance. She sent out from the theatre for a solution she uses for this purpose, but somehow the mixture she got contained a quantity of carbolic acid, which burned her badly when applied. Medical aid, however, was soon available, and the doctor said Miss Lloyd would suffer no permanent injury.

What were your sales in Cincinnati last year?

Did Peters & Co. buy more? or less? Did they buy all your lines? or only one? Which of your salesmen called on them? When? Did you mail them one of the books describing the X-42 line?

What are you doing to interest that other big Cincinnati concern? They usually buy from So-and-so, you know. When did your man call on them? What quotation did he make? What sort of a reception did he get?

What were your total sales in Cincinnati last year? How about the "Anchor" brand? Did it show as healthy an increase in Cincinnati as in Toledo? What advertising did you do? Did it pay?

Mr. Sales Manager, you may not know it, you may not quite believe it, but it is a fact that you could answer every one of these questions—and twice as many more—if you adopted the Library Bureau method of sales records. They put an end to guessing. With them you know where you stand—with every salesman, in every territory, in every line.

Don't forget this: L. B. sales records are just as helpful to a business that confines its sales to this county, or this state, as to one that sells "everywhere."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 14.—President Huerta has issued a decree extending the bank holidays until March 1, and providing that the Finance Department may withdraw the privilege from any bank abusing it to the extent of inconveniencing merchants and making ordinary business transactions difficult.

Another decree establishes a tax of 1 per cent. on all capital invested in mortgages. It is payable in internal revenue stamps, and a fine of thrice the amount is provided for default. There has been no tax on capital invested in mortgages up to the present time.

A rumor which cannot be confirmed, since bankers refuse to talk, was current this afternoon that the Clearing House had refused to accept the notes of the Bank of London and Mexico. This caused a sensation in the local market. It is reported that the manager of the bank notified the Government that the institution would not open its doors unless an extension of the holidays was granted. During the holidays the bank has positively refused to transact any banking business, although it has cashed checks not exceeding $100, even refusing to make transfers of cash between persons carrying accounts.

Diplomatic circles heard to-day that President Huerta was preparing to issue bonds of small denominations, payable when the country should have been pacified, and meanwhile bearing interest at 6 per cent. These, it is said, will be issued in return for forced loans throughout the country, to be levied upon landowners and merchants. It was also reported that a decree confiscating the property of rebels was already drawn up, awaiting Huerta's signature.

The decree suspending the payment of interest on the national debt is generally taken as meaning that the crisis of the Huerta régime has arrived, and that the Wilson policy has succeeded. Both the supporters of this policy and its hostile critics admit that Washington has been able to establish a financial blockade. It is believed, however, that if there is no actual blockade of Mexican ports by American warships, or anything stronger than mere protests from European diplomats, President Huerta may continue in power for some time to come, since the customs will enable him to obtain sufficient funds to continue with the exercise of some economies.

Several of the foreign Ministers are supposed to have registered protests against the decree. Reports are to the effect that they were informed that President Huerta had taken this action because the Wilson blockade made it impossible for him to get funds, and greatly hampered the work of pacification, in short, that Washington was responsible for his action. It is understood that Señor Moheno suggested that President Wilson was now injuring the Ministers' nationals, and it was for them to take the matter up with Washington to bring about the lifting of the financial embargo and enable President Huerta to float a loan.

Mexicans generally do not believe that the Washington Government would allow European powers to take possession of the custom houses while the United States itself was taking no action except that of registering protests.

The recommendations of Gen. Wood to Secretary Garrison for an increase of the United State Army caused considerable comment here to-day, although the Mexican papers did not publish the report. Diplomats generally consider this as meaning that Washington at least intends to be prepared in case it is forced to take action here.

The continuance of attacks upon the Vera Cruz railway line is regarded as ominous, as indicating small uprisings in the southern part of the republic, which has been quiet hitherto.

The presence of rebels in the neighborhood of Oriental is regarded as significant, since it commands two railway lines which cross near there, as well as a fertile valley with strong positions in the neighboring mountains.

There is a persistent, but unconfirmable report that the Federal forces deserted Torreon several days ago, Gen. Refugio Valesco, commanding them, having committed suicide. This report was current some time ago, and was denied by the War Department; but it seems to be confirmed by the stories of passengers arriving here from Torreon.

There have been no developments in the international situation since the conference between John Lind and Nelson O'Shaughnessy, although diplomats say that they are to be expected at any time. Persons well acquainted with the situation say that Mr. Lind would not have returned to Mexico unless he had obtained some concessions from President Wilson.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Formal notice received from the City of Mexico to-day through Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American Chargé, that the suspension of the payment of interest on the Mexican national debt covers a period of six months only, was not regarded here as conveying much encouragement to the holders of Mexican bonds. State Department officials do not doubt that if the revolution is still in progress at the end of that period there will be another default for the same reason that brought about the present suspension.

Mutterings of discontent among European bondholders, it was suggested today, gave warning of a renewal of pressure from the European Governments upon the United States to take some decided action to safeguard the interests of their subjects in Mexico. At one of the embassies it was stated that it was quite out of the question for any of the European powers, either individually or collectively, to intervene in Mexico now that they had practically, if not formally, confided to the United States the protection of those interests, but that it was assumed that the United States would take notice of the patent distress of European bondholders.

Some Administration officials are disposed to believe that Gen. Huerta has deliberately held up these interest payments with the purpose of forcing intervention, if possible. In their view the Provisional President, alarmed at the successes of the Constitutionalists, prefers yielding to the United States Government as an intervener and thereby martyrizing himself in the eyes of the Mexican people to surrendering the reins of power to the men who have sworn to hang him as a traitor.

Secretary Bryan spent an hour in conference with President Wilson to-day, a considerable part of the time being given to a discussion of the situation in Mexico. There were, however, no indications of any change in policy as a result of this conference.

THINKS HUERTA BETTER OFF.

London Daily Mail Says Defaults "Strengthen His Position.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 15.—The Daily Mail, in an editorial under the caption "The Mexican Muddle," referring to the suspension of service of the foreign and internal bonded debt, expresses the opinion that President Huerta, with the money thus saved and with the resumption by the Government of full control of the customs revenue, is manifestly in a better position to carry on his struggle.

After pointing out that none of President Wilson's demands upon President Huerta, made last August, has been met, The Daily Mail concludes:

"Sooner or later, we fear, President Wilson will have to face the alternative of either allowing the Mexicans to solve their own crisis in their own way, or of solving it for them by force of American arms."

BONDS SLUMP IN GERMANY.

4 Per Cents. Drop 6¼ Points—Bank Shares Down in Paris.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—The suspension of interest payments on the national debts by the Mexican Government caused heavy falls in Mexican bonds on the Boerse here to-day. Four percents led with a drop of 6½.

The newspapers express the opinion that the situation calls for intervention by the European powers.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—Mexican National Bank shares, which closed yesterday at 493 francs, fell on the Bourse to-day to 470 francs on the news of the suspension of interest payments by the Mexican Government. The shares then recovered, closing at 483 francs. There were no transactions in Mexican 4 per cents.

VILLA FORBIDS EXECUTIONS.

To End Promiscuous Killing of Captives—Refugees on the March.

PRESIDIO, Texas, Jan. 14.—Ojinaga is guarded now only by a few rebels. All the dead have been buried, and the wounded have been removed to the American side.

The fact that there were no executions by the rebels after the Federals retreated was due to an order issued by Gen. Villa that only volunteers in the Huerta army should be summarily put to death. No volunteers were captured. Gen. Villa says that henceforth promiscuous shooting of prisoners must cease.

When informed to-day that the War Department at Mexico City would request the United States to return to Mexico all the Mexican soldiers who were driven into this country by the rebels at Ojinaga, Mexico, Gen. Salvador Mercado said:

"We are in the hands of the United States. It never was our purpose to retreat to this country for safety and then return to fight again as soon as we had been fed. I ordered our soldiers to cross the river on the grounds of humanity. We had no ammunition with which to fight. A thousand women and children were among us. To have remained in Ojinaga would have meant massacre. What the United States will do with us I don't know, but I shall be glad to conform to the wishes of my own Government. I and my men are still soldiers."

REBELS CAPTURE A PAY CAR.

Get $50,000 by the Exploit—Later Seize Oriental Station.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VERA CRUZ, Jan. 14.—The rebel activity in this State and Puebla is growing daily. This morning a rebel band captured a pay car on the Inter-Oceanic Railway, making a haul of $50,000. Later they captured the important Oriental station with large supplies of war material.

The financial conditions here are serious. The Central Government is making forced loans from all banking institutions. The Mercantile Bank has received a demand to deliver 2,000,000 pesos. The Directors met to-day to consider the matter.

The United States battleship Georgia has arrived.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 14.—Following the rebel capture to-day of a train on the main line of the Inter-Oceanic Railway, the regular train from Mexico City to Vera Cruz was not sent out to-night, the management thinking it would not be wise.

The train was attacked while standing at a station. The Federal guard was outnumbered, and lost four men. The rebels are believed to have been under command of Nestor Barrera, a leader, who has been operating several weeks around Teziutlan.

BLANQUET WANTS PRISONERS.

Says He Will Ask Washington to Return Ojinaga Refugees.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 14.—A formal request for the return to Mexico of Gen. Salvador Mercado, who commanded the Federal troops at Ojinaga, together with his comrades who crossed into American territory, is to be made to the United States Government by Gen. Aureliano Blanquet, Mexican Minister of War, according to an announcement made by him to-day.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—To grant the request of Gen. Blanquet for the return to Mexico of Gen. Mercado and the Federal troops who crossed to Texas from Ojinaga, officials pointed out today, would violate the neutrality laws.

REBELS SURRENDER FUGITIVE.

Sonora Officials Deport American Accused of Cattle Stealing.

NOGALES, Ariz., Jan. 14.—Northern Mexico under rebel rule is not to become a refuge for American fugitives from justice. Frank E. Rich, former manager of a dairy near Phoenix, Ariz., was deported across the boundary here to-day by Sonora State officials and arrested by Sheriff Adamson on the charge of cattle stealing. Four alleged accomplices of Rich are under arrest.

It is charged that they stole a large band of thoroughbred stock, which they were planning to ship into Mexico to sell to the Constitutionalist forces.

HER INCOME TO SUFFRAGE.

Dr. Ethel Smyth Wills It to Militants Till Victory Is Won.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Dr. Ethel Smyth, the well-known composer, who is a militant suffragist, announces that she has reframed her will so that the interest on the money she leaves may go to the funds of the Woman's Social and Political Union until the franchise has been extended to women.

"After my death and for so long as either Mrs. or Miss Pankhurst is alive to shape our policy" she says, "the interest on the capital will be paid into the coffers of the union. Once votes for women, no matter on what basis, are securely on the statute books, the money reverts to the original legatees."

ADVERTISES FOR RECRUITS.

British War Office Also Uses "Movies" and Other New Methods.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 15.—The War Office makes its first serious attempt to present the attractions and advantages of soldiering as a calling for young men by means of a full-page advertisement published in most of this morning's newspapers, thus adopting an American idea.

Hitherto very feeble efforts have been made to present army life in an attractive light to possible recruits, but now War Minister Seely, who is a practical soldier, is making a determined attempt to bring the army up to its proper numerical standard and is adopting newspaper and other advertisements, moving picture films, and other modern ideas for the purpose of getting the necessary number of recruits.

GREECE SEEKS POWERS' AID

Fears Turkey Wants Another War—Is Now the Weaker on Sea.

BERNE, Jan. 14.—The assistance of the great powers in the prevention of another war between Greece and Turkey is being sought by Premier Venizelos of Greece, who, with his Government, considers such a calamity most probable since the appointment of Enver Bey as Turkish Minister of War.

It was learned here to-day in authoritative circles that this was the chief object of the visit of the Greek statesman to the various European capitals. It was added that Greece feared the result of such a conflict, as Turkey was indisputably stronger on the sea since her purchase of the Brazilian dreadnought Rio de Janeiro.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—Prince William of Wied, who was chosen for the throne of Albania by the powers, refuses to accept the offer until satisfactory financial arrangements have been made, according to an authoritative statement issued here to-day.

SOFIA, Jan. 14.—The Bulgarian Parliament was dissolved to-day by the Premier, Dr. Radoslavoff, because the Opposition refused to pass a provisional appropriation on account.

MANY JAPANESE VOLCANOES ACTIVE

But It Is Now Hoped the Loss of Life on Sakura Will Not Exceed 200.

GREAT DISASTER AVERTED

Scientists Believe the Volcanic Outbreak Has Prevented a Calamitous Earthquake.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 15.—The Tokio correspondent of The Times says telegrams dispatched on Tuesday announce the destruction of all the villages on the Island of Sakura and estimate the local deathroll at fewer than 200 persons. Some of these lost their way in the thick smoke in which the island is still wrapped and some are believed to have rushed into the sea in terror and to have been drowned.

The town of Kagoshima is deserted, except by officials, police, and troops. Every building suffered from the earthquakes and many from fires as well, but official reports received up to the present only mention nine persons having been killed or injured. The layer of ashes over the city is more than two feet deep.

Communications are being restored but dispatches are still fragmentary. It seems, however, that the actual loss of life was not very great. Over 1,000 inhabitants were taken off in boats from Sakura Island, where the column of smoke emitted by the volcano is said to have been nearly three miles high.

Ashes were carried by the wind as far as Osaka and even Tokio, which is nearly 600 miles away.

TOKIO, Jan. 14.—The Island of Kiushiu is covered with a thick layer of ashes, and many corpses lie beneath the lava from the volcano of Sakura-jima on the small islet of Sakura, while many others were drowned in trying to escape from the scene of eruption, earthquake, and tidal wave, according to official reports.

All nature seems in revolt, for to the upheavals in the South is added the famine in the North and an eruption of Yarigatake, which threw a cloud of ashes over Matsumoto, while to-day over Tokio itself swept miniature cyclones, filling the city with clouds of dust and sand and creating the belief that the capital was feeling some of the effects of the distant eruptions.

An official dispatch from Miyakonojo says that a volcano at Kirishima, to the northeast of Kagoshima, broke out into eruption on Jan. 12, throwing the vicinity into complete darkness. Ashes fell to the depth of an inch in the surrounding district, but no great damage was done.

A feeling of relief prevailed to-night when the wind died down, and the impression spread that the worst was over when prominent scientists uttered the calming assurances that the outbreak of the volcanoes had served as a vent for acute subterranean activity, and perhaps saved the country from even more disastrous earthshocks.

Dispatches stated that animals and birds to the south of Satsuma were suffering from abnormal uneasiness.

At Kumamoto, north of Kagoshima, over 1,000 refugees have arrived, and the authorities are faced with the difficulty of housing and feeding the sufferers from the disaster, the whole tragedy of which has not yet been told.

Official reports this afternoon are that the eruption of the volcano of Sakura-ima is abating.

Just how heavy has been the loss of life cannot yet be estimated. Sakura, where the greatest loss of life undoubtedly occurred, cannot be visited because the eruption of Sakura-jima contiues. So the story, in this respect, must wait. Troops and warships are now in the vicinity, and a search of the island will be made at the first opportunity.

Kagoshima, the nearest big city to Sakura, while greatly damaged by the earthquakes, does not appear to have suffered severe loss of life. H. Ijuin, ex-Minister to China, who lives in Kagoshima, sent a dispatch to the Foreign Office in which he said that ten persons had been killed and thirty injured there. He also stated that great confusion prevailed in the city.

Other telegrams report that the barracks, Governor's residence, and temples were among the buildings wrecked in Kagoshima. The soldiers are camped in the squares of the city, while the population have sought refuge in the shrines and temples in the hills.

The Post Office was one of the first buildings to collapse in Kagoshima at the start of the earth disturbance. The staff escaped, and after the first panic erected a hut in a field, and are now busily engaged in repairing the telegraph equipment.

All Americans who were in the vicinity are safe. Word to this effect has been received here from Carl F. Deichman, the American Consul at Nagasaki, who telegraphed: "A private telegram states that Americans in Kagoshima fled to Sendal, near Kagoshima. All safe." Several American missionaries were stationed at Kagoshima.

Sakura-Lima, at the height of its eruption, is pictured in reports as a terrifying mountain of fire. The air for miles around is thick with ashes and smoke. The police and soldiers of Kagoshima, soon after the disturbance began, made many rescues from the island of Sakura. The people at first did not seem to realize their danger and were slow in trying to escape. It is feared that many were killed before reaching the seashore. Thousands, pursued by a rain of fiery stones, knelt on the beach, half submerged in water, and gesticulated wildly to the steamers and fishing boats for aid. One small steamer saved 300 persons. The cruiser Tone reported yesterday that Sakura had been entirely evacuated.

MIYAZAKI, Jan. 14.—A party of refugees from the Island of Sakura arrived here to-day and reported that the inhabitants of 300 houses, composing the village off Seto on that island, lost their way in trying to reach the seashore and that probably all perished together.

The refugees believe also that many others were drowned in trying to swim across the Gulf of Kagoshima.

The volcano of Sakura-jima is said to have completely changed its form, several new craters having opened.

The hail of ashes ceased here to-day after lasting for thirty-six hours.

The American missionaries stationed at Kagoshima, all of whom are reported to have escaped, are Miss L. Alice Finlay, Methodist Episcopal Church, (East Conference,) whose headquarters are in New York; Miss Harriet M. Lansing and Miss Jessie Noordhoff, Reformed Church in America, (Dutch,) headquarters New York, and the Rev. P. P. Medling and his wife, Southern Baptist Convention, headquarters Richmond, Va.

PRESIDENT SENDS SYMPATHY.

Speaks of the "Unprecedented Disaster"—Mikado Replies.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—An exchange of cablegrams between President Wilson and the Emperor of Japan over the Sakura-jima disaster was made public to-day. President Wilson's message, sent last night, was as follows:

> To His Majesty the Emperor of Japan:
>
> Having learned of the unprecedented disaster that has visited your country through earthquake and tidal wave, I beg to assure your Majesty and the Japanese people of my deep sympathy and that of the American people.
>
> WOODROW WILSON.

President Wilson to-day received the following reply from Emperor Yoshihito:

> Pray accept my sincerest thanks for the sympathetic message sent by yourself and American people for the terrible disaster.

Secretary of State Bryan cabled to the American Embassy at Tokio as follows:

> Express to Baron Makino (Minister for Foreign Affairs) my profound sympathy on account of the disaster in Kagoshima.

The Red Cross to-day sent through the Department of State a message of sympathy to the Japanese Red Cross with an offer of aid.

BUILDS CAR IN 11 MINUTES.

British Ford Factory Puts It on the Road in 19—A New Record.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—An automobile was built in eleven minutes and put on the road in nineteen to-day at the Ford motor works at Trafford Park, Manchester. This beats by six minutes the record made at the Ford factory in Detroit.

In seven minutes the chassis was on the ground, complete in every detail. Four minutes later the body was in place and all ready for the road. Unfortunately some one had forgotten to pack the induction pipe, and eight minutes were lost in remedying the fault.

At the end of nineteen minutes the engine was started and the car was taken for a run around the works, with six passengers.

KIDNAPPED COL. ROOSEVELT

Italian Hotel Proprietor Who Got Him from Rival Wins in Court.

TURIN, Jan. 14.—An echo of the visit to Italy of ex-President Roosevelt in 1910 was heard to-day, when a suit for damages instituted by one hotel keeper against another was ended by the rejection of the claim.

When Col. and Mrs. Roosevelt made their trip from Spezia to Rapello, rooms were engaged for them at a hotel at Sestri, but the proprietor of a rival hotel met them with a carriage decorated with American flags and drove them to his hostelry.

The disappointed hotel proprietor then instituted a suit against the other on the charge of "disloyal competition."

STRIKERS BESIEGED IN JOHANNESBURG

Federation Leader and 300 Followers in Hall—Sympathizers Wounded by Bayonets.

MARTIAL LAW VERY SEVERE

Orange Free State Strikers Forbidden to Leave Their Homes—A Rigorous Press Censorship.

JOHANNESBURG, Jan. 14.—The siege of Trades Hall, where Secretary Bain of the Federation of Trades and a band of his supporters are defying the police from behind barricades, constituted the main feature of the strike drama here to-day.

After the hall had been raided by police and detectives this morning without avail, great crowds gathered and the police were compelled to make several bayonet charges owing to the aggressive attitude of the people, many of whom were slightly wounded.

With the final bayonet charge the police cleared the entire neighborhood and a cordon of police with fixed bayonets was thrown around it.

The position of the besieged Bain and his friends is serious, as they are cut off from water and supplies. Bain came out of the hall this evening, strolled nonchalantly about the cleared space in full view of the police, and re-entered the hall without any attempt being made to arrest him.

The police commander explained that he had no intention of again attempting an assault on the hall, for he considered that the 300 men in it are as good as in jail.

The besieged men were able early today to get supplies, but eventually were completely isolated. A correspondent who passed the strikers' pickets by aid of a permit found a remarkable scene inside the hall to-night. The 300 inmates were all fully armed. They expressed themselves as determined to resist any attempt to storm their stronghold. The windows and doors were barricaded with boxes filled with bricks. Openings were left for rifle fire. Other boxes were filled with ammunition.

The defenders are subsisting chiefly on fruit, quantities of which are stored in the hall. They also have some stale bread. Many of the men were dressed only in trousers and boots. It was evident from their gaunt, hungry faces that they were already suffering hardships from the siege. They stoutly asserted, however, that the hall would not be taken until all their ammunition was exhausted and not a bar of iron or a stick was left to wield.

From without could be heard the clang of arms and hoarse orders directing citizens away from the danger zone.

A detective named McBride was caught by the pickets approaching the doorway, and had to flee for his life after being badly beaten.

A bomb explosion occurred to-day at Benone, slightly injuring three mounted troopers. Several strikers arrested by the police near the same place were rescued by their comrades, but were subsequently rearrested by the troops.

The Transvaal railway authorities are maintaining a partial service and are attempting to insure an adequate supply of food and fuel.

The bakers are determined not to strike for the present, but they refuse to bake for the police, troops, or special constables. One firm, however, has declined to be bound by this agreement.

The miners continue to stop work as fast as their shifts end. The Department of Mines announces that it will keep the mines running and that it has no intention of sending the natives home.

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 14.—The general strike proclaimed yesterday thus far applies only to the Orange Free State and the Transvaal. Success in these places would lead to an extension of the order to other provinces.

Martial law in the Orange Free State is very strict, and a press censorship in the most rigorous form has already been instituted. All strikers are prohibited from leaving their homes. The display of the red flag is forbidden, and the rendering of assistance to other strikers, directly or indirectly, by giving funds or goods is forbidden.

The martial law throughout the Union of South Africa is hardly less strict and the drastic character of the regulations has created considerable surprise.

The employment of such epithets as "scab" and "blackleg" is prohibited under penalty of punishment, while any attempt to intimidate willing workers is forbidden.

Newspapers are debarred from publishing false or alarming reports calculated to promote ill-will between the disputants.

The strike region is divided into nine areas, each controlled by an officer vested with absolute power as in time of war.

The issue is regarded as a fight between the State and Syndicalism.

PIETERMARITZBURG, Jan. 14.—When the Mayor of Pietermaritzburg to-day refused to admit the necessity of the formation of a citizens' committee of safety, Col. Clarke, the control officer, ordered the organization of the committee and compelled the Mayor to become a member of it.

MRS. BRUCE-SMITH SUES.

Obtains an Order for the Restitution of Conjugal Rights.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The Divorce Court to-day granted to Mrs. Florence Bruce-Smith an order for the restitution of conjugal rights against her husband, Roughton Bruce-Smith, described as prominent in New York club life and now residing permanently in New York.

The petitioner, a well-known and wealthy member of London society, said on the witness-stand that the marriage took place in 1910. Her husband the same year neglected her and confessed misconduct with another woman. Soon afterward he sailed for New York and refused to live with her again.

The court directed that the order be obeyed within twenty-one days after service in New York. Such an order usually precedes a divorce decree.

The burglars were surprised by the concierge, who called the police.

ADMIRAL ITO DIES AT 70.

Japanese Statesman Led Naval Victories in Two Wars.

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 14.—Count Yukyo Ito, Fleet Admiral of the Japanese Navy, died this morning in his seventy-first year.

He was born at Kagoshima, one of the towns in the province of Chocshin which was devastated by the earthquake He came of the clan Idea and of humble birth. When he was a youth, just after Commodore Perry opened Japan, he and Count Inouye made a voyage to Europe and spent several years in educating themselves abroad. On his return to Japan he entered the public service, and since that time had more to do with the development of the Japanese navy than any other one man.

His first visit to the United States was made in 1868 to study our system of coinage, and on his return to Japan he established the Japanese mint at Osaka. He also visited the United States in 1872 with the famous Iwakura Embassy for the purpose of revising the treaty with the United States.

In the war between Japan and China in 1894 he took a prominent part, commanding the combined squadrons of the Japanese fleet which fought the battle of the Yellow Sea. He afterwards blockaded the port of Wei-hai-wei and destroyed the Chinese fleet. He was then appointed Chief of the General Naval Staff, and many honors were conferred on him for his services in this war. During the Russo-Japanese war he acted as Chief of the Naval General Staff.

WARNING TO PORTS CO.

Speculation May Spoil Bondholders' Chances for Returns.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 14.—Holders of the Cuban Ports Company's bonds and other securities will lose every possibility of an adjustment if they attempt to speculate on the probability of the Cuban Government's taking any action in their favor, according to the declaration of Gen. Carlos Garcia Velez, the Cuban Minister to London, made after his conference with President Menocal this afternoon. He added:

"All predictions regarding the probability of an adjustment are entirely premature."

Cuban officials manifest indignation over the sudden rise in quotations of the Ports Company's securities after the report that the Government was considering the adjustment of investors' claims for damages on account of President Menocal's decree, which practically abolished the company's concession. They particularly resent the fact that Eugene Klapp, President of the Ports Company, announced through financial newspapers that shareowners ought not to sell, as he had been assured that the Government intended to make an adjustment. They say there is no basis for such an assertion.

President Menocal held a conference last night with leaders of the Senate and House. This evening's papers say it was for the purpose of seeking some adjustment of the company's claims, since they are likely to interfere with the floating of the $10,000,000 loan.

EXHIBIT FOR LONDON FAIR.

Panama-Pacific Managers Pledge Aid—Kintore to Meet President.

Alvin E. Pope of San Francisco, representing the Panama-Pacific Exposition to be held next year, pledged the aid of that organization yesterday to the Anglo-American Exposition to open in May at Shepherd's Bush, London.

Speaking at the Lawyers' Club before the sub-Executive Committee of the American Committee to Celebrate the Centenary of the Signing of the Treaty of Ghent, Mr. Pope said that the Panama-Pacific management not only would send over such exhibits of private citizens as were ready this year, but also it would endeavor to send over articles from the United States Government exhibit, bringing them back in time for the exposition at San Francisco.

The Earl of Kintore, who was a guest of honor at a luncheon preceding the business session of the committee, with Imre Kiralfy, Director General of the British exposition, announced that the first $200,000 profits of the exposition would be given for the establishment of permanent scholarships or prizes in both countries to the British and American committees appointed to arrange for the celebration.

Chairman James A. Stewart of the American committee and Oscar S. Straus left yesterday afternoon for Washington with the Earl and Mr. Kiralfy, and will present them to-day to President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan. Another committee of the celebration organization, made up of Calvin W. Rice and Dr. George F. Kunz, has gone to Washington to consult with the Postmaster General and the Secretary of the Treasury with a view of having special postage stamps, and, if possible, special coins issued by the Government to stimulate interest in the celebration of the signing of the treaty to be held on this side of the Atlantic.

Chairman Stewart said that Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia had been appointed Chairman of a woman's committee. It is planned to give this committee charge of the important social work of the coming celebration.

Among those who attended the meeting, in addition to those already mentioned, were R. A. C. Smith, Francis Lynde Stetson, Albert E. Gallatin, Job E. Hedges, E. R. L. Gould, William A. Clark, Alton B. Parker, and Jacob H. Schiff.

STEEL MEN AFFIRM HUMPHREY FIGURES

But Total Output of Plants Last Year Was 1,000,000 Tons More Than in 1912.

OUTLOOK IS MORE HOPEFUL

Depression Really Not Marked Until November—Many Replies to Times Inquiries.

Inquiry yesterday at the local offices of steel and iron companies and answers to telegrams sent by THE TIMES to the points named in Congressman Humphrey's speech in the House on Tuesday, in which he said that 123 pig iron stacks, with an annual capacity of nearly 13,000,000 tons, had been blown out since March 1, indicated that his figures were substantially correct when made up last week, but that there had been some signs of improvement since then. As an instance, the ingot production of the United States Steel Corporation has increased 12 per cent. since Jan. 1.

Some points were made, however, that changed the interpretation put on the figures by Mr. Humphrey to a certain extent. One was that the decline did not date from March, when the Democratic Administration came in, but began in June and was not marked until November and December. This is shown by the actual record of production, as compiled by The Iron Age. The figures in gross tons are as follows:

January	2,795,331	July	2,560,646
February	2,586,337	August	2,543,763
March	2,763,563	September	2,505,927
April	2,752,761	October	2,546,261
May	2,822,217	November	2,233,123
June	2,628,565	December	1,983,607

The total production for the year was thus 30,722,101, which is 1,000,000 tons more than in 1912, which was the greatest in the country's history up to that time, and 3,500,000 tons more than in 1910, which was regarded as a boom year.

The figures cited by Mr. Humphrey also ignored the fact that since March new stacks, estimated to aggregate 60 or 70, had been blown in and no allowance was made for these as an offset against the 123 said to have been blown out.

Many of the plants cited by Mr. Humphrey were those of subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation, from which no official figures could be obtained yesterday. Trade authorities agreed, however, that the Steel Corporation had between 40,000 and 50,000 men idle at the present time, which is fewer than at the first of the year, as the Steel Corporation has been taking on men since that time. While statements have been made that its mills were running at only 50 per cent. capacity, it was pointed out that a far greater proportion of its men were employed, as it had last year 228,000 employes, of which the number now idle would be about 20 per cent.

Bottom of the Slump.

"As I look at the tabulation of stacks blown out since March 1," said one steel man yesterday, "it seems to me that it represents the bottom of the slump in the steel and iron industry. When these records were prepared it is entirely possible that furnaces with a capacity of nearly 13,000,000 tons annually were out of commission. There were a great many men out of work, too, in consequence, partly, of the usual Christmas layoff ordered by many companies for the purpose of making repairs.

"No doubt exists in my mind, however, that business has improved somewhat in the past week, and I believe we have seen the worst of the depression. It may not be predicted that we are on the verge of a substantial buying movement, because no man can tell when consumers will come out of the state of apathy they were thrown into by agitation against big business in 1913, and the uncertainty occasioned by enactment of such important laws as the tariff and currency measures. It stands to reason, though, that this country cannot continue to progress industrially, even on a small scale, with its stocks of iron and steel products at a low level, and I think that a gradual improvement is bound to come.

"I note that Mr. Humphrey goes back to March 1 to choose a date for the beginning of the depression. The blowing out of furnaces was made to begin then. It might as well have been Nov. 1 as March 1, for the decline of iron and steel activity came suddenly toward the close of October, although the groundwork for it in the shape of steadily declining orders was being built in several months preceding.

Old Orders Helped.

"Throughout the greater part of last year the steel companies were, after a manner of speaking, burning the backlog left from the previous year. I mean that the great accumulation of orders which carried over into 1913 from 1912 kept the companies busy up to nearly 90 per cent. of capacity until Winter. But new orders fell away steadily all the time. The result could not be anything else than it was. When specifications ceased to come against old orders, a slump of furnace and mill work occurred. The slump was the worst that I have ever seen in my experience in the steel business. Furnaces by the score had to be blown out because there wasn't anything for them to do, and thousands of men were let go for the same reason. Now that an improvement has occurred, the re-employment of many workmen may be looked for, and the stacks will gradually start up again.

"I hardly expect to see prices rise from their present low level for some time. They cannot advance under a tariff that lets many products enter free until Europe's demand for its own steel increases to a point that precludes shipments to this country. The steel companies certainly will not be able to lift quotations to a level that would cause consumers to buy in the foreign markets in preference to our own. The steel situation is full of puzzling problems which cannot be worked out except through the passage of several months."

Trade Papers Hopeful.

The trade papers in their issues today will take a more optimistic view of conditions than that set forth by Mr. Humphrey. The Iron Age will say:

"Steel mill resumptions, after one of the longest and most extensive holiday shutdowns the industry has known, have indicated improvement, but it should not be overestimated, as has been done in some Pittsburgh dispatches.

"At the same time it has been shown, in an effort made last week to sum up the number of idle men in the metal industries, that unfavorable conditions also can be overstated. The list of idle blast furnaces in the misleading 'million-idle-men' exhibit paraded in Congress Tuesday contains at least eight large stacks that were only banked over the holidays and have since resumed. Not a single deduction was made for the three score or more furnaces that have blown in in the ten months covered by the figures.

"Leaders in the steel industry agree in finding the situation better this week, but it is not forgotten that the comparison is with a fortnight of very low-rate production and the possible setbacks of February are not overloooked.

"The Steel Corporation's rate of ingot production, which was 50 per cent. in the first week of the year, was 56 per cent. at the opening of this week. This is a fair measure of the change.

"Statements as to increased buying of steel products are not specific, but some consumers have contracted for the first quarter at prices they would not consider four weeks ago. It cannot be said that the 1.15c., Pittsburgh, basis for plates and shapes has entirely disappeared, but it is rare and has applied to a few large transactions. The 1.20c. price is the rule for first quarter deliveries.

"The industry is still getting on with minimum of railroad buying, even while sentiment is growing in favor of a rate advance which is now commonly put at 3½ per cent. A Western road has bought 10,000 to 12,000 tons of tie plates. The rail inquiries of the Southern Railway and the Seaboard Air Line together amount to 45,000 tons. The mills now look to February to bring out long withheld rail business. In cars the week's orders amounted to 2,650, of which the Santa Fé took 800 and the Kanawha & Michigan 1,100.

Cheerful Feeling, Says The Review.

The Iron Trade Review will say: "A cheerful feeling continues to predominate in the iron and steel industry, and a number of makers report the best bookings the past week in several months, and are more hopeful on future prospects. While in some cases operations are a little better, the present movement has not continued to the stage where it is widely affecting active capacity. Mill operations generally are on a low scale.

"The general tenor of the market seems to be turning from the former condition, where the seller aggressively was searching out the buyer, to one where the buyer now is going to the mills with the desire for covering for his requirements. Prices in finished steel generally are more staple, and the withdrawal of the low minimum a week ago seems to have had a good effect. Considerable tonnage of pig iron continues to move. The United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company has been a large buyer recently, and it is estimated its purchases, considerable of which was done in the week, probably will reach 100,000 tons."

What the Mill Operators Say.

THE TIMES sent inquiries to the steel companies, mentioned by Mr. Humphrey, in his speech asking them these questions:

1 Is Humphrey's assertion true? 2 How many men have you laid off since March 1, 1913? 3 How many have you re-employed? 4 What is prospect of employing more men during 1914?

The replies received by THE TIMES are given below:

Lackawanna Steel Company.

E. A. S. Clarke, President of the Lackawanna Steel Company, writing from his office in this city, said:

"Representative Humphrey's assertion that this company had blown out five stacks since March 1, 1913, is true as far as regards our blast furnaces at Buffalo, and his statement that we have blown out one stack at Cornwall and one stack at Lebanon is also true.

"As of March 1, 1913, our records show that there were 9,190 men on the payroll, and as of Dec. 27, 1913, there were 4,888 men on our payroll. For the week ending Jan. 10, 1914, the records show 5,220 men on the payroll, the difference being due to temporary re-employment on account of a small accumulation of orders which had to be filled.

"I am unable to give any estimate of the additional number of men which may be employed during 1914. In my judgment it depends very largely on the prosperity of the railroads. If the railroads are not prosperous the number of men may be further reduced instead of being increased."

These statements were received by telegraph:

Pennsylvania Steel Company.

Special to The New York Times.

STEELTON, Penn., Jan. 14.—Humphrey's assertion is true. Four out of seven stacks were blown out since March 1, 1913. Net number of men discharged since March, 2,000; others on reduced time. We are keeping many men busy on remodeling portion of plant that would otherwise be laid off. The number of men has declined steadily. We expect to put on more men as quickly as we receive new orders, of which we will get our share. Present acute stagnation cannot continue long. A demonstration of Democratic prosperity would reassure the business community for many years to come.

THE PENNSYLVANIA STEEL COMPANY.

Cambria Steel Company.

Special to The New York Times.

JOHNSTOWN, Penn., Jan. 14.—We now have two idle stacks out of eight furnaces that were in blast in March. The present total force is practically the same as in March. The earnings of the men are 10 per cent. less on account of reduced time and tonnage. The force has been practically constant since March. Present indications are that a less number of men will be employed during this year, but we hope for improvement in business. The Cambria has operated more fully recently than orders warranted in order to keep our men employed. This has been accomplished by making improvements and repairs, and by stocking metal billets and other products.

CAMBRIA STEEL COMPANY.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Company.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 14.—We have four idle blast furnaces. We have laid off about thirty per cent. of our men since March 1, 1913. As yet we have re-employed none. We hope conditions will permit us to employ more men during 1914.

JONES & LAUGHLIN STEEL CO.

Shenango Furnace Company.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 14.—1.—Yes. 2.—Seventy-five at blast furnaces, 450 at mines. 3.—None. 4.—Hopeful that during the year we will have a full force re-employed if the demand for ore and pig iron resumes.

THE SHENANGO FURNACE CO.

Central Iron and Steel Company.

Special to The New York Times.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Jan. 14.—Humphrey's assertion is correct. We blew out one stack Dec. 31, 1913, and have laid off approximately 200 men since March 1, 1913. We have re-employed none. The immediate prospects of employing more men during the current year are not very bright. This feature may change should the iron and steel trade pick up. Our reason for blowing out the furnace was due to the remarkably low prices obtainable in the demoralized pig iron situation.

RECEIVERS CENTRAL IRON AND STEEL COMPANY.

Sharpsville Furnace Company.

Special to The New York Times.

SHARPSVILLE, Penn., Jan. 14.—Our furnace was blown out March 3; laid off about eighty men; have re-employed none. The prospects of employing more men in 1914 depend on the condition of pig iron market.

SHARPSVILLE FURNACE COMPANY.

Thomas Iron Company.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Penn., Jan. 14.—We have blown out one Hokendauqua, one Hellertown and one Alburtis furnace since March 1, 1913, and have blown in one Alburtis furnace since March 1, 1913. We have laid off 154 men since then and have not re-employed any of them. We will re-employ 100 men as soon as market conditions warrant. Prospects look more favorable.

THE THOMAS IRON COMPANY.

Punxsutawney Furnace Company.

Special to The New York Times.

DUBOIS, Penn., Jan. 14.—The Punxsutawney furnace was blown out early in October, 1913. We have laid off 150 men at that point and re-employed none. This plant will remain idle until business conditions are materially better.

PUNXSUTAWNEY FURNACE COMPANY.

Emporium Iron Company.

EMPORIUM, Penn., Jan. 14.—Humphrey's statement is correct that we blew out one stack July 18, 1913, laying off about 150 men. None of them have been re-employed. We will resume our operation as soon as the market warrants.

EMPORIUM IRON COMPANY.

Eastern Steel Company.

Special to The New York Times.

POTTSTOWN, Penn., Jan. 14.—Since March 1 one furnace has been blown out, repaired, and not blown in. On account of insufficient business we have laid off about 135 men; none re-employed. We are unwilling to prophesy as to prospects.

EASTERN STEEL COMPANY.

Empire Steel & Iron Company.

Special to The New York Times.

CATASAQUA, Penn., Jan. 14.—On March 1, 1913, we were operating five furnace stacks. On Jan. 1, 1914, we were operating one stack. To-day we have two stacks in blast. On March 1, 1913, 1,150 men were employed. On Jan. 14, 1914, 916 men were employed. Neither the amount of business in sight nor the prices obtainable are such as to justify any increase in the present number of men employed. The present wage schedule, in effect since January, 1913, is the highest in the history of the industry in this section.

EMPIRE STEEL & IRON COMPANY.

Joseph E. Thropp.

Special to The New York Times.

EVERETT, Penn., Jan. 14.—Blew out Saxton furnace in July and laid off about 300 men at the furnace, mines, and coke ovens. No prospect for early resumption at Saxton, but hope to continue the Earlston furnace in blast.

JOSEPH E. THROPP.

Tonawanda Iron and Steel.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y., Jan. 14.—According to iron trade statistics compiled as of Jan. 1, 1914, Humphrey's statement of idle men in the country is conservative. Since March, 1913 we have shut down one-half of our plant and laid off a corresponding number of men, none of whom has been re-employed. The prospect of employing more men in 1914 is not regarded by us as bright.

TONAWANDA IRON AND STEEL COMPANY.

M. A. Hanna & Co.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 14.—Humphrey's assertion in regard to the furnaces we represent as agents is true, but we have not in this office the detail of the number of men laid off or re-employed. There is a decided probability that more men will have to be laid off at an early date.

M. A. HANNA & CO., Agents.

Brier Hill Steel Company.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Jan. 14.—One furnace has been closed since last March, and the number of men employed reduced about 25 per cent. We have not reduced wages, and expect to have 100 per cent. of men employed by April 1.

BRIER HILL STEEL COMPANY.

Belmont Iron Works Company.

Special to The New York Times.

IRONTON, Jan. 14.—Yes, we blew out one furnace Dec. 20 and laid off 110 men. We have re-employed none. The prospects are not promising for future employment.

BELMONT IRON WORKS CO.

Columbus Iron and Steel Company.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 14.—One stack was blown out on Jan. 1, 1914, No men have been laid off since March and none re-employed. The prospects for employing more men during the present year are very poor indeed.

COLUMBUS IRON AND STEEL CO.

Inland Steel Company.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—We had one stack out for repairs, but it is in blast again. We laid off about 1,000 men, some of whom were on a new kind of work, which is completed. Our regular operating departments are running about 75 per cent. of capacity. If railroad buying should be resumed, we think full employment could be given through 1914.

INLAND STEEL COMPANY.

Iroquois Iron Company.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—We do not know how many workmen in this country are idle at the present time. This company was operating three furnaces on March 1, 1913, and employing 620 men. At present we are operating two furnaces and employing 421 men. The employment of additional men will depend entirely upon an improvement in the consumption of merchant pig iron. IROQUOIS IRON COMPANY.

Chattanooga Iron & Steel Corporation.

Special to The New York Times.

CHATTANOOGA, Jan. 14.—Our furnace has been shut down since July 1. We laid off 1,200 men employed at the furnace and the coal and ore mines. We have thus far not re-employed any and there are no prospects for starting up during 1914, unless market conditions improve. In our opinion, the present depression is due to uncertainty caused by tariff legislation and threatened Government monopoly to regulate and control all industrial operations, which plan, if pursued, must inevitably result in a gigantic Governmental trust that will eventually throttle all business competition between corporations, and leave no opportunity or incentive for individual endeavor.

C. E. BUEK, President.

Bon Air Coal & Iron Company.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Jan. 14.—Humphrey's assertion is true. We have laid off 160 men. No men have been re-employed. The present prospect for iron business is looking better. The present condition, however, would not warrant employing more men.

Receivers, BON AIR COAL & IRON COMPANY.

Maryland Steel Company.

Special to The New York Times.

SPARROWS POINT, Md., Jan. 14.—One blast furnace has been blown out and two furnaces banked since Dec. 15, 1913. The blast furnaces and steel works are completely shut down for the first time in seventeen years. The reason is the want of orders for steel rails. We intend to resume just as soon as we can secure orders for sufficient tonnage. About 1,500 men are laid off until then. The prospect is indefinite and not encouraging.

MARYLAND STEEL COMPANY.

Norton Iron Works.

ASHLAND, Ky., Jan. 14.—We closed our blast furnace down Nov. 15, 1913, throwing about 160 men out of employment. We have not re-employed them. The prospects are not good at this time of employing more men.

NORTON IRON WORKS.

Colorado Fuel and Iron Company.

Special to The New York Times.

PUEBLO, Col., Jan. 14.—On account of the strike of Colorado miners and some reduction in the demand for steel, our operating blast furnaces were reduced from three to one, and about one-half of our employes, or 2,000 men, were temporarily laid off. Conditions have improved. We have about 2,500 men working, are blowing in another blast furnace, and there is a fair prospect of a still further increase in the working force.

J. F. WILBURN.

CREDIT MEN ARE HOPEFUL.

No Cloud of Any Kind on the Business Horizon, They Say.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 14.—There is no longer a cloud of any description on the financial horizon, according to the leading credit men of the United States, who are holding a conference in this city.

The fundamental changes that have been made in the laws affecting business will tend to foster a period of prosperity that will stand out in pleasing contrast to the last six months of partial depression and large failure liabilities, the credit men assert. The establishment of the new currency system if kept out of politics and organized strictly along business lines, will help to prevent any financial crisis in the future, they say. The two sources of danger they see in the new currency law are politics and the possibility of inflation.

Fred R. Salisbury of St. Paul, President of the National Association of Credit Men, said to-day: "The Federal banking reserve system will be the means, I believe, of enabling all who are entitled to the extension of credit to obtain accommodation, but it is not going to open up indiscriminate lending or the extending of credit to those who are not deserving of it."

No commercial period has caused men to be more thoughtful than that through which this country has just passed, says S. J. H. Tregoe of New York. "Whatever feeling of depression there has been in the last six months or so," Mr. Tregoe said, "has been the result of the period of readjustment and reconstruction of financial and business conditions. The fundamental changes in our laws have been more potent, the average business man has discovered. Now that these laws are in effect I expect to see a steady improvement in business. There is no cloud on the horizon or cause for alarm."

HOLD LONDON FOR MOVIES.

Grand Jury Sees Picture Play at Park Theatre.

Several of the additional Grand Jury which is investigating the alleged immorality of the motion picture film known as "The Inside of the White Slave Traffic," went to the Park Theatre yesterday, accompanied by Assistant District Attorney Flood H. Wilmot. For the benefit of members who were not able to attend, another performance will be given at 11 o'clock this morning.

In their determination as to the morality or immorality of the pictures the performance itself will be the jury's chief guide. Several witnesses wil be called, however, before a decision is arrived at. Deputy Police Commissioner Newburger was among those examined yesterday.

Samuel H. London, alleged to be the owner of "The Inside of the White Slave Traffic," was arrested yesterday, and held in $1,000 bail for the Grand Jury by Magistrate Deuel in the Tombs Court. Mr. London denied that he was the owner.

"I had nothing to do with the show, except as a wrter," he said.

ARMOUR & CO.'S BIG YEAR.

Gross Business $350,000,000 and Net Profits $11,356,094.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—The gross business done by Armour & Co. in the fiscal year ended Nov. 1, 1913, was about $350,000,000, comparing with $300,000,000 in the previous year, and $250,000,000 two years ago.

The net profits, $11,356,094, the largest in the history of the concern, compare with $10,180,306 the previous year and $6,638,677 two years ago. While the figures are large, the return on the capital employed last year was but 5.67 per cent.

M'LEAN MAY HELP IN GRAFT SEARCH

Expenditures of State Committee, Whitman Believes, Will Disclose New Trail.

TO PUSH McGUIRE'S TRIAL

Chief of the Bagmen Still the Object of Search by the District Attorney.

There was an inclination yesterday to give more weight to the reports that Arthur A. McLean, Treasurer of the Democratic State Committee, who on Tuesday pleaded guilty to an indictment accusing him of accepting a campaign contribution from a corporation, would aid District Attorney Whitman in his graft investigation. Upon District Attorney Whitman's recommendation sentence was suspended in McLean's case.

While McLean's friends insist that under no conditions will he turn informer there are many who believe that he will be forced to help Whitman in order to get out of his present difficulties. It was pointed out that there is another indictment against McLean, and the theory was advanced that while this probably will not be pressed, it will be held over McLean's head until certain matters have been cleared up.

The District Attorney intends, it is said, to make an investigation of the accounts showing how campaign funds were expended by the Democrats in 1911 and 1912. The total receipts of the Democratic State Committee in those years are pretty well known. It is believed that the accounts may not show all the money that was disbursed. There were many checks sent out which McLean did not sign personally. A rubber stamp, it is said, was used by the committee.

Whitman is most anxious to know who gave Everett Fowler his list of contractors showing what contributions were expected. Fowler's accounts were kept badly, it is said, and McLean has been asked to explain matters which are obscure.

The District Attorney intends to proceed at once with the trial of James K. McGuire, who was indicted for soliciting campaign contributions from a corporation. The charge was similar to the one for which Fowler was indicted.

When the special Supreme Court Grand Jury meets to-day it will continue its investigation of circumstances attending the awarding of Contract 20 on the Catskill Aqueduct. In a civil suit in Rockland County testimony was given that Harry M. Hanger had paid $30,000 to James E. Gaffney for services in obtaining the contract. Hanger will be recalled to-day when the investigation is resumed.

NEW GRAFT INQUIRY ON.

Impatient at Osborne's Delays, Glynn Sets Delaney at Work.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—Impatient at the delays in the investigation now being conducted by James W. Osborne, his special graft inquisitor, Gov. Glynn has authorized John H. Delaney, Commissioner of Efficiency and Economy, to investigate alleged derelictions within the scope of his department. The beginning will be made to-morrow, when Mr. Delaney will give a hearing in connection with a highway construction contract in Broome County.

The road in question runs between Sanitaria Springs and Harpursville. The complaint was made by Charles Van Amsburgh, County Superintendent of Highways in Broome, who declares that the road has not been built in conformance with specifications, and that parts of it already are in a condition dangerous to the public, though the construction work in other portions has not yet been completed.

The contract was let on the basis of nine miles of road construction, but the distance was cut to half that length. According to information in Commissioner Delaney's possession the work was virtually paid for in advance, the contractor having drawn all the money to which he would be entitled, although the road is not yet completed.

The contract was let to W. H. Cowhig of this city, but was assigned to the Hollington Company of Troy, a concern that was regarded as having a strong pull during the Sulzer régime. John E. Consalus, one of the principal lieutenants of Joseph J. Murphy, the Democratic leader of Rensselaer County, who was one of the first to take refuge on the Sulzer band wagon after the Hennessy investigation of highway graft began, is supposed to be a silent partner in this concern, as he was in many others which were under fire, but escaped unscathed while Sulzer was Governor and Hennessy his chief graft investigator.

The divisional engineers in the Highway Department in charge of the Broome County road work have been subpoenaed to produce all the documents having reference to the contract, and a similar request has been made of State Highway Commissioner Carlisle.

Commissioner Delaney has been detailed by Gov. Glynn to investigate the charges of drunkenness and neglect against the medical officer in charge of the Gowanda State Hospital for the Insane. The charges also involve Dr. James V. May, head of the State Hospital Commission, and it is believed that the commission itself will come in for an investigation by Mr. Delaney at no distant date. In this case Mr. Delaney will hold a hearing in Buffalo next Monday.

GANGSTERS UP TO-DAY.

Straus Murder Suspects Before Coroner—Sweeney on Trial.

Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty spent most of yesterday afternoon questioning members of the Harry Lenny and Tommy Dyke Association, outside whose ball, Frederick Straus, a clerk of the City Court, was shot to death last Friday night, in preparation for the Coroner's hearing this morning at which "Dopey Benny" Fein and his three followers, Rubin Kaplan, "Little Abie" Beckerman, and "Waxie" Gordon, will be arraigned.

The police got wind yesterday of another ball, the announcements of which indicated that it might be accompanied by pistol skirmishes. This was the ball of the Frankfort Social Club, advertised for a week from Sunday at the Progress Casino on Avenue A. The ball was announced as in memory of "Little Maxie" Greenwald, otherwise known as Maxie Green, the striker, who was killed on Nov. 29 in the gang fight before S. Feldman's hat frame factory at 168 Greene Street.

Deputy Police Commissioner Newburger began the trial yesterday of John F. Sweeney, who was Captain in charge of the Fifth Street Police Station on the night Mr. Straus was shot and who was suspended charged with neglect of duty by Commissioner McKay on the day after the shooting. The charge against Capt. Sweeney was based on the fact that the ball of the Lenny and Dyke Association had been advertised throughout the precinct by placards bearing the names of notorious gangsters and that the Captain had made no provision for policing the affair. Capt. Sweeney appeared with his lawyer, William F. Murphy, a retired police Lieutenant, who was a member of Commissioner Bingham's legal squad.

Detective Lazarus Benjamin of Inspector Myers's staff gave testimony favorable to Sweeney. He said he had canvassed the district every day and that the placards of the ball had escaped his notice, as they had the notice of Capt. Sweeney. Detective Czernsky, Benjamin's partner, gave similar testimony.

The trial will continue on Saturday.

MALTBIE NOT ON SLATE.

Mayor Says He Will Fill Cabinet by the End of the Week.

Mayor Mitchel said yesterday that he expected to appoint a Corporation Counsel and Commissioners for the Health and Water Departments by the end of the week. He spent most of the day considering candidates and while he would not say who he has in mind for the places, he has eliminated the candidates down to two or three each. He also said he expected that his Commissioners who had not yet appointed Deputies would do so to-day.

Asked if he intended to appoint Public Service Commissioner Maltbie as Water Commissioner, he said:

"Now, you are asking about appointments which I will not discuss. I will say, however, that he is not an applicant for the place."

"Now about the Hearst situation?" the Mayor was asked.

"So far as I know," he replied smilingly, "there is no Hearst situation."

Others callers upon the Mayor yesterday were Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee; Francis W. Bird, Chairman of the Progressive County Committee and August Schwarzler, Chairman of the Bronx Progressive Committee. They called to present the name of several candidates for jobs.

NAT. M. WILLS SUES WIFE.

Comedian Says She Had No Legal Right to Marry Him.

Nat M. Wills, known on the vaudeville stage as "The Tramp Comedian," has begun an action for the annulment of his marriage to Heloise Titcombe, known on the stage as "La Belle Titcombe," or the "Parisian Dancer on Horseback." The marriage was performed by an Alderman in Chicago on May 23, 1910, ten days after Mrs. Wills got a divorce from her former husband, Waine McElnbett. It was Mr. Wills's third venture in matrimony.

He asks for an annulment on the ground that it was a violation of Illinois law for Mrs. Wills to contract a new marriage within one year after her divorce. Persons guilty of the offense are liable to criminal prosecution, the papers in the case say.

CHICAGO LAWYER A SUICIDE.

I. H. Jordan Had Been Divorced from ex-Judge Grosscup's Daughter.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—I. H. Jordan, a member of the law firm of Heyman, Walker & Jordan, and until recently son-in-law of ex-United States District Judge Peter S. Grosscup, took a room in the Palmer House to-day and committed suicide by shooting himself after, it is believed, taking poison.

Mr. Jordan, who was 42 years old and a native of Cincinnati, married in 1903 Miss Katheryn Grosscup, who, after a long separation, obtained a divorce from him last March at San Diego, Cal., charging desertion. Since the couple parted Mr. Jordan had lived at the University Club and he left a letter addressed to W. H. Clark, who also is a lawyer. It read as follows:

> Forgive my weakness. Good-bye. Please notify W. H. Kenney, 3,542 Clifton Avenue, Cincinnati, and J. W. O'Hara, Johnson Building, Cincinnati.

Another letter left by Jordan directed the Secretary of the University Club to destroy his (Jordan's) mail.

Mr. Heyman, one of his law partners, expressed the belief that Jordan's act was the result of despondency over his divorce.

"Mrs. Jordan obtained the divorce on the grounds of desertion and non-support," said Mr. Heyman. "Mr. Jordan did not contest the suit. Mrs. Jordan and one daughter 5 years old are now living at Coronado Beach, Cal."

Mr. O'Hara, mentioned in the suicide's letter, was a close personal friend. Mr. Kenney is his sister's husband.

FITZSIMMONS ASKS LEAVE TO BOX AGAIN

Opposing State Commission's Prohibition, Experts Say He's as Tough as Sole Leather.

TANGO TOO MUCH IN RING

Ex-Champion Wants to Teach White Hopes to Fight—Hopes to Have Ten Rounds with Kearns.

The crowd that jammed Justice Seabury's part of the Supreme Court yesterday, to hear the argument on the application of "Lanky Bob" Fitzsimmons to compel the New York State Athletic Commission to permit him to enter the ring again, was disappointed. The hearing was adjourned until tomorrow at the request of Deputy Attorney General John J. Dwyer. He said he wanted an opportunity to study the merits of the case.

The pugilist was promptly on hand at 10:30 with his counsel, George C. Norton. As he appeared in the dark corridor, an advance guard heralded his arrival and there was a flocking of idlers and clerks. Fitzsimmons smiled genially and greeted everybody who spoke to him. He had to use his big shoulders to get into the court room, and then the noise of his admirers was so great that the court officers had a job to silence them.

Finally it was suggested that Fitzsimmons hold his reception in the corridor, while his lawyers looked after his interests in the court. Fitzsimmons grinned and said that suited him. He pushed his way out, and so many followed him that there was scarcely a corporal's guard left.

Mr. Norton submitted a number of affidavits concerning the ability of Fitzsimmons to stand hard and fast work in the ring. The first of these was signed by Mike Donovan, head boxing instructor of the New York Athletic Club, who said he had been boxing for twenty-six years and that, although he is now 66 years old, he still boxes four hours a day.

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle of Philadelphia, who has himself done some boxing in the ring as well as out of it, said in his affidavit that he also had boxed with Fitzsimmons, and he would like to see the man capable of causing the "light heavyweight" any distress.

Other affidavits were from Dr. Thomas A. Kenyon and Dr. Edward D. Rudderow, who said they had examined Fitzsimmons and found him hard as sole leather and capable of standing any amount of so-called "punishment" in a ring.

Meanwhile Fitzsimmons was having a fine time with his friends in the corridor.

"There is too much tangoing in the ring nowadays and not enough real fighting. When I go in the ring I don't go in to dance, but to box. That's what I always have done and I always will do it. I ain't afraid of getting hurt. Any hurt any man can do me I can stand. Don't let anybody have any fear about that."

SCHOOLBOYS WON'T STRIKE

Stuyvesant Students Not Planning Walkout in Sympathy for Harder.

George Harder, 17 years old, a fifth-term student in the Stuyvesant High School, Fifteenth Street, between First and Second Avenues, was arrested in the school building on Tuesday afternoon on a charge of disorderly conduct. The complaint against the student was made by Vice Principal Walter Foster, who called in Patrolman Connell of the East Twenty-second Street police station to arrest Harder.

According to some of Harder's classmates, he was seen by Harry T. Knox, teacher of drawing, smoking on the school premises in violation of the rules. The drawing teacher, it is said, reprimanded the student, but the latter paid no attention to the teacher. Later he was confronted by the teacher in the presence of Mr. Foster. Harder, it is reported, threatened bodily harm to the Vice Principal and the teacher, and started to leave the room. At the police station the student gave his address as Bayside, L. I. He is the son of Julius F. Harder, an architect. The boy was paroled in the custody of his father until 2 o'clock this afternoon, when he will be arraigned in the Essex Market Court. Members of Harder's class in drawing denied yesterday afternoon that they intended to go on a strike unless the charge against him was dropped by the Vice Principal. Neither the Principal, Ernest L. von Nardroff, nor Vice Principal Foster would discuss the affair.

CONEY HOTEL BURNS.

Firemen Save Building Near in Spite of 60-Mile Gale.

The Roseben Hotel, on Seaside Walk, in Coney Island, was destroyed by fire in the early hours of yesterday morning and its burning furnished a two-hour fight for the firemen, who had to work in the bitter cold and a sixty-mile gale.

The fire, which did a damage of $25,000, was kept from other buildings only by stubborn resistance, and Stauch's dance hall, across the way, was saved by the steady work of a bucket brigade made up of all the Stauch employes. Joseph White, the proprietor, was in Manhattan at the time and Mrs. White, with her bulldog in her arms, was carried from the burning building by the police.

FOR FEDERAL ALASKAN ROAD

Supporters Say It Will Pay Its Construction Cost in One Year.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Congress learned much of the resources of Alaska to-day, both houses devoting most of their time to debate on bills for a Government railroad from the coast to the interior of the Territory. With maps and pointer, Senator Walsh of Montana held the floor in the Senate, supporting the Chamberlain bill, while Delegate Wickersham of Alaska championed in the House a similar measure introduced by himself.

Supporters of the project thought to-night that the bills would pass both houses without serious opposition, probably early next week. Some delay may be caused, however, by an amendment offered by Senator Norris to provide for a Government-owned steamship line from Alaska to Pacific Coast ports and to the Atlantic via the Panama Canal. This proposal was not touched upon to-day.

Estimating that the Government would need at least 300,000 tons of coal annually on the Pacific for naval purposes, Senator Walsh said the cost of transporting this amount of coal from Atlantic ports would amount to more than $1,500,000, the greater part of that sum going to foreign ship owners. With the building of only twenty-five miles of railroad to the Bering coal fields of Alaska this could be saved, he said, and the cost of construction repaid in one year's economy.

Delegate Wickersham told the House that lobbyists for the Guggenheim interests in Alaska had been in Washington working against the passage of the bill.

In October, 1912, she was elected an Associate of Radcliffe College for a term of three years, on the nomination of the Alumnae.

Day's Imprisonment for Contempt.

Judge Hough yesterday in the Federal District Court fined Robert Corn, alias Leon Gutterman, $150 and placed him in the custody of Marshal Henkel for one day for having committed contempt of court by violating an injunction restraining him from the sale of certain pin fasteners and pin protectors, which were alleged to have been patented by Maximilian Fischer. The fine was paid.

250,000 MILITIAMEN FOR SERVICE ABROAD

States' Forces to be Doubled and Made Available for Action in Foreign Lands.

GUARDSMEN TO BE PAID

New Administration Measure Has the Support of Militia Commanders of 32 States.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—A new bill, much broader in its scope and practically revolutionary in its effect, has been agreed upon by Secretary of War Garrison, the officers in charge of the militia division of the regular army and the Adjutant Generals commanding the militia in thirty-two States, to supersede the oVlunteer Army bill passed by the House of Representatives just before the holiday recess and now pending in the Senate.

The new measure is designed to convert the State militia of the country, now numbering approximately 120,000 enlisted men, into an effective fighting force instantly at the command of the Federal Government for purposes of invading a foreign country, if necessary, as well as to repel invasion at home. Recruited to full war strength, the militia wing of the regular army, as now promised, would number in round figures 250,000 men.

There is every reason to believe that the bill will be enacted by Congress early in the present session and with little or no debate. Secretary Garrison has assured the Adjutant Generals of the States, meeting here with the National Militia Board, that President Wilson strongly favors the bill and will use his influence with Congress to have it pushed through with no unnecessary delay.

The Adjutant Generals, when they gathered here this week, were prepared to urge certain amendments to the pending Volunteer Army bill. The conferences with the heads of the War Department resulted in the decision to unite all the elements having to do with the handling of the National Guard in support of the substitute and very much broader legislation.

The new measure will meet, in a roundabout but nevertheless, effective way, the requirements of the Federal Constitution, that members of the National Guard cannot be called into the service of the Federal Government in connection with the invasion of a foreign country, such as would be the case should the United States intervene in Mexico. Those enlisting in the militia will take what will amount to two oaths, one affecting service strictly for the States, and the other covering service for the United States should the militia be called out by the Federal Government. Thus, the National Guard could at once, without formalities, be called into the Federal service under a call so arranged that the guardsmen immediately would take their places in the regular army as volunteers rather than as militiamen.

It is intended to provide for Federal pay for members of the National Guard as a regular practice in time of peace as well as of war. Under this feature of the bill the Government, at the outset, would expend about $8,000,000 annually in payments for the National Guard, this money to be distributed equitably, or as nearly so as possible, among the guardsmen of the various States.

It is proposed to regulate payments on the basis of a graduated scale starting from the privates down rather than from the officers down as is usually the case. Enlisted men in the National Guard are to be paid at the rate of one dollar for each drill attended. The pay of the officers is to be on a very much smaller scale.

The Federal Government will not pay directly, but through the States, which will serve as disbursing agents. This will avoid complications over such questions as pensions and other points which might tend to hinder the acceptance by Congress of the new measure.

SALE OF LINCOLN RELICS.

Two Sessions of Lambert Sale Realize a Total of $15,675.

The first two sessions of the sale of the late Major William H. Lambert's remarkable collection of Lincolniana, conducted by the Metropolitan Art Association at the Anderson Galleries yesterday, established a number of new record prices. The total for the day was $15,675, of which $8,406 was obtained last evening.

The largest sum paid for a single item was $3,250. It was one of three copies of the original Thirteenth Constitutional Amendment, written on vellum, made by the Chief Engrossing Clerk and his two assistants by special permission, and at their request signed by Abraham Lincoln, Vice President Hannibal Hamlin, and Speaker Schuyler Colfax. George D. Smith was the successful bidder. It was reported that he was buying for Henry E. Huntington in this and other instances.

He also obtained for $1,900 one of fifty authorized copies of the original Emancipation Proclamation, signed by Lincoln, William H. Seward, and John G. Nicolay. These fifty copies were signed by Lincoln for Charles G. Leland at the request of George H. Boker.

A scarce Southern pamphlet "Abraham Lincoln Demonstrated to be the Gog of the Bible," Memphis, 1868, went to F. W. Morris for $126. A fine copy of the broadside offering $100,000 reward for the capture of Lincoln's assassins, containing photographs of Surratt, Wilkes Booth, and Harold, was knocked down to H. Whittman for $400.

Charles F. Heartman gave $185 for a collection of Lincolniana in nine octavo volumes. E. D. North obtained for $675 the original play bills issued at Ford's Theatre, Washington, on the morning and evening of the day on which Lincoln was shot. The scarcest of the lot is the play bill printed in the afternoon after it had been definitely ascertained that Lincoln would attend the performance of "Our American Cousin." Mr. Smith gave $225 for a "Biograph and Sketch of Lincoln" by Charles H. Hart, Albany, 1870, and "Bibliographia Lincolniana," two volumes in one.

Among the persons present at the sale was Montagu Barlow, Member of Parliament and a member of the firm of Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge, London. Two more sessions will be held to-day. This afternoon the remarkable series of Lincoln autograph letters will be dispersed.

Knaus's Painting Brings Top Price at Rohlson Sale—Total $19,582.

There were a good audience and good prices at the concluding sale of pictures of Mrs. Bertha Rohlson of Hamburg, Germany, and others at Silo's Fifth Avenue Art Galleries last evening. The highest price of the evening was brought by Ludwig Knaus's "The Pickpocket," a large painting, a market scene, which went to Snedecor & Babcock, as agents, for $6,100. The same buyers made a number of purchases. "Approaching Storm," by Houget, went to them for $425. They paid $350 for a Clays, "Fishing Boats on the North Sea," and $1,550 for "The Picture," two girls looking at an album, by Vautier.

A number of pictures not on the catalogue were sold following the regular numbers. Of these a rich interior with red curtains at the windows, a large palm in the centre of the background, and two figures, by Munkacsy, went to W. Michel for $1,450. H. Moberly paid $560 for a picture, "Landscape and Sheep," by Jacques. John Levy paid $505 for a large and beautiful flower picture by Robie, "In the Park at Versailles." The "Portrait of a Man," by Frans Hals, went to J. Rathburn, agent, for $700, and "The Puppet Show," by Decamps, to the same buyer for $500.

A large cattle picture, "Coming Home," went to the Holland Galleries for $500, and a very large picture, 56 by 92, by M. F. H. de Haas, "Cape Ann Off the Coast of Maine," went to the same buyers for $470. There were large rocks in the foreground of this picture shown in the shadow, while the sun was flushing the sky in the background and the water beside the rocks. Henry P. Smith's big landscape, "The Lone Oak Tree," went to A. T. Scofield for $475. A. G. Scopes of Albany paid $525 for Moreland's "The Smugglers."

The returns for the evening were $15,482 and for the sale $19,582.

DISMISS MOTHER FROM HER SCHOOL

Mrs. Griswold, a Clerical Assistant, Concealed the Birth of Her Child.

WOMEN VOTE AGAINST HER

Board of Education Unanimous in Action on Charges in Staten Island Case.

Mrs. Carolyn W. Griswold, clerical assistant in the Curtis High School, New Brighton, Staten Island, was dismissed from the service by the Board of Education yesterday because, as alleged, she made false statements about her absence from the school, which was due to the birth of her child. The vote for her dismissal was unanimous. All of the women Commissioners present cast their votes against her. Mrs. Giswold's salary was $1,200 a year.

The Board of Superintendents first learned of Mrs. Griswold's absence from school in November last, when the report of her Principal was received, giving the number of days she had failed to report for duty. District Supt. Bardwell investigated the case, and learned that Mrs. Griswold had given birth to a child. As a result of his investigation Mrs. Griswold was suspended on Dec. 8.

Her case was heard on Jan. 7 by the Committee on High Schools. The accused was present with her counsel, John S. Wise, Jr. The testimony was to the effect that when she was questioned as to the reason for her absence she made, as alleged, false statements for the purpose of concealing the facts, and deceiving the Education Department officials. It was also alleged that she had refused to give proper answers to questions put to her by City Supt. Maxwell and District Supt. Bardwell, and had withheld necessary information asked by them. The High Schools Committee, after hearing all the evidence, decided unanimously to report in favor of her dismissal. It is said that Mrs. Griswold will apepal to the courts.

The Board of Education was in a dismissing mood yesterday. It found Samuel E. Schenck, a cleaner in Public School 6, Queens, guilty of charges of absence without leave and neglect of duty and dismissed him. It also found George E. Butterfield, janitor of Public School 111, Manhattan, guilty of charges of gross misconduct and dismissed him also.

Leniency was shown in the case of Mrs. Rena G. Schweitzer, a teacher in School 13, Manhattan. She was suspended by District Superintendent Jenkins on Dec. 6 for neglect of duty in absenting herself from her school. When a copy of the charges was taken to her house it was learned that she had sailed for Bermuda. She did not return until Jan. 13. The Committee on Elementary Schools recommended that, in view of the fact that she had been teaching with satisfaction to the committee for some time, punishment be limited to a fine representing her salary from Dec. 2, the first day of her absence, to Jan. 13, inclusive, and that she be allowed to resume her duties with full pay dating from Saturday. The Board of Education so ordered.

All of the new members of the board were present at the meeting, including Dr. Abraham Flexner, William Harkness, and John J. Keller of Brooklyn and William G. Willcox of Richmond. Dr. Flexner took no part in any of the day's discussions. Mr. Harkness, a former member of the Board of Education, was warmly welcomed by the older members.

On motion of Gen. George W. Wingate the board authorized the Brooklyn Committee on Public Safety to conduct a children's safety crusade in the public schools of Brooklyn.

Secretary Palmer informed the board of the receipt of a letter from parents of pupils in Public School 52, Broadway and Academy Street, asking that Van Evrie Kilpatrick, who has been acting teacher in charge there, be appointed as Principal. President Churchill said that he had been visited by a delegation of citizens who urged Mr. Kilpatrick's appointment. It appears, however, that Mr. Kilpatrick has lost a Principal's license, and the board therefore could not appoint him without violating its rules.

Henry M. Leipsiger, Supervisor of Lectures, was authorized to visit colleges and universities to obtain lecturers for lecture courses, his expenses to be paid by the Education Department.

On the recommendation of the Board of Superintendents it was decided to set aside rooms in Public School 54, Manhattan, and Public School 69, Brooklyn, as annexes of the Julia Richman High School and Commercial High School respectively.

Leave of absence without pay from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1914, was granted to Owen M. Kiernan, inspector of fuel, Bureau of Supplies, to enable him to serve as a member of the Legislature.

It was decided to appoint a special committee with reference to public school class work exhibit at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915. The Board of Superintendents was permitted to withdraw its nomination of Robert S. Stantial as Principal of Public School 104, Brooklyn.

SMELTING INQUIRY STILL ON

Rumors of Negotiations with Government Are Denied.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—There have been rumors recently of tentative efforts on the part of the American Smelting and Refining Company to provide by negotiations for compliance with the anti-trust law and thus avoid possible prosecution by the Government.

Inquiry at the Department of Justice to-night brought the statement from high authority that the investigation of the operations of the company is still in progress and a complete denial was given to the report that efforts at a compromise were under headway. It was asserted positively that no such compromise was even contemplated by the representatives of the company or by the Government.

The field of inquiry into the business of the smelting company is so vast and intricate, it was explained, that it will take a long time to obtain the information necessary to determine the basis and scope of any proposed prosecution.

FAVOR RATE INCREASE.

Boot and Shoe Manufacturers Appeal for Railroads.

The National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association met yesterday at the Hotel Astor in an all-day convention. Among the resolutions passed was one urging the Interstate Commerce Commission to hasten its decision on the application of the Eastern railroads for an increase in freight rates so that "this influence halting trade" might be abolished as soon as possible. In the resolution it was said that "the business men of the country will acquiesce without prejudice in an advance in rates if such is found necessary by the commission in order to provide business with efficient service."

Last night the convention was brought to a close by a dinner in the Hotel Astor, at which William A. Marble, President of the Merchants' Association; William H. McElroy, and the Right Rev. W. A. Quayle of the Methodist Episcopal Church were the speakers.

John H. Hanan of Hanan & Son, was presented with a framed testimonial of appreciation by Congressman Kreider in the name of the association. Mr. Hanan served the association as President from the time of its organization nine years ago until last year.

$100,000 FOR SANITARIUM.

Anonymous Endowment Gift for Medford, L. I., Institution.

The Medford Sanitarium for working people at Medford, L. I., will receive a $100,000 endowment, if the prospective donor is satisfied after an inquiry that the work now being done there may be made of general benefit to humanity. The philanthropist making the offer, whose name is withheld for the present, resides outside the State.

The sanitarium was started by a number of labor unions to provide for tuberculosis patients. They bought a tract of forty acres and have contributed toward its support by assessing union members one to two cents each monthly. Other large contributors are Charles M. and Frederick B. Pratt, 26 Broadway.

Work was begun last Spring and several small buildings were erected. Thirty patients are now being cared for. At the first annual meeting yesterday these officers were re-elected: Howard F. Whitney, President; Dr. Arthur Meyer, Vice President, and Henry J. Davenport, Treasurer.

COUPLE DEAD IN AUTO.

Infatuated, Cunningham Shot Woman Business Partner and Himself.

LONG BEACH, Cal., Jan. 14.—Belief that his infatuation for Mrs. Violet A. Kerr, his business partner, had become known to his wife, his parents, his intimate friends, and business associates, coupled with the fact that Mrs. Kerr had refused to desert her husband and children to elope with him, was given by the police to-day as the reason why Arthur E. Cunningham, a realty man of this city, shot and killed Mrs. Kerr last night and then took his own life.

The bodies of Cunningham and Mrs. Kerr were found in an automobile standing by the roadside in a lonely part of the city. Both had been shot through the head, and in the man's hand was the revolver.

WILLIAMS EXPLAINS MUNSEY TRUST DEAL

Other Washington Institutions Refused to Take Over U. S. Trust, He Tells Senators.

BANKERS HEAR STATEMENT

Total of 1,626 National Banks Now Enrolled for Federal Reserve—State Banks Also Joining.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The Senate Committee on Banking and Currency held extended hearings to-day in regard to John Skelton Williams' appointment as Controller of the Currency and ex-officio member of the Organization Committee and the Federal Reserve Board. The Democrats had hoped to dispose of the matter this afternoon, but the hearings lasted so long that this was impossible. The committee will meet again to-morrow morning, and if witnesses conclude their testimony in time an effort will be made to report the nomination soon after the Senate convenes at noon.

The committee's inquiry this afternoon was confined almost exclusively to Mr. Williams's part as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in facilitating the taking over of the United States Trust Company of Washington by the Munsey Trust Company of Washington, following a run on the first-named company. The charge was made that Mr. Williams was prompted by personal feelings for his brother, Lancaster Williams of the Munsey Trust of Baltimore, and had not required satisfactory collateral for $1,000,000 of Government money deposited to relieve the strain on the United States Trust.

Mr. Williams appeared before the committee and explained his course. He said the Treasury could not deal directly with a trust company, so that he had deposited $1,000,000 with twelve national banks of the District, and after proper security had been received from the United States Trust Company and the Munsey Trust Company, these banks were authorized to transfer their deposits to the tills of the United States Trust. There never had been any question, he said, of the institution's ultimate solvency.

Mr. Williams's testimony threw light on certain phases of the difficulties which confronted the United States Trust Company. He said the National Bank of Washington first thought of saving the local situation by taking over the business of the United States Trust Company, but finally decided not to do so. The Continental Trust then took up the matter, and it also decided against action. Then there was a meeting of the local bankers to discuss a remedy, and in the end Frank A. Munsey for the Munsey Trust Company took over the United States Trust Company.

The committee's hearing was in secret, but Mr. Williams's testimony was heard by W. F. Flather, Vice-President of the Riggs National Bank and Chairman of the Clearing House, and William R. Merriam and W. C. Warden of the Continental Trust Company. Mr. Flather said that to-morrow he would correct some of Mr. Williams's statements.

When the committee met early this afternoon, Senator Reed of Missouri, seconded by Senator Shafroth of Colorado, moved that Mr. Williams's nomination be favorably reported at once. Mr. Weeks, however, said he thought the committee should have further light on certain points affecting Mr. Williams's career. A short recess was then taken to allow Mr. Williams and the local bankers time to reach the Capitol.

Certified copies of resolutions adopted by the Boards of Directors of 1,626 national banks, accepting the provisions of the new currency law, had been received up to to-night by the Treasury Department. The acceptances, it was said, included nearly all of the largest banks in the principal cities, and the list was being increased hourly by notifications from State banks announcing their intention to nationalize.

Of the total applications received 114 are from the New England States, 435 from the Eastern States, 286 from the Southern States, 522 from the Middle States, 185 from the Western States, and 84 from the Pacific States. Pennsylvania leads with 225 applications, Ohio is second with 136, New York third with 101, and Indiana fourth with 100. Fifty-three have been received from Oklahoma.

JAPANESE IS SLAYER OF WOMAN AND SELF

Namura Lures Mrs. Simmons from City and Kills Her After a Quarrel.

LETTER TELLS OF DESPAIR

A Coachman Finds the Bodies in House at Roslyn for Which the Murderer Was Caretaker.

Thomas Mallon, a coachman for A. C. Clarkson on the Roslyn Estates at Roslyn, L. I., entered the dwelling house yesterday morning intending to have breakfast with Kiji Mamura, the Japanese butler, who had been left in charge. No one was stirring and Mallon went to Namura's room. There he saw lying on the floor the bodies of Namura and a young American woman. There were two bullet wounds in the woman's body and one in Namura's head. The young woman wore a dark dress and had laid aside a gray fur hat and set of black fox furs. Mallon told Judge C. E. Remsen that he had seen the young woman drive to the Clarkson house from the railroad station with the butler on the night before and had heard them at 9 o'clock quarrelling in Namura's room. The bodies were removed to the morgue. Both had been dead for several hours and it was evident that the shooting must have occurred shortly after the quarrel.

Mrs. Lizzie Willer of 344 West Fifty-eighth Street, went to Roslyn late yesterday afternoon and identified the body of the woman as that of Mrs. Tessie Simmons, 26 years old.

"Mrs. Simmons had lived with me for six years," Mrs. Willer said. "She became acquainted with Namura about ten months ago when he was employed as steward on a yacht. They had been in each other's company frequently since then. Namura said that he was anxious to marry her, but, as this was impossible, since both of them were married, he wanted her to take up her abode with him.

"She refused to do this, and last Friday night, when he called upon her at 344 West Fifty-eighth Street, he threatened to kill her, if she would not go with him. He wrote to her later asking forgiveness and also called her on the telephone. Then he sent her a round-trip ticket to Roslyn, and asked her to visit him.

"I tried to persuade her not to do it, but she insisted on going. On Tuesday afternoon I went to the Pennsylvania Station with her when she started for Roslyn. She said she would return that night on the 11 o'clock train."

Several letters were left by Namura. An open letter was as follows:

> I am very old friend. May I die my own way? I know the girl about four years. Some trouble came off a few weeks ago. Now I cannot go to her. I cannot stand it longer. I think the girl's mother and sister know about me and Tessie.
> Now, all my friends and Tessie's friends, good-bye. I have been married in Japan in 1898. I was divorced in 1900. I was born in 1877. I came to this country in 1907 and married a Swedish girl by name of Anna Half, 1912, April 21. My wife went home Sept. 29, 1912. I think she is in Brooklyn. Let Mrs. J. Johnson know and they know where my wife is. Tessie has two homes, one is downtown and one uptown. One is 344 West Fifty-eighth Street, and 19 Pell Street. Her mother's address, Mrs. Lizzie W. Miller, 1,966 Fulton Street, Brooklyn. This is her sister's address: Mrs. Charles Borum, 2,319 Van Cortlandt Avenue, Evergreen, L. I. Let them know. My marriage license Tessie has got. Tessie asked me for them some time ago. She wanted to use something with her aunt, Bessie. I gave her because I love her. She was always good to me. KIJI NAMURA.

Mrs. Willer, who is about the same age as the Simmons woman, denied that she was related to her. She said she never heard that Mrs. Simmons had a room at 19 Pell Street. This is the address of a Chinese lodging house.

Mrs. Miller, mother of the slain woman, who now lives at 711 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn, said last night that she had been worried about her daughter's safety and had called to see her on Tuesday.

Mr. Clarkson, who is a member of the automobile firm of Clarkson & Ford, said last night that the butler had been in his employ for a few months and had told him several weeks ago that he intended soon to be married.

DEFIES POSSE WITH RIFLE.

Farmer Holds House While Large Family Cry with Cold and Hunger.

Special to The New York Times.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Armed with two rifles, a shotgun, a revolver, and having apparently plenty of ammunition, Edward Beardsley, barricaded in his farmhouse near Mayville, has held off Sheriff Anderson and a posse of ten men since last evening. In the house with him are his wife and nine children and a woman relative.

The family is destitute, and when John G. W. Putnam, Overseer of the Poor, went to the house yesterday to remove the children to an institution, Beardsley shot and wounded him, it is believed, fatally. When the Sheriff went to arrest him, Beardsley opened fire, and Anderson had to retreat. The posse have surrounded the house all day, but have been unable to get near it. When an officer comes within ten rods of the house he is fired at.

The family must be suffering terribly from cold, for the mercury is below zero and there is no fuel in the house. By means of a field glass the officers could see that Beardsley's mustache was covered with frost when he appeared at a window. Moreover until late this afternoon the besieged family was without food.

This became known when Timothy Van Cise, the rural free delivery mail carrier, and William Walker, a friend of Beardsley, walked boldly up to the front door of the house. Beardsley refused to admit them but talked to them through a broken window for a short time. He declared that he would resist arrest until he was dead.

His friends urged him to surrender for the sake of the children, and Beardsley finally promised to give himself up to-morrow. Mrs. Beardsley came to the window and begged the men to bring food and firewood. She said there was no fire in the house and that the children were starving. The children could be heard whimpering and crying in an adjoining room.

Van Cise and Walker reported these conditions to Sheriff Andrews, who thereupon sent two men to the house with food. They had orders to rush Beardsley if they succeeded in getting inside. When they approached the house, however, Beardsley covered them with a rifle and made them pass the food through a window.

MAY CONTINUE ART EXHIBIT.

Work of Pupils of Bezalel School Finds Many Admirers.

The exhibition of arts and crafts of the Bezalel School at Jerusalem in the concert hall of the Madison Square Garden has been so successful that it is hoped to continue it until Jan. 22 instead of closing on Jan. 18, as was planned. The exhibition, which is held under the auspices of the Zionists, after it closes here will be given in Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, and Buffalo.

The hostesses yesterday were Mrs. Marcus M. Marks, Miss Annette M. Kohn, Mrs. Samuel M. Stroock, and Mrs. N. Taylor Phillips. Especial interest is taken in the school by Mrs. Phillips, who has visited the institution. She will be one of the hostesses to-day with Mrs. M. Morgenthau, Jr., Miss Madeline Borg, Mrs. Stephen S. Wise, and Mrs. Gertrude Gattman. There is a good attendance daily.

DOCTOR MARRIES NURSE.

Hospital Romance Has a Fresh Start in Secret Wedding.

Dr. Harold Milne French, house surgeon at the Metropolitan Hospital, and Miss Susie N. Griffing of Shelter Island were secretly married in Jersey City on Dec. 27, and the news came out only yesterday. Their courtship was a hospital courtship between doctor and nurse, and their plan was to say nothing of their wedding until next June, when the doctor's services at the hospital come to an end, and he will start the practice of medicine in Mount Vernon, where Dr. French's home is at 6 North Tenth Avenue.

It was more than a year ago that Miss Griffing was a nurse in the surgical division at the Metropolitan, and she and Dr. French were thrown much in each other's society in their watch over a protracted and serious case.

ARREST FOUR MORE IN TRUNK MURDER

Two Men and Two Women Who Lived in Flat Where Man Died Are Caught.

BROUGHT HERE BY A RUSE

Extradition from New Jersey Avoided by Detectives — Men Admit Putting Body in the Trunk.

By a ruse, Detectives Steinkamp and Feinn of the Clinton Street Station succeeded early yesterday in bringing back to New York without extradition papers two men wanted by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty on suspicion that they were implicated in the murder of Ivan Martysewicz, whose body was found in a trunk on Dec. 29, at noon, before 47 Pitt Street. Late on Tuesday night the police received word that Charles Draniewicz, in whose flat at 529 East Eleventh Street, Martysewicz died, and John Rabinoff, who lived at the flat, and at 172 Ferry Street, New York, had been seen loitering about a saloon at 110 Wittcoff Street, Newark.

The detectives, who speak several Slavic dialects, went over to Newark disguised as laborers and visited the saloon. They soon found the men they wanted and got into conversation with them. However, they did not want to call Newark policemen and place them under arrest, because extradition from New Jersey would take too long. They decided, if possible, to lure the two men back to New York, where they might be arrested.

They told Draniewicz, also known as Karal Dann, and Rabinoff, also known as Lenka, that they had just come down from work in Rockland County and wanted to go to New York for a good time. They invited the two men to go with them, but they balked, until the detectives promised to give them spending money and pay the expenses of the trip in return for guidance to gambling and other resorts.

The party of four boarded a tube train for New York. When the train reached Hudson Terminal the detectives flashed their badges and told Draniewicz and Rabinoff they were under arrest.

The two prisoners were held at the Clinton Street Station until about noon, when they were brought over to headquarters to be examined by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, Inspector Faurot and Assistant District Attorney Breckenridge. According to information made public by Mr. Dougherty, the two men admitted that they had seen Martysewicz in the flat which Draniewicz has since abandoned, and that he partook freely of beer, wine and whiskey. On Saturday night they say they discovered that he was dead. Rabinoff held a mirror to his mouth, they said, to make sure that he was dead.

On Sunday morning, after sleeping all night in the flat with the corpse, they said they and Muravlof, who is already under arrest for having aided in the disposition of the body, assisted them to tie up the body with a piece of clothes line which was handy by in the hall of the tenement house, and then all hands lifted it into the trunk. The two men arrested early yesterday asserted that Muravlof was the man who forced the lid of the trunk down to lock it after the body had been put in in a sitting position. It was this blow that broke Martysewicz's neck.

Detectives Blaha and Pifaster also succeeded in finding late yesterday afternoon the two other women who were inmates of the East Eleventh Street flat with Mary Bodner, now under arrest in the Tombs charged with robbing a Pole by the use of "knock-out drops." The two women, Stefka Kwialtowska, of 103 Second Street, and Carrie Majgenheimer, of 33 Avenue A, were arrested at 30 Avenue D. They confessed according to the police, that they had been accustomed to lure men to the East Eleventh Street flat and that the men who ran the flat robbed most of their visitors by drugging them with "knock-out drops" in their beer.

They said that on the Sunday preceeding the finding of the body, they were barred from the flat. They saw the trunk on the push-cart the next morning, but bribes and threats from Muravlof, Draniewitz, and Mary Bodner made them keep quiet, they said.

CARUSO AGAIN SINGS CANIO.

Exhausted from Tragic Feeling in "Pagliacci"—"Hansel und Gretel."

The special matinee yesterday at the Metropolitan Opera House with "Hansel und Gretel" and "I Pagliacci" as the bill, drew a large audience. The latter performance was notable for the fact that for the first time this season Antonio Scotti appeared as Tonio, Mme. Destinn as Nedda, and Dinh Gilly as Silvio in the latter opera. The cast of "Hansel und Gretel" was the usual one except that Robert Leonhardt sang the father for the second time and Mme. Duchene was the Sandmännchen. Mr. Leonhardt increased the good opinion of his work that the first performance had created. His characterization has not the broad, unctuous humor that Otto Goritz brings to the part, but it is quite adequate on the acting side and vocally very good. Mme. Duchene sang the Sandman's music very agreeably. Mme. Alten and Mme. Mattfeld, on whom the principal burden fall, were up to their best mark, and the whole performance went very well. Hans Morgenstern conducted.

The performance of "Pagliacci" was on the same level of excellence. Scotti's Tonio was good to hear and see again, and Mme. Destinn sang as usual with well-nigh perfect vocalization. The appearance of Gilly as Silvio raised that part to more than its usual significance. The baritone sang splendidly. It is doubtful whether Caruso ever put more beauty of tone or more tragic feeling into his singing of Canio than he did yesterday. These elements seem to be dominating his presentation of the rôle more and more, so that it is becoming less a matter of lung power and vibrant tone and taking on a deeper significance. He worked himself into a state of nervous intensity yesterday during the "Ridi Pagliaccio" that left him exhausted when the audience saw him taking his curtain calls. The audience did not know that after they were over he had to be half carried to his dressing room.

In the evening "Boris Godunoff" was given with the usual cast, including Mmes. Ober, Case, Sparkes, Duchene, and Maubourg, and Messrs. Didur, Althouse, Bada, Rothier, de Segurola, Reiss, Reschiglian, Audisio, and Rossi. Mr. Toscanini conducted. The only change was that Anna Case sang the rôle of Boris's son, Miss Braslau being indisposed.

The Library of Congress paid $29 for a choice copy of the scarce Hammersmith, 1894, "Poems of John Keats" at the George H. Richmond Company's auction room yesterday. George D. Smith gave $45 for the "Heptomeron" of Margaret Queen of Navarre, printed at Berne in 1789. An extra-illustrated copy of "The Table Talk of John Selden," London, 1847, brought $24. A line engraving of the Declaration of Independence, by A. B. Durand, after John Trumbull, large folio, 1820, open letter proof, went to Robert Fridenberg for $25.

"Sheremill Pond," etching, by Seymour Haden, quarto, 1860, was bought by James F. Drake for $19. The same bidder obtained for $22.50 "The Agamemnon," another Haden etching, oblong folio, 1870. BRUERE CUTS EXPENSES.

New City Chamberlain Sifts Office Force—Dismisses J. J. Hagan, Jr.

Carrying out the instructions of Mayor Mitchel regarding economy, City Chamberlain Henry Bruere yesterday made several changes in his office which will reduce expenses materially.

James J. Hagan, Jr., a warrant clerk, was told that his services no longer were required. Hagan is a son of James J. Hagan, Tammany leader of the Fifteenth District, but the Chamberlain said that this was not the reason for his removal. Hagan is the most recent appointee of the office. His place will be filled by transferring Abraham Rossman, another warrant clerk. Hagan received $3,500 a year and Rossman will get $2,150.

Deputy Chamberlain Harry J. Walsh was made chief warrant clerk at a salary of $4,000 a year. Mr. Walsh received $5,000 as deputy. He formerly was a Brooklyn newspaper man. John V. Smith, the Chamberlain's secretary, was told that in the interest of economy his place was to be given to Miss Ida Fingerhut, who was with Mr. Bruere when he was head of the Bureau of Municipal Research. Mr. Smith was appointed private secretary to Charles H. Hyde at a salary of $8,000 a year and served under City Chamberlain Moore. The salary of his successor is to be $2,000. Mr. Smith probably will be employed by the Bureau of Municipal Research, as the Chamberlain is anxious to have him to do some work of investigation.

Mr. Bruere's changes leave a vacancy in the office of Deputy Chamberlain with a salary of $5,000, but it was said that no appointment would be made to fill it.

AFTER WAR, PEACE.

In warfare between civilized nations no blood is shed after the battle has been won. It is the great good fortune of President WILSON that in the first year of his Administration victory has come to the Federal Government in its long war against industrial combinations accused of wrongful acts. The President, with the magnanimity of a successful commander, and with the wisdom of a broad-minded statesman, is resolved that hostilities shall now cease and is concerned chiefly with the establishment of a peace that shall be permanent. That, at least, is the belief of those who essay to read his mind near at hand in Washington; the country shares that belief. The radicals in Congress, on the other hand, would continue to hack and hew the corporations after they have accepted terms of surrender. The industries and the commerce of the country, in which a spirit of renewed activity, of hope, and of confidence is visibly stirring, would be chilled and disheartened by a renewal of the Federal assault, and prolonged prostration, not business revival, would follow. The people, then, in their actual losses and in the shrinking of their gains, would pay the costs of this war. Profit, and that political, could accrue only to the fomenters of strife. A great part of the cost, too, would be assessed upon the Administration. Presidents are most popular when the country is prosperous.

Mr. WILSON is wise in his insight and in his foresight. He sees, he cannot help seeing, for the proofs are before him, that the corporations and the men accused of doing business in defiance of law or contrary to the country's declared policy have yielded to the irresistible. They have yielded in more instances than the public is aware of. They are sincerely desirous to put themselves within the zone of safety by withdrawing from the forbidden zone. The Administration, without failing in its duty, without the waiver of any prohibitions, has helpfully met them half way. In the present temper of the public it is only those who have some other than the general interest to serve who are vindictive, who clamor for extermination. The law has been misconstrued, it is largely the fault of the courts that it has been so long misunderstood. There is a general disposition to acquit most of the offenders of a willful intent to disregard the law. Intelligent men know and candid men admit that it has been exceedingly difficult in many cases to distinguish between the prohibited and the permitted. The President's purpose, at least that seems to be his disposition, is to accept in good faith the offers of submission to authority and to take more thought about the rebuilding of prosperity under the law than of punishing past transgressions now repented of.

Patriotism, wise statesmanship, and sound judgment counsel that policy. It is the path to prosperity for the people, to new and higher esteem and honor for the President.

"SEA SLAVES."

"A bill to abolish the involuntary "servitude imposed upon seamen in "the merchant marine of the United "States while in foreign ports, and "the involuntary servitude imposed "upon the seamen of the merchant "marine of foreign countries while "in ports of the United States"—that is the title of Senator LA FOLLETTE's Seamen's bill. Are sailors slaves while in port?

If they have not broken their contracts their service is not involuntary and it is not servitude. The question is pertinent, however, whether a civil contract for service, if broken, should involve criminal proceedings. The treaties of the United States with foreign countries permit the foreign consular officers in American ports to decide whether deserters from the merchant marine of their respective countries shall be arrested; a Federal law pledges the aid of the American police in enforcing the consular decisions.

If civil damages can be collected, either in practice or in theory, the penalty of imprisonment should not be inflicted. A contract with a great singer to appear in opera may be enforced to the extent of putting the vocalist in jail, because no one else can be hired to do what he alone is peculiarly fitted to do. The La Follette bill requires that, in case of desertion of all or part of a crew, the master shall ship a number of men at the first port "equal to the num-"ber of those whose services he has "been deprived of." If the crew when in a distant port should desert, the master might not find men whom he could ship to continue the voyage. Interference with the transportation of the mails and practices of extortion would be easy under this amendment.

The law now gives discretion to the foreign consular officers in such cases. Might it not properly be amended to require that, save when it is impossible otherwise to obtain a full complement of men, the penalty of arrest for desertion be abolished?

The bill provides that "flogging "and all other forms of cruel punish-"ment are hereby prohibited on board "of any vessel." The law already forbids cruel or inhuman treatment of seamen. Flogging is no longer practiced on board ocean steamships, as it was practiced on sailing vessels in the old days. The insertion in the bill of a clause prohibiting flogging must, therefore, be due to an effort to mislead the public.

GOLD EXPORTS TO PARIS.

New York lets gold go to Paris because Paris needs gold more than New York. Very large operations in Government finance are under way in Paris, and preparation must be made. Paris will seek gold where it can be found, here or in Europe. By letting her have the gold, we avert the danger of a strained financial situation in Europe. That is a wise course for us, for tension there would be unpleasantly felt here.

Although on ordinary trade balance we could take a great deal of gold from Europe, we do not take it because we do not need it. In truth, it does us more good there than here. It is the resource in time of need, a large secondary reserve. Our volume of currency surpasses our present needs. There is a good deal of money not in use. The market rate for money reveals that condition, and also gives the signal to Paris that here is the place to get gold. Conceivably, exports of gold might be checked or prevented by the use of our present machinery, but the mechanism is so ill adapted to the purpose that the process would be awkward and expensive for us. We have blundered along without the usual and convenient means habitually employed abroad to control the gold current. When we have been in sore need we have got gold somehow; sometimes the outward flow has been greater than was to our liking, but we are not worried much about it. In such cases our discount rate has gone up, not by the act of a bank board, but through the slow operation of the general law of the money market.

Under the Federal reserve system we shall have a greater power over the movement of gold. Then there will be an official discount rate, to be raised or lowered as conditions demand. If the Federal reserve system were now in operation, it is not likely that any steps would be taken to resist the enticements of Paris. Gold is a commodity, it is also a servant of men and of nations. There is not the slightest reason why a market should not part with gold which it does not need, provided only that it has the power to recall its servant when its need is greater than that of the other employer. It is well to remember that when gold crosses the ocean it goes to pay a debt or make one.

THE FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD.

President WILSON has said that he thought his duties in connection with the selection of the officials who are to administer the new banking and currency system are as difficult and delicate as in the selection of Judges of the Supreme Court. It is desirable that comment upon his appointments should be cast in like elevation of tone, with first thought of the welfare of the country, and with as little prejudice regarding politics or personalities as the case allows. It is necessary to assume, in the first place, that Mr. WILLIAMS has the capacity for the office of Controller of the Currency and for service as a member of the Reserve Board. He is too well known to the President and the Secretary of the Treasury for them to be mistaken about that. It is also necessary to assume that Mr. WILLIAMS is in the right of the transactions which are being revived as an obstruction to his confirmation. The investigation of the Senate may reach the same favorable conclusion as the inquiry on the President's behalf, and confirmation then would follow. Nevertheless, there is room to regret the nomination.

In the first place, Mr. WILLIAMS cannot hope for unanimous approval and support in his new and delicate duties. He represents contentions, for all his career has been combative. That arouses opposition, and is unfortunate in the case of a venture which needs all the support it can get. Surely there are men in the United States who would bring strength and peace to the Federal Reserve system. It is no personal reproach to Mr. WILLIAMS that he is not one of those men, even if he is in the right of the incidents with which he is associated. Nominations of that character make it necessary to try the issues rather than the personal fitness of persons. It is Mr. WILLIAMS's misfortune that his nomination strengthens the idea that the new system is being organized consistently with the prejudice against Wall Street and big business.

Senator ROOT told the Chamber of Commerce of New York that "There "are hundreds of thousands of people "outside the great industrial com-"munities who think you are a den "of thieves." The facts are contrary to the belief, though the belief is as much a fact as any other. Mr. WILLIAMS is associated with that belief, and his nomination therefore assumes a certain connection with the official disposition to organize the Federal Reserve system upon a theory of decentralization which is not consistent with the established course of trade. There can be no objection to the appointment of openminded persons who should reach a decision either way upon the merits, and command the confidence of the country in their decision. But the appointment of persons supposed to have prejudged the point makes it necessary to consider the merits of the contention, rather than of the nominee. There was a delay before the President could bring himself to make the nomination. There will be delay before the Senate can bring itself to confirm the nomination. And delay is undesirable.

The Federal Reserve Board is to consist of seven members, a number so small that it is desirable that each member shall be independent. An agreement by any two members would require an agreement with only an equal number to make a majority. The minority might be composed of any single member agreeing with any agreed two. The board should be worked by agreements, rather than by disagreements, and yet the appointment of a Controller of the Currency in ready sympathy with the present Secretary of the Treasury on the points to come before the Federal Reserve Board cannot be accepted enthusiastically by those who dislike the workings of the Secretary's mind as shown by the meetings of the Organizing Committee here. Harmony between the Secretary and the Controller on administrative duties connected with the Treasury is more desirable than like pre-existing harmony upon new and difficult questions of banking policy. Wall Street and the interior have an equal right to expect an open court and a fair deal.

New York has a high opinion of Mr. McADOO, but he would hardly esteem it a compliment to be regarded as a representative of New York, since he disapproves about all that the New York bankers stand for. Either New York will have no representative or else it must have a representative not in agreement with much that Mr McADOO has done both as Secretary and as organizer of the Federal system.

JAPAN'S CALAMITIES.

Earthquakes in rapid succession, floods of lava and clouds of volcanic ashes and tidal waves from the sea menace the habitable parts of northern Japan, while 10,000,000 people in the north are said to be starving. The city of Kagoshima, crumbling near the most active volcano, was the first city in Japan to feel the influence of Western civilization.

Kagoshima was bombarded by Admiral PERRY and later by the British. Now that it is at the mercy of the dread forces of nature the time has come for the Western peoples to bring aid and comfort to its terror-stricken thousands. Their great agencies of relief cannot be put too soon in action to prevent the serious loss of life that must follow the destruction of towns and cities. The millions in northern Hondo and Hokkaido need food, or they will perish. This is the time for the American people to express actively their friendship for Japan.

THE FRENCH RAILWAY LOAN.

The cable announces that at the end of this month subscriptions will be asked for $40,000,000 on account of $360,000,000 guaranteed by the French Government for the improvement of the Western Railway of the State system. The competition between loans for the purposes of government and the purposes of railway development may be as embarrassing for France as the competition between the British Admiralty and Exchequer to get to the bottom of the pockets of the taxpayers. It is difficult to say whether France or England will empty the national treasure chest first. The rivalry in England between the claims of social justice and naval defense is a pretty study in extravagance, but France's effort with its railways is not without merit of the same sort.

The result of State ownership of the Western Railway in deterioration of service, with inconvenience to shippers and danger of life to passengers, is apart from the present loan. What bears directly upon that point is the fact that the worse service cost an increase of $11,000,000 in three years, besides $2,000,000 charged to capital account, although merely upkeep. The increase was at the rate of 26 per cent., against 11 per cent. for the privately owned French railways over the same period. In 1908 CAILLAUX promised that the Government's taking over of the Western Railway would cost the State nothing. It has already cost 944,000,000 francs, and the total current deficit on the State railways is 327,000,000 francs. This financing is irregular, having been done without Parliamentary sanction.

It is useless to ask just where France will come out with its railways, but it is apropos to our own affairs to ask those in favor of Government ownership of American railways to multiply these figures for France by figures increased according to the greater proportions of our railways, and then to ask where the money would come from at 3 per cent. That favorite figure would not survive the first application to the money market, and the shippers who have complained of rates and service under private ownership would complain in vain of what the Government supplied. The only reason Government ownership of railways is in favor is that there is no experience in this country of its meaning in cost and service.

THE GOVERNMENT'S ARMOR PLATE PLANT.

Secretary DANIELS thinks that the Government could save $1,000,000 by buying an armor plant instead of building one, and he is overwhelmed with offers from owners of plants willing to sell. It would seem that both facts might give the Secretary cause to ponder. How can the Secretary retain his confidence in cheap making of armor by the Government if it cannot build the plant cheaply? And why should the patriotic armor makers be willing to sell so cheap if they made such profits in the armor business as the Secretary believes?

The doubt with which the Secretary's proposal is regarded would be removed, or at least lessened, if he would guarantee results, instead of promise them. But the construction of a plant could hardly be completed before he would have ceased to be Secretary, unless the President should succeed himself, and should reappoint his Naval Secretary. Of course Mr. DANIELS would not be in any degree responsible for the production of cheap armor by his successor. If the proposal had every other merit it would be defective on that point to a fatal degree.

The stone which the builders rejected becomes the head of the corner. We bowed out WILLIAM R. WILLCOX after he had been for several years Chairman of our Public Service Commission. He acquired such knowledge and competence in our service that now Chicago is going to take him as her subway expert.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Another Wright Victory. When the WRIGHT brothers, WILBUR and ORVILLE, proved, ten years ago, that flight in machines heavier than air was not the dream of crazy people and poets which it had for centuries been called by everybody credited with sound sense, no doubts were expressed anywhere about their "prior rights" to fame. We all knew, of course, that dozens of other men had been working on the same problem, but we also knew that none of those others had succeeded in solving it. As soon, however, as the WRIGHTS succeeded in getting up into the air and staying there, at first for minutes and then for hours, the hitherto impossible task became easy for not a few ingenious and courageous mechanics, in this and other countries.

Each of the suddenly competent fliers claimed to navigate the air by a device of his own, and long before more than a few of us had yet seen an aeroplane in action the WRIGHTS were spending more time and money in defending their patents in court than in the development of the new art. This litigation has continued ever since. WILBUR WRIGHT did not live till the end of it was even in sight, but now it really looks as if the surviving brother might get, not many years hence, the conclusive decision which our patent laws so generously offer to every inventor—who happens to have an almost unlimited supply of patience, determination and money.

Court after court has held valid the contentions of the WRIGHTS as to the fundamental nature of their method of control, and now the same thing has been done in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. There remains, of course, the United States Supreme Court, but there can hardly be a sincere doubt as to what its decision must be. If against the alleged infringers the matter will be at last settled—for this country.

From some points of view the complete sustention of the WRIGHT patents can be regretted. It will tend, for instance, to restrict the number of experimenters in aerial navigation. But while our method of rewarding inventors is by giving them a limited monopoly of their discoveries, there is no justice in finding fault with the privilege of exclusive exploitation merely because what may be called a sporting interest is added to the commercial. There is no excuse for assuming that Mr. WRIGHT will abuse any power which the law gives him or that he will impose prohibitive charges and conditions on all aviators except his own.

Boston Chooses A Mayor As Massachusetts has what almost everybody admits to be a form of ballot that not only enables but compels its voters to have and use intelligence in marking it, one can assume with confidence that Boston's new Mayor was selected with more than fairly full knowledge of his capacities and peculiarities. In other words, Boston has chosen exactly the man wanted by a majority of its enfranchised citizens. That being the case, the purpose of free government is realized, and nobody has a right to complain, Boston least of all.

Nevertheless is it permissible to express appreciation of the fact that Mr. CURLEY's qualifications are hardly those to be expected in the Chief Executive of a city which has been called the American Athens. He fails, as it were, to consist with the Bostonian traditions or with the associations which cluster around the most famous of Commons. He is not a light of literature or of philosophy or of statesmanship, and his record includes a prison term served, not for conscience sake, but after a conviction, not less just than legal, of an offense admittedly serious.

The transgression proved against Mr. CURLEY was not, indeed, of the most deeply turpitudinous character, since it was in another's interest, not his own. Yet it was as antagonistic to "reform" as any that could be imagined, since its object was to put on the public payroll an unqualified and presumably incompetent man. But Boston seemed to mind neither the crime nor its punishment, and Mr. CURLEY's political career has since been an uninterrupted series of triumphs.

Now he is Mayor, in spite of the fact that solidly arrayed against him were all the influences that give the city its reputation as distinguished from its character. The disinterested observer, especially if he happen to know more about historic than about contemporaneous Boston, views Mr. CURLEY with much the same astonishment as such an observer feels when he chances upon a copy of any of the Boston papers except the venerable Transcript. They, too, are strangely incongruous, both in appearance and contents, with the Bostonian idea. Like Mr. CURLEY, however, they are—they must be—just what Boston wants, so it's all right.

Considered the Public for Once. Few, perhaps none, will be able to recall in all the history of "labor troubles" a precedent for the action just taken by the striking drivers of New York's coal carts. All of them, some 400 in number, went back to work on Tuesday because, they say, of the general suffering which a scarcity of fuel would bring upon the city in such arctic weather as we are now having!

The situation of almost desperate need which this notably frigid wave has created would have been taken by the vast majority of strikers as a reason for standing out more firmly than ever and as a basis for confident hope that their employers would promptly yield to almost any demands. The teamsters took the opposite course and have tried to earn sympathy by showing consideration for the public.

There is, indeed, a cynical theory of their remarkable conduct—the theory that the strike was progressing steadily toward inevitable failure, and that the men seized an opportunity to get back their jobs without confession of failure. Even if this explanation of their return were true, however, it would none the less be proof of notable intelligence, and rather against its acceptance is the fact that all of the 400 found jobs still open and waiting for them.

That could hardly have been the case had substitutes for the strikers been numerous or satisfactory.

MR. ZERKOWITZ GOES BACK.

Banker Excluded for Dueling Has High Praise for America.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Before I sail to Europe on the 14th inst. by the Lusitania I consider it my pleasant duty to extend my most heartfelt thanks to the American press for its noble attitude concerning my case in America. I regret exceedingly that I cannot use up the thirty days that were granted to me.

I was glad to note that the American press and the fair people of this country, without exception, dealt so vigorously and with justice in my case and ignored absolutely the unqualified denunciation. I was glad to see, also, that only two minor officials at Ellis Island decided against my case, while the third one was absolutely and without hesitation for my admission. I am glad to know that our Ambassador in Washington, through official channels, did everything in his power to settle this case for good and all, so that there will be no more difficulty as to my admission to this country, which I intend to visit quite frequently.

I love America, this country of high ideals and freedom—this country where I worked six years in the interests of my country and with the view of fostering commercial relationship between American and Hungary. I love this country, where my children received their first education in the public schools of New York, and where they have learned to love and cherish those true American and higher ideals which they have taken over with them to the other side. UNIONS IN MINORITY.

Said to Include Only 5 2-3 Per Cent. of American Workers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It would seem that all right-thinking individuals should commend Vincent Astor's stand on Socialism. There is, however, a statement in his letter to Upton Sinclair which, though voicing a lamentably common belief, is erroneous.

The writer has before him a competent authority which states that the A. F. of L. has 2,000,000 members and the I. W. W. 70,000. Allowing for the unions not affiliated with above, it can safely be said that there are not more than 2,500,000 labor unionists in this country. The total employed population is between 35,000,000 and 40,000,000.

Therefore I protest against Mr. Astor's statement that "the representatives of labor" referred to are "men whom the great mass of the working people of our country have authorized to speak for them." Though heartily indorsing conservative, law-abiding unionism, I am one of the great mass not members of such organizations, comprising 94 1-3 per cent. of all the workers, and prefer not to be classed with the 5 2-3 per cent. whom the labor leaders in question actually represent with their radical and un-American speech and actions. The Wood-Chopping "Cure."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having preached and practiced the wood-chopping "cure" for several years, I am pleased to learn, through the medium of a special Berlin cable published in THE TIMES, that no less a personage than Emperor William of Germany has derived great benefit from this form of exercise. The felling of trees and the chopping and sawing of logs tend not only to reduce surplus flesh, but also to build up those who are too thin. Other forms of exercise are desirable in producing these results, but wood chopping is far from being the least important. The Kaiser's physicians prescribed a remedy which I have used successfully in hundreds of cases.

The fact that tree felling and wood chopping must be carried on in the open is, of course, an important part of the "cure," since it necessitates deep breathing of pure air. The motions used in chopping and sawing exercise many of the most important muscles and organs of the body. The perspiration induced by such activity rids the system of poisons. A cold shower and brisk rubbing should follow the exercise. MAC LEVY.

Smooth Streets Bad for Horses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The boasted intelligence of the human family, as compared with brute creation, is brought into question by the first fall of snow. Does any one believe that a horse, if man were his helper, would be fool enough to put him at work on a pavement that he could not stand up on?

If we must have asphalt paving, why not have it grooved or corrugated, as it were, so that the horses may be able at least to stand up when it happens to snow? E. D. W.

Swift's Verses on the Flea.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the favorable review in THE TIMES of the "Queen of the Movies" your dramatic critic alludes to a quotation which is frequently alluded to and seldom given completely and correctly. The lines are from Swift and are as follows:

So, naturalists observe, a flea
Has smaller fleas that on him prey;
And these have smaller still to bite 'em,
And so proceed ad infinitum.

HARVARD—TECHNOLOGY

President Maclaurin Points Out Advantages of New Union.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The plan for co-operation between Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology—a plan that has recently been accepted by the governing bodies of both institutions—has at least the merit of simplicity. In its essentials it is simply this: Harvard University agrees that in the future it will carry on all its work in engineering and mining in the buildings of Technology under the executive control of the President of Technology, and that it will commit all instruction in that field and the laying down of courses therein to the Faculty of Technology, after that Faculty has been enlarged and strengthened by the addition of men from the university's graduate schools of engineering and mining. The plan provides that each corporation shall retain the power of controlling appropriations from the funds that each supplies, and leaves each free to lay down such regulations as it pleases with reference to the degrees that it will grant.

As the same Faculty will lay down courses for the degrees of both institutions, it is probable that the courses will, at least in their essentials, be identical. In the future, therefore, a student at the Institute of Technology in the departments either of mechanical, electrical, civil, sanitary, or mining engineering will have the opportunity of graduating from Harvard as well as from the institute, and, in addition to the advantages that he will have as a student at the institute, will be entitled to the privileges of students in the professional schools of the university.

This consolidation has been brought about by the inexorable logic of facts. Two schools of engineering might be placed very near to one another and maintained in that position with advantage to the community, even although, as in this case, their students were drawn from all parts of the union and from various quarters of the world. Such an arrangement might be desirable if the two schools appealed to students of a different class, or if their methods of instruction and educational aims were essentially different. In this case, however, experience had proved that the two schools were really dealing with students of the same type, of approximately the same age, and with practically the same ends in view. The methods of dealing with students in the two schools were inevitably approximating one to the other, and it had become evident that there was no substantial gain to the community by a continuation of the double effort.

Such a continuation involved a serious economic burden on the community, for the type of education that was being dealt with was especially costly, involving great expense in equipment and machinery most of which would not be overtaxed by considerable additions to the numbers of the students. Much more serious even than this was the loss due to the duplication of effort on the part of the teachers. Men of eminence in the teaching profession are all too rare, and there are not enough of them to go around. Harvard or Technology, in many cases, could get the best men only by taking them from the other institution, and thereby depriving a large number of students of the benefit of their influence. It seemed clearly, therefore, to be to the advantage of the community to make some arrangement whereby the resources of both institutions should be at the disposal of all the students of engineering who wished to be connected with either, and the plan that has been adopted makes this possible.

The main results of this agreement will, I think, be two. Perhaps the most far-reaching will be its effect on the public mind in laying new emphasis on a principle that lies at the very root of all education, and, like many other such principles, is often more honored in the breach than in the observance. The principle is that educational institutions existing for the good of the community should have a single eye to the community's good. They have no right to consider their own interests, far less their own pride, unless in so far as these things affect their service to the community. All over the world this well-known principle is being daily disregarded, and waste and inefficiency in the educational field are the results. Discussion and exposition of theories often avail little for bringing about reform, but great is the power of example.

The other great result of this agreement will follow chiefly from the opportunities that will be presented for building up in this country a technological institution of tremendous power in fields where the country's needs are greatest. The domain of applied science which Harvard and Technology will occupy in common is one that all thoughtful men recognize to-day to be of the very first importance. That importance is bound to wax rather than to wane, especially as the resources of the country will call more and more for scientific methods of development, if we are to hold our own in the world-wide battle for commercial and industrial supremacy.

Disease Through Postage Stamps.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In these days, when so much is being written about hygiene and germ diseases, it seems to me that the evils to which the public is more commonly exposed are the more openly neglected. I have yet to see the clerk of a sub-station in any of our drug stores who, when stamps are called for, will not invariably drag them, gummed side downward, along a glass or marble slab upon which foul money has been handled all day. And there is never a well sponge at hand. M. G.

THE BIRTHDAYS.

My night-light leaps and flares in a dying dance;
I hear the clock strike five in the town below,
And past my bed there flies in a grisly row
A Company that mock me as they go—
My years, my misspent years.

Down the old cobbled street, in the stormy dawn,
Stride hulking seamen, faring toward the quay.
The eyes of their bygone years stare proud and free—
In Time Past's misty world they scorn my Company
And walk apart with jeers.

No year of mine looks back on me with charity,
There is not one that is not crippled, blind, or dumb.
Of half a century they make the awful sum!
O miserable ghosts! Why did ye come?
Was it to see my tears?

GLYNN FOR LAND BANKS.

Would Have Them Sell Bonds as Part of Farm Credits Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—At the close of this afternoon's conference on agricultural credits, at which Gov. Glynn and several agricultural experts were present, these propositions were agreed to:

First—The amendment of the commission merchants law of last year, providing for records of sales to be made by the commission merchants.

Second—The formation of co-operative and credit unions and the appropriation of about $30,000 for the education of the farmers in organization. This plan, it is believed, will provide for short-term loans.

Third—A plan for long-term loans through a union of organizations like the building and loan associations and household societies, providing land banks, similar to those of Germany, to sell debenture bonds under the supervision of the State.

Frederick H. Allen of Westchester County said that a committee had drafted a market bill for New York City.

"The only way to protect the farmer," Mr. Allen said, "is to make the market a municipal function."

"Will the bill make provision for the other cities?" Gov. Glynn asked. "It will," said Mr. Allen.

It was decided to await the framing of the committee's bill. The Governor said that it would be advisable to amend the home rule law passed last year, which to some extent permitted the cities to regulate the markets.

"I believe the only way is to have a bank whose sole business, or a fraction of it, shall be a credit business," the Governor said.

Commissioner Huson of the State Agricultural Department said that the law permitting the organization of co-operative societies passed last year had accomplished something. A group of housekeepers in Brooklyn had organized to obtain goods from a group of farmers. He believed that the law would work well.

Prof. Kemmerer of Princeton said that he was in favor of the appropriation of $30,000 and believed that four men could be used to advantage in educating the farmers.

John J. Dillon, editor of The Rural New Yorker, said that the plan that would work the best was entirely co-operative. The land bank or central institution, he said, would furnish all the money needed for the credit associations.

In addition to the system of farm credits, the Governor is desirous of establishing a market commission to make provision for the disposition of the farm products when they are sent to the markets.

Among those who attended to-day's conference were Mrs. Haviland H. Lunn of Los Angeles, Vice President of the National Forward to the Land Movement; George W. Van Kennan, President of the State Conservation Commission; L. H. Bailey, formerly Dean of the Agricultural College of Cornell; Prof. L. Auman of Cornell, and Robert Van Courtland.

These will meet next week, when it is expected that the proposed legislation for the system of agricultural credits will be ready for submission to the State Agricultural Society.

DRENNAN AFTER NEW JOB.

May Go on Compensation Board—Other Appointments Talked Of.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—Thomas J. Drennan of Brooklyn, who was Secretary of the Board of Assessors for Kings County, is candidate for a place on the proposed new Compensation Commission. There will be five members of the commission, the President to enjoy a salary of $10,000 and the other members of $7,500 a year.

John H. McCooey, the Democratic leader of Kings, came to the Capitol to-day to promote Mr. Drennan's candidacy, and probably to look about for anything else that he can land in the way of patronage among the several good things that are to be handed out by Gov. Glynn within the next couple of weeks. Mr. Drennan, who was the only organization man from Kings to receive an appointment from the late Mayor Gaynor, is said to be Gov. Glynn's choice for the position on the commission.

William Temple Emmet, State Superintendent of Insurance, has been talked of for Chairman of the commission, but it is understood that Mr. Emmet would much prefer to be appointed either to the Court of Appeals or as Chairman of the Public Service Commission for the Second District.

Alfred J. Talley, who was a Civil Service Commissioner in New York during part of the Gaynor administration and who a week ago resigned as counsel to the Insurance Department, may be appointed to one of the positions on the Compensation Commission.

Some of Gov. Glynn's appointments may be announced before the end of the present week.

DECISION HITS COMMUTERS.

Appellate Court Annuls Order Reducing Westchester Rates.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—The decision of the Public Service Commission of the Second District, reducing the rate of commutation charges on the New York Central and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroads between New York City and points in Westchester County and Connecticut, was annulled to-day by the Appellate Division, Third Department. It is stated in the decision that the annulment is without prejudice to a new application.

The court held that the burden of proof had been placed upon the railroads and that the law gave no such right to the commission.

Justices Howard and Woodward entered a dissenting opinion, which Justice Howard wrote. It assailed the majority opinion vigorously.

"The case has been swung on a technicality," he said. "Decisions of this kind cause the courts to be criticised. Legislatures are untying the hands of the courts, and they refuse to be set free."

The original order of the commission was that the rates should be placed at the lowest possible figure that the interests of the railroads and the public would warrant. It was held that the terminal charges imposed upon the New York, New Haven & Hartford were in the nature of rent and therefore did not justify an increase in toll rates.

MUST RETURN INSURANCE.

Oil Found in Albany Building—Owners Out $16,996.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—In the Supreme Court here to-day the Royal and other insurance companies obtained a judgment against John J. Guiton and others for money paid to them for losses on a fire which destroyed the old House of the Good Shepherd, which was purchased by the defendants when the institution moved into its new structure.

When the fire was extinguished the firemen found in the débris bladders and cans filled with gasoline. The testimony was of a sensational character and detailed the delivery of the gasoline at Guiton's store and offers of bribes to witnesses to leave town. When the testimony was closed Guiton and Mary A. McArdle were ordered to pay over to the plaintiffs $16,996 at once.

Justice Cochrane, before whom the case was tried, directed the stenographer to deliver the testimony to the District Attorney.

BIG INCREASE IN CRIME.

19,474 More State Convictions to Dec. 1, 1913, Than in Same Period of 1912.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—There were 68,337 persons convicted of crimes in the State during 1913 up to Dec. 1, marking an increase of 19,494 over the same period in 1912, Mitchell May, Secretary of State, said to-day.

Most of the prisoners were between 21 and 30 years old.

ENGLISH PAINTINGS SHOWN IN VARIETY

Gainsborough's Famous "Miss Linley and Her Brother" in Collection at Knoedler's.

PORTRAITS OF BATH PERIOD

Widener's "Mrs. Graham" an Enchanting Example of Artist's Latest Work—Turners Also on View.

At the Knoedler Galleries are Gainsboroughs and Turners in variety and quality. Further up the avenue we have the great full-length British portraits, more full-lengths than ever have been seen together here from that period, and representing all the members of the famous "British School." Yet the Knoedler pictures have been assembled with so much judgment that the limitation to the two masters is not felt as a restriction, and there is a delightful sense of variety in the collection.

There is also a sense of coming into the presence of masterpieces so well-known by reputation that a personal encounter has the zest of adventure. There is, for example, the "Miss Linley and Her Brother," famous over two continents, and fresh from the Agnew Galleries, where the critic of The London Times wrote of it: "The Linley group is artistically interesting as an example of the successful alteration of an original design. In 1768 Gainsborough wrote from Bath to his friend Jackson, the musician, 'I have begun a large picture of Tommy Linley and his sister,' and there is no doubt that something went wrong with the composition, and that it was cut down to the two heads in the picture before us. For years it was at Knole, whence it was sold a short time ago to the irresistible American." The picture, unlike most of Gainsborough's portraits, is full of strong color and frank appeal to public taste.

On the left of it hangs "Miss Adney," painted in an oval evidently not meant to be gilded, as in the case of many of the artist's painted frameworks, but to be seen, as he has pulled a bit of the lace sleeve out of the oval inclosure with an entertaining effect of piquancy. On the other side is the Capt. Bragge who became the lady's husband. Both are typical works of the Bath period, when Gainsborough was profiting by the fondness the fashionable world displayed for having its portrait painted and developing his art together with his fortunes. On the opposite side of the gallery is a work, hitherto unrecorded, of a still earlier period, when, with his young wife, he established himself at Ipswich. The sitter is Lady Innes. She is dressed in blue, and Gainsborough already shows his facility in the use of the difficult color. The landscape background is one in which roses play a pleasant part and the whole composition is graciously decorative. The face, however, now as later holds first place in the painter's interest, a candid, agreeable face, with a wide, good-humored mouth, a thick nose, kind, intelligent eyes, a lady sufficiently fair and one with whom to live would be certain and serene pleasure. It is easy to discern from the manner of painting how sincere was the young Gainsborough in searching out his structure and finding the boundaries of the planes. Then you see him a bit dissatisfied with the substantial appearance of his work.

He picks up a stubby brush or possibly a brush handle, and, while his paint is still a trifle fresh and tacky, breaks up the surface and gets his vibrations with a kind of hatching stroke, later in its subtler form to become a famous characteristic of his style.

Still earlier is the portrait of "Scheming Jack," clever John Gainsborough, brother of the artist, and very much of an artist himself in the line of turbines and chronometers and flying machines. The portrait is close and simple and rich and free, like anything but the work of a boy. Other portraits of men are those of James Bouchier, Gen. Scott Chad, Philip Dupont, David Garrick, Viscount Hampden, Edmund Morton Pleydell, Mr. Widener's superb "Lord Darnley," and "Major Johnson," a full length version of a gentleman in a scarlet coat and green breeches leaning against a tree. He was so gallant a personage and so much a favorite with the ladies that Gainsborough asked the favor of painting his portrait in order to bring himself into vogue.

Among the remaining ladies is the beautiful Duchess of Cumberland, of whom Walpole said that her eyes were the "most amorous in the world" with "eyelashes a yard long," and according to the same authority the Duchess was "coquette beyond measure, artful as Cleopatra, and completely mistress of all her passions and projects." The face bears out the description, long, with sinuous brows and lips that look witty and cold. The white dress and transparent veil are heightened with touches of gold, and the effect is characteristically distinguished. Apparently the artist at first painted pearls about the slim neck and fastened the bodice with a jewel, but for one reason or another, possibly because beauty of so subtle a type was better unadorned, he painted them out and it is only in a certain light and by close observation that they can be discerned beneath the outer film of pigment.

Then there is Mr. Widener's most enchanting "Mrs. Graham," a half-length version of the full-length portrait in the National Gallery of Scotland. It is a portrait of the artist's latest period, as fresh as a flower from its long seclusion, when it, with the larger canvas, was banished by the sitter's heart-broken husband after her early death. The broken violets of the draperies and sweet, childish face, surmounted by its crown of lightly powdered dark hair, are as beautiful as anything in the list of Gainsborough's accomplishment. Mr. Frick's "Mrs. Hatchett," in quite another vein, is a frank presentment of an aristocratic type, and is shown in the frame put on it by the painter. H. L. Terrell's portrait of Miss Isabel Howland deserves a page by itself. One can only say in brief that in the characterization Gainsborough would seem to have borrowed Raeburn's incisive vision and used it in his own infinitely more delicate fashion. The almost colorless and sculptured beauty of Mrs. Chad also calls for special comment. The other things, the Turners and the beautiful Gainsborough drawings must be left for later mention.

JORGE ANDRE WEDS MISS LAURA WEBB

Throng of Well-Known New Yorkers at the Ceremony in Church of Heavenly Rest.

COUSINS ATTEND THE BRIDE

Count Gunther von Bernstorff, Son of German Ambassador, Best Man—Honeymoon in Europe.

The wedding of Jorge André of Hamburg, Germany, and Miss Laura Virginia Webb, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Egerton Webb, took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, at Forty-fifth Street and Fifth Avenue, which was filled with well-known New York guests. The church had ropes of smilax about the gallery and pillars, and the chancel was banked with palms and Easter lilies.

The bride, who walked up the nave with her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a soft white satin gown with a long square train embroidered at the edges in crystal. The low-necked corsage was also embroidered in crystals, and had elbow sleeves of tulle and old Honiton lace. A large diamond plaque, a wedding gift, was the only ornament worn. The skirt of the gown was draped slightly at the front, and the draping was caught with sprays of orange blossoms. The veil of Honiton lace, an old family piece in the Randolph family, was brought closely down on the coiffure and held by a band wreath of jasmine and orange blossoms, just a single row of the tiny flowers. The veil spread out over the shoulders and fell far down the train, to which it was caught with trails of orange blossoms. The bride carried a large bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley tied with white tulle streamers with showers of valley lilies.

The bride's only attendants were the little Misses Margaret Trimble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trimble, and Ellen Randolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Randolph, cousins of the bride. They wore pale pink chiffon frocks with folded pale blue sashes with ends at the back. The frocks had round necks and short sleeves of lace with touches of blue ribbons. The large old-time leghorn hats had ruches of white lace and wreaths of flowers around the crowns. Blue ribbons went from the sides of the hats under the chin to the left brim, where they were tied in bows with ends to the shoulder. They carried long-handled white wicker baskets filled with pink roses, shaded primroses, and ferns.

Mr. Andre's best man was Count Gunther von Bernstorff, son of the German Ambassador, and the ushers were Carl von Kuhlman, John G. A. Leishman, Jr., Wadsworth Lewis, J. Griswold Webb, T. C. Richardson, Jr., Louis W. Noel, Francis Roche, and Lothrop Randolph, who took the place left vacant by Vincent Astor, who was unable to be present.

The bride's mother, Mrs. F. Egerton Webb, wore a white silk panier gown, brocaded in quaint old-time nosegays of pink roses and leaves. The elbow sleeves were finished with pointed flounces of white lace headed with brown fur. Fur outlined the V-shaped neck, and a knot and ends of black tulle finished the back. Her small, oval black hat had a wired black lace frill rising high at the left back.

The church ceremony was followed by a very small reception for the relatives and a few intimate friends at 925 Park Avenue. The decorations there were also Easter lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. André will sail for Europe to spend their honeymoon, and on their return will live in New York.

Among those invited to the church were Mr. an Mrs. John Henry Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Osgood Field, Mrs. H. McK. Twombly, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Burden, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Schieffelin, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Sloane, Mrs. Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Allen, Mr. and Mrs. August Belmont, Dr. W. Seward Webb and Mrs. Webb, G. Creighton Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram, Mrs. W. Bayard Cutting, Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt Webb, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pyne, Mr. and Mrs. Grafton Pyne, M. T. and P. R. Pyne, 2d.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pulitzer, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Murray, Mrs. Crawford Clark, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Cowdin, Mr. and Mrs. George B. de Forest, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Webb, Jr., Mrs. C. Grosvenor Wyeth, Mrs. Reginald de Koven, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Gould Jennings, Mrs. Alexander D. B. Pratt, the Misses Louise Iselin, Laura Livingston, Alice Kortright, Charlotte, Frances, and Caroline Wyeth, Mabel Gerry, Frieda Pierson, Pearson, Zelina Clark, Ruth Twombly, Gabrielle Warren, Mary Pyne, Miss Phipps, and others.

'DON'T WEAKEN' SEEN AT MAXINE ELLIOTT'S

It Is an Optimistic Little Comedy Along Rather Familiar Lines.

PLAYED BY A GOOD CAST

Combination of Business and Love Affairs That Has Done Service in Several More Quickly Paced Farces.

DON'T WEAKEN. A Comedy in Three Acts. By Walter Hackett. At the Maxine Elliott Theatre.

Mr. Walter Hackett's "Don't Weaken" is an optimistic little comedy that would have created more interest had there never been a "Fortune Hunter," "Wallingford," or "Ready Money."

As it is its three-act exposition of how a youth with no money and little courage eventually puts through a big business deal and likewise wins the girl he loves seems a bit like a thrice-told tale. Moreover, though Mr. Hackett writes some amusing if improbable and impossible scenes, they are too frequently in the nature of padding, and too obviously designed to prolong the play to the length necessary for an evening's entertainment.

Such a scene is the one in the final act in which a more or less henpecked husband finally asserts his authority, with the result that the hitherto hectoring wife, who is constantly repeating what her mother said, admits that she never was as happy in her life. Though not altogether novel it is a funny little scene, and was much enjoyed by the first night audience. So were the occasional passages in which a group of men who had been college chums recite in chorus their creed of "Don't Weaken," using it to urge the really weak hero to try to improve his fortune after he has been hoodwinked into the belief that he was to fall heir to a large sum of money at the end of five years.

Thereupon, with $5,000 borrowed from one of his friends, he acquires an option on an invention designed to revolutionize the manufacture of rubber tires, and is able, ultimately, to save his prospective father-in-law from being shut out in the cold, while at the same time giving the girl of his heart a proof of his ability to care for her in the years to come. Another well-written scene which carries conviction is that in which the father of the girl convinces this young man that he has no right to make a proposal of marriage and ask the girl to wait for him.

"The ability to make money," he argues, "proves that a man has the capacity for taking care of his wife and family."

Which is a worldly wise doctrine that carries conviction to the hero, though one might reasonably ask where the families of some of our later day multimillionaires would be if the young men hadn't put their trust in the future.

However, neither the play nor the theory need be taken too seriously. As for the former it is pleasant though hardly likely to create that intense interest which is required nowadays to fill theatres for any length of time. It suffers, moreover, from the inherent weakness of its hero, who in spite of his occasional flashes of false courage never quite seems to be possessed of real strength.

Nor is that fault to be laid at the door of Mr. Earle Brown, who plays him with considerable charm and vigor. Most pleasing was Joseph Brennan, of whom there was far too little. And good sketches were given by Robert Kelly, A. Hylton Allen, Charles Lane, and Charles Wyngate. Renee Kelly was as lovely a little heroine as could be imagined, and played with gentle and appealing charm, and Marion Lorne provided a touch of real humor. The other brief rôles were neatly done.

PRESIDENT IS DINNER GUEST

Vice President and Mrs. Marshall Give First of Cabinet Series.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—At the first of a series of dinners planned for President and Mrs. Wilson, at which the Vice President and ten Cabinet officers will entertain in turn, and which was given this evening by Vice President and Mrs. Marshall at the Shoreham, it became apparent that in this Administration the old rule of inviting members of the Administration instead of guests from non-official circles of this or other cities has been revived.

In view of the fact that the President accepts no invitation to dine or lunch except from Cabinet officers or the Vice President, and that the Cabinet dinner parties occur at intervals never more than a week apart, the old rule of a family party was abandoned in the Roosevelt Administration at the suggestion of the then Secretary of State and Mrs. Root, and a plan accepted by which a totally different company was brought together at each dinner. So successful was this innovation as carried out by Mrs. Root that an invitation to meet the President and wife at dinner became the most coveted piece of pasteboard circulated from the capital.

Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, whose invitations were originally issued for Jan. 7 instead of Jan. 14 and deferred like the entire schedule of White House affairs on account of the President's absence from town, invited only the members of the Cabinet to dine with the President and Mrs. Wilson. The circle was complete this evening with the exception of the Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan, who dined with the Argentine Minister and Mme. Naon, their engagement having been made by the Secretary of State when Jan. 7 was the supposed date of the Vice President's dinner party to President and Mrs. Wilson.

CARDINAL AT CONCERT.

Miss Leary Gives Entertainment for Rt. Rev. F. A. Gasquet, and Supper.

Miss Annie Leary, who was made a Papal Countess for her benefactions to the church, arranged the concert which was given last night at the Waldorf-Astoria for the Right Rev. Francis A. Gasquet, Abbot President of the English Congregation of Benedictines, under the auspices of Cardinal Farley.

There was a large and brilliant attendance, and before the musical programme, in which Miss Lucrezia Bori and Giovanni Martinelli of the Metropolitan Opera Company and Miss Ada Sassoli appeared, the Rev. Gasquet made a brief address on the work of the revision of the Latin Vulgate with which he has been intrusted by the Holy See, which necessitates the procuring of many valuable manuscripts, many of which have to be photographed.

After the concert Miss Leary gave a supper in the East Room for Cardinal Farley and the Rev. Gasquet. Among the guests at the supper were Miss Georgine Iselin, Mrs. Charles Astor Bristed, Mrs. Henry Waters Taft, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughes Kelly, Mrs. Henry Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Fish, Mrs. Henry Clews, Miss Louise Ward McAllister, Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Mulqueen, Mr. Bagby, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rutherfurd.

A group of society girls sold programmes before the concert, including the Misses Agnes Sheehy, Elizabeth Sabin, Estelle O'Brien, Frances Montague Ward, Harriet Lummis, Marjorie Cleveland, and Clare Brett. Afterward they occupied a box with Miss Leary in the first tier, near the Cardinal.

Those present included Mrs. Geraldyn Redmond, Mrs. John G. Agar, Mrs. W. C. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Josika-Herczeg, Mrs. Edson Bradley, Mrs. Alexander V. Chenoweth, Miss Aimee Delmonico, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Gary, Mrs. William E. Iselin, Mrs. DeLancey Kane, the Right Rev. Mons. Michael J. Lavelle, Countess de Laugier-Villars, Mr. and Mrs. William Lummis, Mrs. A. Masters MacDonell, Mrs. Morgan J. O'Brien, Mrs. Charles M. Oelrichs, Mrs. William F. Sheehan, Mrs. J. Rich Steers, Mrs. Charles H. Truax, Mrs. Edward H. Hawke, Jr., Alfonso de Navarro, Joseph P. Grace, Mrs. Gerald L. Borden, Mrs. Joseph J. O'Donohue, and John D. Crimmins.

SEEK NEW HOME FOR 'IOLE.'

Chambers and Teal to Continue Their Musical Play Dropped by Frazee.

Rumors of ill-feeling between H. H. Frazee, producer of "Iole," and Ben Teal and Robert W. Chambers, the authors of the musical play which was made from Mr. Chambers's book of the same name, flew thick and fast through the theatrical district yesterday, and all concerned admitted that there was no love lost between them. "Iole" will leave Mr. Frazee's theatre, the Longacre, after next Saturday night's performance, when it will also cease to be a Frazee production. The authors were making great efforts yesterday to install the play in another theatre, and it was said that "Iole" would probably move into the Park Theatre, or perhaps in a house in the Times Square district.

The trouble between the authors of "Iole" and Mr. Frazee began during the rehearsals of the play, but when "Iole" finally came to the Longacre Theatre and was apparently welcomed by the public all differences were cast aside. Despite the praise of the critics and the audiences which witnessed the performances, Frazee, after two weeks' run of the play, inserted advertisements in the newspapers announcing that "Iole" would end its run next Saturday night and that "The House of Bondage," a play recently produced at the Cecil Spooner Theatre and suppressed by the police, would be the succeeding attraction at the Longacre Theatre.

Both Ben Teal and Mr. Chambers were angry. They declared that their piece had not had a fair trial, and that its success was sure. Both the novelist and Teal made strong appeals to Frazee, but the theatrical manager said "Iole" would have to move out. It was said last night that a new home for the musical comedy would be announced to-day.

HAMMERSTEIN SUES TO OUST THE MOVIES

Leased Republic Theatre to David Belasco for First-Class Shows Only.

HIS REVENUE CUT OFF

No Commission for Him in Sale of Seats at 25 Cents Each—Ready to Cancel the Lease.

The Hammerstein Opera Company applied to the Supreme Court yesterday for an injunction restraining David Belasco and the Universal Film Company from using the Republic Theatre for the exhibition of moving-picture films. The theatre is owned by Oscar Hammerstein, who said last night that it was worth $650,000, and that about ten years ago it was leased to Mr. Belasco for twelve years and a half at an annual rental of $25,000, which was less than half its real rental value. But to make up for the low rent the contract contained a clause providing that Mr. Hammerstein should get a commission on the gross receipts ranging from 5 to 10 per cent. above a certain fixed amount. Mr. Hammerstein was reluctant to tell just what this fixed amount was, but he said that his commission ran sometimes as high as $1,000 a week.

There was also a clause in the contract binding Mr. Belasco to produce in the theatre only "first-class theatrical performances." This agreement was carefully adhered to as long as such players as Blanche Bates, David Warfield, Mrs. Leslie Carter, and others of the same class were the attractions, the law papers say. But when Mr. Belasco began, about two weeks ago, to present moving pictures Mr. Hammerstein objected. The two famous producers of plays had a talk after this. Mr. Hammerstein said last night that he was quite willing to release Mr. Belasco from his contract, but that the latter displayed no eagerness in this direction.

Complaint was also made in the papers that since the production of the moving pictures the insurance rates have increased 50 per cent.; that Mr. Hammerstein's commission on the receipts have fallen to practically nothing, and that the conversion of the theatre into a moving-picture house had a deteriorating effect on its reputation and value. The law papers say that the pictures now being produced, called the "Traffic in Souls," are of the same general character as those which recently received so much notoriety and caused so much public clamor.

PERCY R. PYNE, 2D, IS HOST.

Gives Big Dinner Dance at Sherry's—Musicians as Pierrots.

Percy Rivington Pyne, 2d, was the host last night at a dinner dance at Sherry's. The second floor was reserved for Mr. Pyne's guests, the dinner being served in the tapestried suite and the dance being in the small ballroom adjoining. The ballroom was decorated with pink roses and lilies of the valley, and pink roses and lilies were used in decorating the adjoining suite and the dinner tables. Mr. Pyne had his mother, Mrs. Moses Taylor Pyne, receiving with him. While the men were engaged in after-dinner smoking and the women were having coffee, a dancer was brought in on a fanciful litter by men in costume, who also did several fancy dances. A Neapolitan orchestra played softly during the dinner and afterward a band of darkey musicians dressed as Pierrots played alternately with an orchestra for the dancing.

Several hundred people were invited, there being 140 for the dinner. A buffet supper was served at 11 o'clock.

BASEBALL PLAYERS GET WARNING NOTE

"Side Agreements" with Clubs Will Result in Fine and Probable Release.

Baseball players who are spending the Winter in this city were proudly showing the new major league contracts to their friends yesterday and pointing out the new provisions of the documents which were won from the magnates by the Players' Fraternity.

Each new contract has a large notice printed on it in a prominent place in red ink which warns the player against any deceptive side agreements which have been imposed upon players in the past. Hereafter, each contract must contain each agreement between player and club owner. All references to a change in salary or a bonus of any kind must be put down in black and white. No verbal agreement will hereafter be made between a manager and a player.

The National Commission granted more than the players asked for when they placarded each contract with the conspicuous notice concerning side agreements. The notice declares that the commission will also impose a fine of $500 on any club President who is found guilty of making a promise of any kind to a ballplayer not included in the contract. Not only that, but if the National Commission finds that a club has violated this new clause, the player's contract will be declared null and void, and the player will be unconditionally released and will be free to go where he may desire.

In the past club owners have influenced players with promises and side agreements, and often players have had a hard time compelling the club owners to live up to these agreements. Much of the work of the National Commission has been in unraveling tangles between ballplayers and managers which have been agreed upon outside of the regular contracts.

> Each player before signing a major league contract should carefully scrutinize the same to ascertain whether all the conditions agreed upon between the player and club President have been incorporated therein, and if any have been omitted the player should insist on having all the terms, conditions, promises, and agreements inserted in the contract before he signs the same. If at any time, as a result of an official investigation, it is ascertained that an agreement of any kind between a major league club President and a player is not fully set forth in the player's regular contract or made a part thereof, then a penalty shall be inflicted against the club violating this provision in the sum of $500, the same to be paid into the treasury of the league of which the contracting club is a member, and the said contract shall be null and void and the player unconditionally released.

There are other noticeable advantages to the ball player in the new contracts. One provides that each player must be given a duplicate copy of his contract when he signs. The new document also provides that a player must be notified in writing any time he is fined or suspended and he must also be notified in writing of his release or trade, with all the details involved in the deal.

The new contract provides that the club owner shall give the player two complete uniforms, not including shoes, for which the player must put up $30 deposit, which shall be returned at the end of the season or at the termination of the contract. Clubs must hereafter also be paid the traveling expenses of players from their home towns to the training camps.

It has fallen to the honor of the Newark Club to be the first to beat the Federal League at its own game. Charles H. Ebbets, Jr., of the Brooklyn and Newark Clubs, jumped into the Federal ranks and fished out one of their most promising catchers. He is Leo Witterstaetter, who made a name for himself in Indianapolis last year. Young Ebbets heard about him, and made him an offer to join Newark. So Witter, as he is called, jumped from the outlaws back to organized ball. Of course, he automatically suspended himself by playing with the Federals last year, but Ebbets has already applied to the National Commission to have him reinstated.

There was much joy at Ebbets Field yesterday when President Ebbets received word that Nap Rucker and Zack Wheat would surely sign with the Dodgers within a few days. So Brooklyn will have major league baseball after all, in spite of the raid of the Federals. Rucker is spending the Winter at his home in Alpharetta, Ga. Nap whiles away the time burning up the Georgia roads in his new automobile. Wheat is spending the Winter at his home in Kansas City, and has informed Mr. Ebbets that he will sign his contract as soon as he receives it. Both will sign contracts for three years. Mike Heckinger, the Dodger catcher, is in Chicago, and he has notified the Brooklyn Club that he will sign in a short time.

President Ebbets left Brooklyn last night on a mysterious mission. It is stated that he received a telegram from Manager Robinson, who is in Indianapolis, and that he has gone to join him there. They will try to persuade Pitcher Elmer Brown to sign a contract before he hears any more of the Federal League's flattering offers.

Secretary John B. Foster of the Giants and Mrs. Foster sailed yesterday for a short vacation in Bermuda. Mr. Foster has been the busiest man in baseball since last Fall, and decided that he must have a rest. He did most of the preparatory work of the last world's series and the big Army and Navy football game, and did both games well.

George Burns of Utica, the Giants left fielder, yesterday signed his contract for next season. Burns had an offer from the Buffalo Club of the Federal League, but he has met with such excellent success under Manager McGraw that he refused to consider the offer of the "outlaws."

Jay Rogers, the promising young catcher who was purchased by the Yankees from the Richmond Club of the Virginia League last season, sent his signed contract to President Farrell yesterday. Rogers lives at Hornell, N. Y. He led his league last season with a batting average of .286. He caught in 64 games and had a fielding average of .974. Besides Rogers, Manager Chance will have three other catchers at Houston—Sweeney, Gossett, and Reynolds.

Charley Dooin, the manager of the Phillies, signed his contract to lead the team for next year at a salary said to be close to $10,000. Dooin has sent out notice to all his players not to come to terms with Federal League promoters until they have heard from the Philadelphia Club. While Dooin is disappointed over the jumping of Knabe, he states that the Phillies will have a man at second base next season who will be just as good. He still believes that Brennan and Killifer may be back in the Philadelphia fold. The Federals are now trying to entice Pitcher Eppa Rixey away from the Phillies.

Dick Rudolph, the former Giant, and now with the Boston Nationals, signed his contract yesterday for next season. Rudolph is spending the Winter at his home in the Bronx, and he says he is satisfied with the contract submitted by President Jim Gaffney.

A rumor buzzed its way from St. Louis last night that the Federals had practically come to terms with Bobby Byrne of the Phillies, D. Walsh, and that Lefty Leifield, Wallie Smith, Charley O'Leary, the former Detroit player, and Max Carey of the Pirates all had decided to cast their lot with the outlaws. Manager Fred Clarke of Pittsburgh last night also gave out the information that as far as he was able to learn the Federal League was just about 95 per cent. newspaper publicity.

The Federal League is making a quiet and careful canvass for minor league players, as well as for the major league men. Three players who live in the Bronx stated last night that they had been approached by Federal League scouts. They are Ed Wagner, a catcher, who was the best backstop on the Fort Wayne team last year; Jack Richards, a shortstop who played with the Asheville, N. C., Club, and Dan Tierney, an outfielder, who played in the Central League. Several members of the Knights of St. Antony team of Brooklyn have been approached by scouts from the Federal League club of Buffalo.

Ned Hanlon, who is interested in the Baltimore Club of the Federal League, will come to New York to-day to confer with Tim Hurst, the former American League umpire, relative to placing one of the outlaw clubs in New York. Hurst, it is stated, has been scouting around Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the Bronx for several days at Hanlon's suggestion, and has encouraging news to report today. Hanlon, it is said, will endeavor to persuade President Gilmore of the outlaws to change the circuit again, so that New York and Cincinnati will be included. To do this it is planned to take the franchises away from Buffalo and Toronto.

Ultimatum of Federal Club.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 14.—Five major league baseball players who for two months have been negotiating with the Indianapolis Federal League must sign three-year contracts at a conference to be held to-morrow or the negotiations will be ended, Manager William Phillips of the local team announced to-night. The men are Owen Bush, shortstop; George Dauss, pitcher, and Pat Bauman, infielder of the Detroit American League Club, and Elmer Brown, pitcher of the Brooklyn National League team. All of the players live in Indianapolis, and the Federal League promoters had hoped to have the local team largely composed of home players. Manager Phillips announced that George Mullin, formerly of the Detroit Club, had offered to sign a one-year contract to play with the Indianapolis Federal League team.

George Stone Wants to 'Come Back.'

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 14.—George Stone, former left fielder and heavy hitter of the St. Louis American League Club, has decided to re-enter baseball. He applied today for the position of manager of the Lincoln Club of the Western League under the impression that Manager Mullen had been released to Vancouver. Stone spent his major league career with the St. Louis Club. He was owned by Boston at one time, but was traded to St. Louis before he had a chance to play with the Red Sox. He led the American League in batting in 1906, with a percentage near .360. He retired from the game in 1910, and is now Assistant Cashier of a bank at Coleridge, Neb.

Cincinnati May Join Federal League

CINCINNATI, Jan. 14.—A local business man announced to-night that he and others associated with him have secured $250,000 to place a Federal League baseball club in this city. Officials of the league expected here to-day could not be found. The men backing the movement said that an application would be made at Chicago on Saturday for a Federal League franchise.

Smith May Manage Pittsburgh.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 14.—Frank Smith, a pitcher on the International League baseball team last season, has signed a three-year contract with the Baltimore Federal League Club, according to advices received here today from Pittsburgh. Smith, it is understood, was being considered for the position of manager of the Pittsburgh Federals when he signed with Baltimore.

Changes in Syracuse Nine.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Several important deals were announced at a meeting of the officials of the Syracuse Baseball Club this afternoon. Good, right fielder, has been traded to Seattle of the Northwestern League for Strait; Pitcher Oldham of Trenton signed; Fitzsimmon, a second baseman secured from the Spokane Club to replace Parlenheimer at second base, and the Boston Red Sox have promised to send two young pitchers to Syracuse, Radloff and Mulherin.

Miller Signs with Brooklyn.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 14.—Otto Miller, catcher of the Brooklyn National League Club, who has been negotiating with the Federal League officials, announced late tonight that he had signed a contract to play with Brooklyn. "My contract calls for an increase in salary, and is for three years," Miller said.

Tufts Signs Baseball Coach.

MEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 14.—The Tufts College baseball management announced to-day that John P. Slattery, formerly catcher on the Washington, Chicago, and Boston teams of the American League, has been engaged as head coach for the nine. Candidates will report for practice March 1.

BASEBALL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Eddie Foster, third baseman of the Washington American League Baseball Club, has signed a two-year contract with the local team. It had been rumored that he would join the Federal League. It is understood that Foster will receive an increase in salary.

Hughie High, utility outfielder of the Detroit American League Baseball Club, yesterday signed a 1914 contract with the team. He is the first player to sign up with the Detroit Club since the new form of contract, containing all the changes granted the Players' Fraternity, was put into effect.

The first training trip games of the Chicago American League team will be played at Sacramento, Cal., March 9, 10, and 11, according to announcement yesterday. The signed contract of Melville Wolfgang, a pitcher, has been received at the White Sox office.

John Evers, manager of the Cubs, left Chicago yesterday without announcing his destination. It was said, however, that he would visit several cities and was expected to return with the contracts of several players.

SHAMROCK'S CENTERBOARD.

Lipton Has Adopted American Idea for His Cup Challenge Yacht.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The Standard announces its belief, on good authority, that the most radical feature of Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV. will be the adoption of the American centreboard. This will be the first time in the history of British yachting that a large craft has been fitted with a centreboard, and the challenger will be the first yacht of this type to be sent across the Atlantic to compete for the America's Cup.

British yachtsmen have always protested against the use of this device, and its adoption at a time when the American types are beginning to approach the British designs is expected to cause much comment here.

Nautilus B. C. Elects Officers.

At the annual meeting of the Nautilus Boat Club of Bath Beach on Tuesday evening at the Brooklyn Masonic Temple the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—H. Dunn; Vice President—S. H. Baker; Treasurer—W. E. Pfanmuller; Secretary—W. Goat; Captain—C. W. Ruprecht, Jr.; First Lieutenant—W. A. Murtagh; Second Lieutenant—H. Hazeldine; members of Board of Governors—W. S. Salmon, R. De Noie, C. Gaetjens, and F. C. Surbeck.

The reports of the officers and the various committees showed the club in a prosperous condition, and the outlook for the forthcoming year is very promising. Peter Anderson was awarded the gold medal annually presented to the member with the greatest barge mileage to his credit, Anderson was credited with 348 miles.

The club will hold its annual midwinter entertainment and dance on Wednesday evening, Feb. 4, at the Brooklyn Masonic Temple. Chairman W. S. Salmon of the Entertainment Committee has arranged professional talent for the major portion of the show, but members of the club will appear in an amusing minstrel sketch.

Columbia Swimmer Ineligible.

Harold Osgood, one of the best sprinters that the Columbia swimming team has had in several years, has been declared ineligible by the university authorities, and the team will be seriously handicapped when it meets the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia on Friday night. In order to fill the gap caused by Osgood's absence, Frank Kennedy, the coach, is working with a new relay combination, made up of Coope, Barrett, Cochrane, and Rogers. Coope is the only veteran of the four. Barrett is a fancy diver, and the other two are new to the team this year. The water polo team, however, is in good condition to face the Quakers, although it still lacks team work.

WRESTLERS' COMEDY AMUSES BIG CROWD

Champions of Several Nations Grapple in Elimination Tournament.

The ancient sport of wrestling, at which every contestant was a champion of somewhere, had an inning at Madison Square Garden last night when twelve grapplers, each announced as a representative of some nation, came together in an elimination tournament. The matches furnished more comedy than wrestling skill, and were well enjoyed by a crowd of 3,000, who preferred the comfortable Garden to the cold outdoors. Although all the contestants were so-called champions, no titles were won or lost last night, and the wrestlers will carry the same titles during the season. The entry list on the programme contained the names of several notables who were not on hand, including Tom Jenkins, Americus, Hjalmar Lundin, Neil Olson, and lesser lights. Their absence helped to bring the tourney to a close much earlier than would have been possible otherwise. It was announced that there would be another elimination carnival at the Garden on March 12.

The contestants in the tournament, all of whom appeared in the ring to be introduced before the first bout began, were the following: Alexander Oberg, Finland; Gustav Fristensky, Bohemia; George Lurich, Russia; Mamutoff, Russia; John Haerckel, America; Paul Alvarez, Spain; Mort Henderson, America; Bernard Hansen, Norwegian; Wladek Zbyszko, Poland; Paul Samson, Germany; John McLaughlin, Ireland; Hans Lehner, Bavaria, and George Sandele, Greece.

George Sandele, the Greek who drew a storm of hoots and jeers when introduced, used all the old "stuff" which is designed to arouse the crowd, and succeeded especially well in his bout with George Haerckel of Delaware. Sandele did about everything in the calendar of roughness except bite his initials in Haerckel's back. He made all the false motions of pounding his opponent, and finally found himself on the under side of a grapple with his shoulders touching the mat. The crowd applauded vociferously, and Haerckel furnished some fancy poses in appreciation. Sandele did not leave the ring until pushed out by the referee.

Mamutoff and Paul Samson came together in the fourth bout. Each weighed close to 300 pounds, and their antics were highly amusing. Mamutoff wore a mustache that stood out like handlebars on a bicycle, and Samson made the mustache hold his favorite grip. Mamutoff shouted aloud every time his upper lip got a tug, and Referee Charley White ruled out this hold, but Samson kept at it. The big fellows spent most of the time on their feet doing a sort of tango. After 28 minutes Mamutoff picked Samson up bodily and gave him a hard toss against the boards. Samson shouted from beneath the pile of flesh that he had been injured. An appeal for a physician was made from the ring, but if there was any such person in the crowd he concealed his identity successfully. Some one suggested that Samson be removed to a garage for repairs, and Referee White awarded the bout to Mamutoff on the ground that Samson had "quit." Before leaving the ring Mamutoff tested his mustache and found that all of it was still there.

Wladek Zbyszko, brother of the noted Stanislaus, drew John McLaughlin, the Irish grappler, as his opponent, and had an easy time. He pinned McLaughlin to the mat in seven minutes, after allowing the Irishman to slip away from several dangerous holds. Zbyszko was the aggressor all the way, and so much superior to McLaughlin in size, strength, and knowledge of the game that the result was a certainty all the way.

The real wrestling contest of the tournament was that between Gustav Fristensky and George Lurich. Fristensky was the stronger of the pair and a better grappler, but Lurich evaded a fall for thirty seconds. They went at it again after a short rest and Fristensky pinned his opponent's shoulders to the mat in five minutes. There was real action every minute in this bout and the farcical antics of the other bouts were noticeably missing.

In the final bout Mort Henderson, an American, gave a fine exhibition of defensive wrestling against Alexander Aberg, the Finn, but the latter was too strong, and he finally succeeded in getting a fall after twenty-one minutes of fast work. Aberg was the aggressor all the way, and had many dangerous holds on Henderson, but the latter escaped one after another. The summaries:

Bernard Hansen, Norway, defeated Paul Alvarez, Spain, with half-nelson and crotch hold. Time—23 minutes.

Wladek Zbyszko, Poland, defeated John McLoughlin, Ireland, with throat and crotch hold. Time—7 minutes.

John Haerckel, America, defeated George Sandele, Greece, with half-nelson and leg hold. Time—8 minutes.

Mamutoff, Russia, won from Paul Samson, Germany, in 28 minutes. Samson refused to continue after hard fall.

Gustav Fristensky, Bohemia, defeated George Lurich, Russia, with back arm and neck hold. Time—35 minutes. Extra bout ordered after the men had wrestled 30 minutes without a fall.

Alexander Aberg, Finland, defeated Mort Henderson, America, with half-nelson and back arm hold. Time—21 minutes.

N.Y.A.C. Members to Dine Giannini.

A testimonial dinner will be tendered by the members of the New York A. C. to Coach E. J. Giannini to-night at the club dining room. Coach Giannini leaves the club shortly to take up his duties as rowing coach at New Haven for the Yale crews. In inviting the members to attend the dinner, the committee points to the fact that "Giannini became a member of the club in 1888, was Captain in 1892, was a member of the Chippie senior eight-oared crew that swept the country in 1891 and 1892, winning the national championship of America in those respective years. On the retirement of Prof. George Goldie, the club's physical instructor, to Princeton University, that position was tendered to Mr. Giannini. He accepted same, giving up a lucrative position for the club's sake. Since his advent as club instructor, the club's record has been one of continuous victories, both on track and water, and his devotion for the past twenty-five years warrants recognition by the club members."

Lehigh Defeats Fordham.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Penn., Jan. 14.—Lehigh to-night added Fordham to its string of basket ball victories. The score was 51 to 21. Fordham was only dangerous during the first five minutes of play, and then Lehigh stopped individual playing and got down to team work and forged ahead. The Brown and White's guards, Green and Price, played a strong game, the Fordham forwards only being able to get through for five floor goals, one of which was in the last half. Crichton and White at forward for Lehigh gave a fine exhibition of floor work that completely put the Fordham guards at sea.

Ritchie-Murphy Bout Postponed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 14.—The Willie Ritchie-Harlem Tommy Murphy lightweight championship match scheduled for Jan. 23 in this city has been postponed until Jan. 30, at the request of the champion, because of a sprained heel tendon. It was explained that Ritchie sprained the tendon on one of his road workouts

JOHNSON AND MORAN SIGN.

Championship Bout to Take Place in Paris Early in June.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—"Jack" Johnson, the colored heavyweight pugilist, and Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavyweight, to-day signed articles for a twenty-round boxing bout for the championship of the world to be fought on or before the date of the Paris Grand Prix Race during the first or second week of June this year. Johnson received a check for $35,000 from Charles MacCarthy, representing a group of American sporting men, while Moran got a guarantee of $5,000. The fight is to take place in Paris.

The articles were signed in the Pavillon Dauphine in the Bois de Boulogne. Johnson arrived there in a racing motor car and a long discussion of the terms ensued. Johnson raised numerous objections, one of which was his demand to be paid interest on the amount of the check, which is not payable until the day of the fight.

Johnson agreed not to fight anybody else before meeting Moran in the ring and if the colored pugilist fails to fight he is to forfeit the $35,000 except for the sum of $5,000 for his training expenses.

The signatures to the articles were finally affixed in the midst of dozens of champagne bottles and in the presence of many managers, promoters, boxing men, and other sportsmen and Johnson and Moran then drank each other's health in goblets of champagne. Three moving picture machines were working during the negotiations.

Charles MacCarthy intimates that the group he represents which is supplying the money is actuated by the desire to see the heavyweight championship of the world taken by a white man. The group consists of three wealthy Americans residing in Paris and does not include William Astor Chanler. The promoters are convinced that Moran will win.

WELLS KNOCKS OUT ROWLES

Bombardier Lands Sleep Punch in Tenth Round in Belfast Bout.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Bombardier Wells, the heavyweight champion of England, knocked out Gunner Rawles in the tenth round of their scheduled twenty-round bout for the heavyweight championship at the Theatre Royal, Belfast, Ireland, to-night. In the sixth round Wells partly closed his opponent's left eye and from this stage of the bout the English champion had things easy. Twice in the ninth session Wells floored the Gunner for the count of nine, and in the tenth round he had little difficulty landing the knockout blow.

N. Y. A. C.'s Next Amateur Boxing.

Entries for the amateur boxing tournament to be held under the auspices of the New York Athletic Club on Jan. 22 and 24 will close on Monday, Jan. 19, with E. J. Giannini, Physical Director, Central Park South. All amateurs registered with the Metropolitan Association A. A. U. are eligible to enter in the different classes, which are 110, 120, 130, and 140 pounds. The prizes are the best that can be given—diamond ring to winner, gold watch to second, and New York A. C. die silver medal to the losers in the semi-final bout of each class; also a handsome trophy to the club scoring the most number of points.

Pugilist Blackburn Paroled.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—Jack Blackburn, the negro pugilist, was paroled from the Eastern Penitentiary to-day, after having served four and a half years of a fifteen-year sentence for killing Alonzo Polk, another negro. Blackburn is in good physical condition, and is considering going to Paris in an effort to secure a match with Jack Johnson. Polk was shot by Blackburn during a quarrel at the latter's home in this city.

Mandot and Griffith Draw.

WINDSOR, Ontario, Jan. 14.—Joe Mandot of New Orleans and Johnny Griffith of Akron to-night fought one of the fastest and hardest eight-round bouts ever staged at Windsor and the popular verdict was a draw. Griffith, using his left hand with telling effect, held a lead for six rounds, but the New Orleans lightweight rallied and succeeded in overcoming the advantage. The men stood toe to toe and battled all the way, but neither scored a knockdown.

YAMADA SURPRISES CUTLER WITH CUE

Japanese Billiardist Wins Block in 14.1 Match at Doyle's Academy.

Koji Yamada, the Japanese billiardist, showed form as a 14.1 balkline billiard player last night when he won his first victory in the third block of 500 points from Albert Cutler by a score of 500 to 466. Cutler had held the lead since the match series began, and showed himself to be a master at the new style, which is especially suited to a player of his type in open-table work, but the Oriental also demonstrated that he is something of an open-table expert, and came in for applause many times by his brilliant execution.

In the afternoon game of 200 points Cutler won from Yamada 200 to 179 in twenty-one innings, while the Jap took the evening contest 321 to 266 in thirty-one innings, making up for the deficiency of the afternoon game and beating Cutler 34 points on the day's play.

There are only 54 points now separating the two players on the aggregate score.

Both games yesterday were interesting, but the evening contest stood out and the rally of the Oriental toward the end, when he passed Cutler for the day's honors, was an interesting exhibition.

Starting with a handicap of 21 points from the matinée game Yamada trailed along in the ruck for twenty-seven of the thirty-one innings necessary for the game. The score at this point was, Cutler 228 and Yamada 221. On his twenty-eighth time at the table Yamada scored 33, which put him in front for the first time on the night's play, but was still in the rear on the day's tally. He left the balls well separated, and Cutler, although he scored in his next inning, could not get position, and failed after two more tallies.

The Jap came right back the next time up, and with a string of 57 buttons shot his score to 312, then needing only 10 for the victory. He missed after a hard attempt to make a difficult cushion carom, but ran out his string in two more times up. The scores:

Poggenberg Defeated by Leonard.

W. Leonard, who won the Class B 18.2 balk line billiard championship Tuesday, defeated Ferdinand Poggenberg of the Amateur Billiard Club last night in the opening block of a handicap match at 18.2 at Maurice Daly's Academy, Forty-ninth Street and Broadway, by the score of 200 to 213, in 24 innings, which gives Leonard an average of 8 7-24, with high runs of 24, 29, and 43. Poggenberg's best runs were 22, 24, and 43, and he averaged 8 20-24. This is the first game of a series of three in which Poggenberg will oppose Leonard, C. Connors of Philadelphia, who finished second in the recent championship tournament, and Hal Coleman, the former title holder. The Amateur Billiard Club player is conceding a handicap of 300 points to his three opponents, the agreement being that Poggenberg must score 900 points in the three games, or 300 each night to 200 each night for his opponents.

Lewis an Easy Billiard Winner.

Claude R. Lewis easily defeated Charles Matthews in last night's game of the amateur Class C 18.2 balk-line billiard tournament at Keeney's Academy, in Brooklyn, by the score of 200 to 159. The contest required forty-nine innings, and Lewis displayed excellent form, he leading from the start. He made high runs of 24, 18, and 16, with an average of 4 4-49. Matthews's high runs were 22, 20, and 18, showing an average of 3 12-49.

TO EXTEND MARKSMANSHIP.

National Rifle Association to Send Team to Canada and Maybe Peru.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—With State militia representatives and army and marine corps officers present, the Board of Directors of the National Rifle Association, in its annual meeting to-night discussed plans for extension and encouragement of marksmanship throughout the country.

In his annual report Lieut. Albert S. Jones, Secretary of the association, advocated construction of rifle ranges in all large cities.

It was decided to send a team to Canada in August or September to compete for the Palma trophy, to compete again with Great Britain for the Dewar cup and to urge Congress to appropriate money to send a team to Peru for the international matches there this year. A proposal to send a team to Denmark for international matches there was not approved.

It was announced that a new match will be held in April for the individual gallery shooting championship of the United States.

Upon the suggestion of Brig. Gen. R. K. Evans, U. S. A., the association adopted a resolution proposing the purchase of the Camp Perry rifle range, Ohio, by the Federal Government.

The following officers were elected by acclamation: President, Gen. C. Gaither, Maryland; First Vice President, Gen. Frank Maloney, Tennessee; Second Vice Persident, Gen. Fred Wood, Minnesota; Third Vice President, Gen. Henry Hatchings, Texas; Treasurer, Col. H. G. Catron, Ohio, and Secretary, Lieut. Col. A. S. Jones, New Jersey.

Col. J. W. Ewing of Delaware, Lieut. Col. William Libbey of New Jersey, and Lieut. Col. E. B. Bruch of New York were elected as additional members of the Executive Committee.

Amateur Hockey Game To-night.

The Irish-American A. C. and St. Nicholas teams will be the contenders to-night in the American Hockey League championship series at the St. Nicholas Rink. This game will have an important bearing upon the battle that is now being waged for the lead, as a victory for the St. Nicholas players will place them on an even footing with the hockey club champions, who now lead with two victories. The St. Nicks have shown considerable improvement this year, with Hall, the new cover point, and Pierson, the goal tender, two former college players. Trimble, who plays point, is also a new man who gives promise of being a real acquisition to this team of all-American players. Manager O'Brien of the Irish team expects to have Jim Cree, the sensational Indian player, in the line up, as well as Kilgour, both of whom have been under investigation by the Amateur League officials under the rule which necessitates a player being a local resident for six months before he is eligible to play. McGrath, Kelly, Harmon, and Stickney will be in the game under the leadership of Capt. Garon.

COLUMBIA DOWNS TIGERS.

New York Collegians Win Basket Ball Game in Last Minutes of Play.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 14.—Columbia nosed out Princeton in basketball to-night by a score of 19 to 15 in a game filled with exciting plays. Columbia took an early lead, but the Tigers caught up after the beginning of the second half. After this it was nip and tuck for the lead, Columbia showing a burst of accurate shots when there was less than three minutes to play, and getting a lead which the Tigers were unable to overcome even by their shots from fouls.

Lee, Meenan, and Benson for Columbia showed some unusual one-hand shots, while all of the passing by Columbia men was much better than that of the Tigers. Gill, Salmon, and Jackson were the stars for Princeton, Gill making the cleverest shot of the game with a throw from a kneeling position. The line-up:

Columbia.	Position.	Princeton.
Meenan	Right forward	Salmon
Wegener	Centre	Schmidt

Goals from field—For Columbia: Meenan, 2; Lee, 2; Benson, Reynolds. For Princeton: Gill, 2; Trenkmann, Salmon. Goals from foul line—Benson, 7; Salmon, 4; Jackson, 3. Substitutions—For Princeton: Okane for Jackson, Jackson for Schmidt. For Columbia: Reynolds for Lee. Referee—Mr. Fauver. Umpire—Mr. Dearing. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

ENGLISH POLO PLANS.

Ten Men to Comprise Team Which Will Play Here in June.

It became known yesterday in polo circles that ten players would comprise the invading force of English experts who will come to America this year in quest of the Westchester Polo Club trophy, which is now held by America and is emblematic of the championship of the world.

These players will arrive May 8, and will immediately take up quarters at Piping Rock, where they will practice for the series scheduled to be played in June. The challengers will bring thirty-seven ponies, which will include the pick of the British Isles and the Continent, which has been scoured in anticipation of the accomplishment of "lifting" the cup.

A matter which contains a world of interest to polo players and enthusiasts generally is the announcement of the official list of handicaps issued by the Hurlingham Club, which new shows eleven men placed at the top of the list with ten goals as the maximum handicap they will each be confronted with in matches during the coming season.

Among the "ten-point" men are Capt. F. W. Barrett, Fifteenth Hussars; Walter S. Buckmaster, Captain L. St. George Cheape, Foxhall P. Keene, Capt. J. Hardress Lloyd, Capt. Vivian Lockett, Devereux Milburn, Capt. R. G. Ritson, and Harry Payne Whitney.

In former years only one Englishman (Buckmaster) was included in the list of ten-point men, who will be a member of the team this year.

Capts. Barrett and Lockett have each been advanced two goals from the previous rating, while Capt. Ritson, who was the leader of last year's challenging team, has been advanced one point. Capt. E. W. E. Palmes and Louis E. Stoddard, the latter having played for America last year, have each been raised to nine points. Lord Ashby St. Ledgers, who is to be the financial sponsor for the British team this year, has been raised to seven points, as against six last year.

The annual meeting of the American Polo Association will be held at the Racquet and Tennis Club on Feb. 10, at which it is expected that the tournament dates for the year will be awarded and new delegates listed.

Smith and handled by Lewis Hilsendegen of Detroit, to-day won the all-age stake of the all-American Field Trials Club, winning the title of amateur champion of America. The pointer, Tidwell's Comet, owned by W. L. Tidwell of Washington, D. C., was second, and Morning, a setter, owned and handled by Dr. G. W. Overall, Chicago, third. Babbebrook Ben, a setter, owned and handled by Lewis McGrew, Pittsburgh, was placed fourth. The derby probably will be finished to-morrow.

CONNECTICUT DROPS OUT OF THE A. A. A.

State Body, with 4,000 Members, Withdraws from National Auto Organization.

A stir was caused yesterday by the announcement of the withdrawal of the Connecticut Automobile Association from the American Automobile Association. The withdrawal takes approximately 4,000 members from the A. A. A. The Directors of the Connecticut Automobile Association by a vote of four to one decided to sever all relations with the A. A. A. The reasons assigned for the action of the Connecticut body are:

That the American Automobile Association is controlled by the automobile manufacturers and by certain road building concerns; that no attempt is made to further the interest of the private owner; that the American Motorist, the official publication of the A. A. A. is of no value, being used to advance the business interest of particular manufacturers; that the touring information given to members is inadequate, and that the money paid in dues by the Connecticut association is wasted.

Most of these complaints of the Connecticut association were published in THE NEW YORK TIMES before the annual meeting of the American Automobile Association, held in Richmond, Va., on Dec. 1, 2, and 3. At that time it was denied by high officers of the organization that it served any other interest but that of the amateur motorist, or that it was influenced unduly by the interests of manufacturers.

The date for severing relations between the Ford Motor Company and Dodge Brothers, who have made the motors for Ford cars of late years, has been fixed for July 1. John F. Dodge and Horace E. Dodge have decided to go into the business of making automobiles on their own account. The contract which will terminate on July 1 has been worth about $10,000,000 a year of late years to the Dodges, it is said. The brothers long have been associated with the Ford organization and it is said put more actual cash into the business at the start than anyone else—approximately $15,000. While there has been no break in cordiality between the Dodges and the Ford Company, it is understood that they will resign as Directors and perhaps dispose of their stock and reinvest the money realized in their own plant.

The new plant of the Ford Company, recently completed, will be used in the manufacture of motors when the Dodge Brothers relinquish their contract. The Dodges, it is said, are planning to make a car which will sell for about $1,000. It will be made in enormous quantities after the plan which has been followed by the Ford Motor Company.

POLO AND HORSE SHOW.

Interesting Programme of Events at Durland's Riding Academy.

A mixed programme of interesting equine events were witnessed by a big society crowd last night at the weekly music ride and horse show at Durland's Riding Academy, Sixty-sixth Street and Central Park West. Despite the cold weather there was a good turn out of contestants in each event, and the quality of the horses made it a difficult matter for the judges to select the winners.

More than fifty men and women riders took part in the music ride in which Commander Charles T. Kraues put the class through a number of new evolutions which added to the attraction of the ride. Led by Mr. and Mrs. John Gerken the class circled, changed pace, and formed difficult figures with precision and grace. The ride continued for an hour and ended with the riders advancing down the centre of the ring sixteen abreast.

There was an added interest in the polo match between the Blues and Whites, as the match was really a tryout to select the West Point team in the first of two matches, one to be played at West Point and the second at Durland's. The contest was exciting, the Blues winning by the score of 4 goals to 2. Five goals were scored in the first half, of which Harry Guggenheim, who replaced Kinney, registered 2. The others were tallied by F. A. Cawthra, G. C. Sherman, and A. H. Sherwin, the score being 3 to 2 in favor of the Blues. Both teams were on their mettle in the second half, and many well directed shots for the goals were blocked by the cleverness of the backs. Near the end of the period Sherman carried the ball the length of the academy and shot a goal. The Whites made a desperate effort, but failed to score.

FOOTBALL IN YALE CAGE.

Thirty Candidates for Eleven Come Out for Preliminary Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 14.—For the first time in Yale football history a general call of candidates was today issued for the light Winter practice. Capt. Talbott wished to get into the baseball cage a number of candidates who had not reported, and took this means of assembling them. Only about thirty reported, but they included ends, tackles, guards, and centres, as well as quarter and half backs.

The Winter drill has been confined to instruction in the proposed method of putting the ball into play, a system which Frank Hinkey, Yale's new coach, aims to inaugurate. Beginning this afternoon, forward passing, handling the ball from the quarter back to the half back, and general passing were undertaken. There was no line-up, but most of the line men, including tackles and guards, and some of the half backs were drilled in putting the ball into play.

It is planned to continue the practice, with the full squad at work, another week. If this succeeds in obtaining smoothness in the handling of the ball, the squad will be dismissed until the regular Spring work commences in April. If, in the opinion of Head Coach Hinkey, the squad has not mastered the new method, it will be held together another week.

To-day's coaches included Walter Camp, Dr. "Billy" Bull, and Hinkey. The work took place on the floor of the baseball cage. Phil Smith, the former centre, will assist in the coaching of the centres the coming week. Two elevens will be formed, one a scrub, but there will be no scrimmaging.

TIGERS' FOOTBALL DATES.

Williams and Lafayette Take Place of Holy Cross and Fordham.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 14.—Princeton's football scedule for the 1914 season, announced to-day by Manager Howard Froelich, provides for eight games and is the stiffest in point of prospective strength of the opposing elevens that the Tigers have ever faced. The easy games have been eliminated with the aim of giving the Princeton eleven some hard work early in the season, so that the faults of the team can be remedied before the more important contests. Williams and Lafayette are the newcomers to the schedule, while Holy Cross and Fordham have been dropped.

It was found impossible to rearrange the dates of the Princeton-Harvard and Princeton-Yale games, which would have given the Tigers an easy game on a Saturday, and an opportunity to rest between the two big contests. The Williams game has been inserted between the Dartmouth and Harvard contests for the same purpose. Williams plays here for the first time, and Lafayette comes back after three years' absence. The committee voted against Western games for this season. The schedule follows:

Sept. 26, Rutgers at Princeton; Oct. 3, Bucknell at Princeton; Oct. 10, Syracuse at Princeton; Oct. 17, Lafayette at Princeton; Oct. 24, Dartmouth at Princeton; Oct. 31, Williams at Princeton; Nov. 7, Harvard at Cambridge; Nov. 14, Yale at Princeton.

Tufts to Play Harvard Eleven.

MEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 14.—Four new games are included among the eight on the Tufts football schedule approved to-day by the Advisory Board. The teams new to the schedule to-day are Harvard, Dartmouth, Colby, and Rutgers. Maine, Vermont, West Point, and Wesleyan were dropped. The first three of these have been fixtures on the Tufts schedule for many years. Dr. Charles Whelan, head coach for the past two years, has been reappointed.

Harvard Hard Pressed in Hockey.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 14.—The Massachusetts State College hockey team of Amherst threw a scare into the Harvard 'Varsity hockey players to-night. The Crimson players won the match, 4 to 3, but it was not until the last minute of an overtime period that they were able to score the two goals that beat the visitors.

Recovering Heat Saves Money.

In most small gas engine installations no attempt is made to recover the heat carried off by the exhaust and jacket water, says Power. As this available heat amounts to about 68 per cent. of the total heat supplied to the engine, using this heat wherever possible will effect a great saving. A Long Island factory furnishes a good illustration of this statement. Both exhaust and jacket water are used for heating, with a resultant saving of about $300 a year.

Invite Questions on Corporation Law

In General Letter No. 7 the National Association of Credit Men, 41 Park Row, invites officers of corporations doing business in foreign States to submit to it any problems arising from letters received from lawyers or registration companies telling of the necessity of the corporations being represented or registered in those States. In asking information of the association, it is requested that the inquiring corporation tell specifically how it is conducting its business in the State in question, whether through traveling men or local offices, whether stock is carried, work is performed, and if so, what arrangements are made to carry through a contract. The association executives have given much time to studying the rights and requirements of corporations in foreign States.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Rhinestone Bead Trimmings Reduced—Rosaries Held as Assessed.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday sustained a protest by Bloomingdale Brothers, under the Tariff act of 1909, on imitation rhinestones set in paste for use on wearing apparel. Collector Malone returned them at 45 per cent. ad valorem, Paragraph 109, as manufactures of paste. The importers asked 35 per cent. under Paragraph 421, on beads. The Collector stated that the higher rate was erroneous.

The board also upheld C. Fischer under the old law on small trumpets of one tone. The goods were returned at 45 per cent., as musical instruments, and were claimed dutiable at 35 per cent., as toys.

P. J. Kennedy & Sons lost under the act of 1909 on rosaries of coco and metal, assessed at 45 per cent. ad valorem, as manufactures of metal. They asked to pay 35 per cent. on manufactures of wood, or 10 or 20 per cent. on articles unenumerated.

It was also decided that the authorities at San Francisco erred in exacting full duty on bottles of wine, brandy, cordials, and other spirituous beverages ordered by C. W. Craig & Co. and never received. The board directed the Collector to make an allowance together with the accruing refunds of duties.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

Pending final decision as to whether footwear can legally be construed as included in the classes of merchandise made dutiable upon introduction into the consular district of Punta Arenas, Chile, importations of American shoes there are small. Regardless of the outcome of the ruling, there will doubtless remain a steady demand for American goods of the best quality and style, according to Consul C. L. Latham.

There are now twenty glove factories in St. Junien, France, a small town that is one of the important centres of the glove industry in that country. The cutters in these factories are all men, who earn from $1 to $1.20 a day. The sewers are all women, and they earn an average wage of 50 cents a day. All work is paid for by the dozen.

Consul A. B. Cooke, Patras, Greece, says that there is a market for iron beds in his district. Annual imports of these beds have a value of about $40,000 at the present time. All of the beds now imported there come from factories in Birmingham, England.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

The possibility of a strike in the cloak and suit industry as a result of the conflict between the manufacturers' association and the union over the chief clerk of the latter body is beginning to cause uneasiness among sellers of dress goods. This end of the woolen trade is now preparing to open its new Fall lines, and any trouble in the garment field would have a bad effect on business.

The main features of silks and ribbons to be used for trimming purposes this Spring will be brilliant colors and stripes. A wide range of widths and color combinations will be popular in ribbons. Plain silks in bright colorings are well thought of.

Brisk Rise in Prices—Forecast of President's Message Encourages.

While the favorable impression created by the definite outline of the President's attitude in respect to proposed corporation legislation contained in yesterday morning's advices from Washington offered itself as a reasonable explanation for the strength which developed on the Stock Exchange yesterday, that movement, though more pronounced than that of any recent day, was in a broad view of the situation nothing more than a continuance of a tendency which had been pretty clearly defined for some time past. There have been ten days of Stock Exchange trading since the year opened, and on seven of these the general level of prices made net gains. The average of quotations stood at the close of the market yesterday 1⅞ points above the final figure of last year. This indicates sufficiently clearly what the underlying drift of values has been since the business and financial communities entered upon the new year.

It was, therefore, upon a favorable background that were thrown the reassuring intimations from Washington that in laying out the Administration's programme for further corporation legislation the President would put emphasis on the fact that the business interests of the country are showing a sincere desire to meet the requirements of law and would point out that the welfare of business is entitled to as full consideration as any other element entering into the formulation of further corporation legislation. The bearing out of these advices will unquestionably strengthen confidence and give full encouragement to those who have lately felt constrained to follow a more than usually conservative course in respect to commercial and financial engagements. Already there has been a noteworthy change for the better in business and financial sentiment, a change which has found reflection in the money market and in the bond market as well as in the stock market. The further reassurance which was had yesterday regarding the Administration's policy in respect to so-called anti-trust laws was well calculated to give impetus to the improvement already under way.

The iron trade has stood out prominently as the industry which more than any other had felt the effect of the contraction in orders. The figures of unemployment in that trade presented in Congressional debate the day before yesterday, served at least to emphasize the fact that since those figures were compiled there has been a distinct change for the better. No one alleges that normal conditions have been restored in this important industry, but the important fact at the moment is that there has been an upturn from the lowest level of production recently reached. The Iron Age in discussing the situation yesterday pointed out that at the beginning of this week the ingot production of the United States Steel Corporation was at the rate of 56 per cent. of capacity compared with 50 per cent. in the first week of this month. It adds that this is a fair measure of the change which has taken place since the beginning of the year. Those figures show an improvement of 12 per cent., which is very far from being negligible.

Partisan politics may suggest reasons for comparing the present or very recent condition of the steel trade with the situation as it stood the first of March last, but the fact is that long after that date the country's iron production was running at record figures. The pig iron output in 1913 exceeded by about one million tons the maximum production of any previous years. It is also true that the pending question of an increase in railroad rates has been a very important factor in the iron trade during the last few months. The railways have been placing orders sparingly for so long a time that it is an entirely reasonable assumption that if their buying capacity is increased by the grant of an increase in freight rates the railways will largely increase their orders for iron and steel supplies of all kinds. Improvement in the steeel trade because of an increase in railway orders suggests itself as one of the most direct, as well as one of the very tangible favorable effects upon business which would be brought about by favorable action by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the proposed increase in rates.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Central Pacific Suit Coming.

So little has been heard about the Attorney General's plan for taking into the courts the right of the Southern Pacific to retain a controlling interest in Central Pacific under the Sherman law that many stockholders of Southern Pacific had begun to look back upon the report that another dissolution would result as a bad dream. Mr. McReynolds has not forgotten his threat, it developed yesterday, and has had special counsel at work drawing up the Government's brief in a suit which he expects to be ready to file in two weeks. Southern Pacific stock has exhibited little nervousness over the possibility of a forced sale of Central Pacific since the disappointment expressed after the original announcement. In yesterday afternoon's upward spurt Southern Pacific advanced 93, closing with a gain of 1⅛ points for the session.

Boston & Maine Crisis.

The Boston & Maine, to meet its problem of maturing notes, decided to sell its Maine Central stock for Maine Central bonds, which it could market for cash. It was a good plan, until some one discovered that under the laws of Maine a railroad could not issue bonds to retire stock. There are only three weeks left before maturity of the Boston & Maine's $10,000,000 of short-term notes, and as no plan for raising money to pay them has been hit upon, it is expected that the holders will be asked to accept an extension at a higher interest rate.

When is a Surplus?

President F. W. Whitridge of the Third Avenue Railway has a way of putting things that stands out in sharp contrast to the highly technical explanations usually vouchsafed to the inquiring stockholders. Also, he has a habit of frankness that makes it difficult to misunderstand what he is saying. His comments on the Third Avenue's position yesterday, in connection with the semi-annual report, made it reasonably clear that no one buying stock on the expectation of an early dividend is doing so at his suggestion. The Third Avenue's President thinks that a corporation should not pay out as dividends money needed for maintenance or replacement. That is a general rule, but many companies have circumvented it by discharging the men whose duty it is to report on maintenance. Financial history would be dull reading if no dividends had been paid until earned, in the meaning accepted by Mr. Whitridge. Take the Coney Island & Brooklyn's unexpected payment of 6 per cent. declared a couple of days ago; had the newly elected Directors of that company shared the narrow-minded views expressed by the Third Avenue President the stock might have been assessed.

Bank Changes Day Loan Rules.

Beginning to-day the National City Bank will make day loans to brokers under new regulations. Instead of securing such loans by a broker's note and a lien on the securities to be taken up brokers hereafter will have to put up collateral, which will not be limited to securities listed on the Stock Exchange, but may include stocks, bonds or commercial paper having the approval of the lender. As far as could be learned in advance of the first day's application of the new regulations, clients of the bank were not disturbed greatly when they were informed that the change would be made. The institution has not tried to build up a large business in loans to facilitate clearance of stocks, and it has few borrowers for this purpose in comparison with its leading power. It is expected that some of the other national banks also will depart from the present method within a short time, but none of the State banks and trust companies has given any indication of doing so.

⁂

A Loss Changes Custom.

The National City Bank's decision to demand collateral for so-called brokers' loans was the result of a recent decision by the Supreme Court that certain securities which were taken from the assets of a firm that failed in the Hocking Coal & Iron smash in 1909 should be returned. The bank was a creditor of the firm to the extent of $100,000. The court decided that by taking the particular stocks and bonds before the receiver could gather the assets together, the bank acted upon the presumption that it was a preferred creditor, whereas the court held that the bank was entitled to no greater consideration than other individuals and institutions to which the bankrupt house owed money.

The Last Half-Hour's Rise.

"I have never had much faith in eleventh hour confessions," said a stock market bear yesterday, "nor in bull movements that begin at 2:30 o'clock." The strong upturn of prices toward the close of business yesterday was in his mind. This observation would have found small favor with the rank and file of bullish followers of the market, if they had heard it, because they derived much satisfaction from the breadth of trading as well as from the bulge in quotations in the closing half-hour of business. The stocks most favored by speculators not alone were in demand. Numerous specialties of the investment class were purchased in fair quantity.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Some of the Oil Issues Close Higher, but the General Tone Is Reactionary.

The outside security market was reactionary yesterday, although a few of the oil issues showed gains. The majority of the latter group closed lower, however, with the largest losses in Standard Oil of Ohio and Standard Oil of New York, each of which receded 6 points, and in Galena Signal Oil, Prairie Oil and Vacuum Oil, which closed 4 points lower each. The best gains were 15 points in Solar Refining and 5 points in Atlantic Refining. In the industrial list Kelly Springfield Tires advanced 2¼ points, but the preferred closed a point lower. Among bonds New York State 4¼s, when issued, sold at 105⅝ to 105½.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 15.—The Times says in its City article today:

"Rates for daily advances and short fixtures were unaltered. Discount business was on a moderate scale at the rates current on Tuesday, except in case of four months, which were a shade easier.

"The tone of the stock markets was generally dull at the opening, the news from South Africa and the reported suspension of interest payments on the Mexican national debt being the chief adverse factors. Business remained on a very small scale in the speculative departments, but there was again a fair amount of investment buying of home rails, prior charge stocks and scrips of recent issues. In the afternoon the general tone of the markets was rather better when it was discovered that there was no pressure to sell, and in some instances prices made a slight recovery. Mexican Government bonds were offered on the news referred to above, but as some such step had been regarded as not improbable, the fall in prices was not heavy."

PARIS, Jan. 14.—The Bourse closed steady after a weak opening to-day.

Three per cent. rentes 86 francs 15 centimes for the account.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—Trading was dull and prices were rather weak on the Boerse to-day.

NEW YORK CENTRAL WINS.

Appellate Division Dismisses Suit, Questioning Equipment Trust.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—The Appellate Division, Third District, to-day handed down a decision unanimously declaring the New York Central Lines' equipment trust of 1913 to be legal and within the corporate powers of the railroad companies making the agreement. The decision upholds Justice Alden Chester in dismissing the petition of Clarence H. Venner and others, representing the minority stockholders of the New York Central Company, to have the trust agreement made by six railroad corporations under the same financial control with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York set aside as ultra vires.

The Trustee is authorized by the agreement to issue certificates to an amount equal to 90 per cent. of the cost of railroad equipment which is distributed among all of the roads, which pay an annual rental for it. The rents are applied to the cost of the equipment, and each road thereby pays for its own supplies, but also aids the other companies in the extension of credit. The authorized issue of certificates is $24,000,000, and $12,547,000 has already been issued, and the corresponding equipment has been distributed.

The agreement was alleged to be illegal in that each corporation became liable for the debts of the others, and that it was a combination in restraint of trade because it eliminated competition between lines which should be competitive.

The opinion was written by Justice Woodward, Presiding Justice Smith and Justice Kellogg wrote separate memoranda, and Justice Lyon concurred with Justice Smith.

MR. VANDERLIP SAILS.

Bank President May See James Stillman in Europe.

Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank, sailed for Europe yesterday on the Lusitania, to be absent for about three weeks. His name did not appear on the ship's sailing list, and it was said that he had difficulty in securing a reservaton owing to a late decision to go abroad.

The financial district was interested in Mr. Vanderlip's unexpected departure, as it was rumored that he had gone to consult with James Stillman, Chairman of the bank's Board of Directors, in regard to the National City's decision about entering the Federal reserve system. Mr. Stillman has made his home in Paris for a number of years.

Officers of the bank decline to make any prediction as to possibilities of a vote by Directors to become a part of the system. The matter was not seriously discussed at the annual meeting of stockholders on Tuesday, and it was said last night that the time for action on the question has not yet been set.

MUST OPEN CANALS EARLY.

Pennsylvania Road May Close Them Only a Month in New Jersey.

TRENTON, Jan. 14.—Under an order made to-day by the State Board of Public Utilities Commissioners, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will be permitted to close the Delaware and Raritan Canal only one month in each year, from Jan. 15 to Feb. 15. As the rule takes effect immediately, the company will have to reopen the water way next month instead of in Mach as has been the custom.

The petition for the order was made by the Mayor and Common Council of New Brunswick. The decision is looked upon as a victory for the patrons of the canal who have protested against the alleged efforts of the railroad to discourage its traffic and to divert the business to its railroad lines.

The Board grants the month's closing in the belief that the time is needed for repairs to the canal and its equipment.

Run Closes National Bank.

BARNESVILLE, Minn., Jan. 14.—The Barnesville National Bank was closed to-day by it's officials. It is asserted that reports circulated recently caused a run on the funds, making the closing necessary. Every depositor will be paid in full, according to Cashier Van Gerpin.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

On a heavily increased volume of business prices rose rapidly in the final dealings on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The market was the broadest conducted on the floor since the new year started, the trading list for the day embracing fifty-four different stocks. Sales totaled 60,530 shares. Early in the day much attention was paid to the so-called specialties, with some irregularity showing in the standard stocks. As the afternoon progressed, a general upward movement developed, which extended to buoyancy in the later dealings.

New Law Will Not Let Down the Bars, Manufacturers Are Told.

FOREIGN TRADE LIKE HOME

With the Same Problems to Meet—The Need of Ships and American Banks Abroad.

In an address before the convention of the Manufacturers' Association of New Jersey at Trenton yesterday William C. Cornwell called attention to the fact that the newly enacted currency statute would not let down the bars so far as credits are concerned.

"The class of paper available for rediscount at the Federal reserve banks," said he, "must be of liquid character. The maturity of ninety days does not, of course, mean that only paper made for that length of time can be used. On the contrary, no matter for how long originally drawn, what is required is that the obligation must fall due within ninety days. The tendency among banks, in order to be equipped with plenty of available paper, will be to encourage their customers to avoid renewals. Loans which are not liquid, even though well secured, will not be looked upon with as much favor. All this will, of course, tend to make the banking assets of the country sounder. And, too, the influence upon merchants and others, by encouraging promptness and more liquidity in financial arrangements, will, in the end, be beneficial for all business.

"There is some belief prevailing in regard to the new measure that it is intended, as it is called, to make credit easier. This calls up a vision of loosening up on the part of the banker as to the character of loans which will pass muster. Nothing of the kind is in contemplation and no such effect will follow. Credit is one of the functions which can only be safely determined on business principles, and legislation which attempts to make it unnaturally liberal, is sure to bring disaster. The bill does not affect the status in this respect It only supplies greater facilities for extending safe credits. This will result in ample, but legitimate expansion. This does not mean inflation. The two are as different as gold and gas. The effect, with the banking situation free from annual contraction of loanable funds, will be to stabilize business."

Before the same convention, Hugh Kahler told the members that export problems were in the main very much the same as the problems met with in domestic competition. Thus in each case, to secure credit the applicant must show credit-worth. Competition is no different in the foreign than in the home market. "In fact," he observed, "some of my friends have confided to me that they would a lot rather face the stiffest competition England and Germany can give them than stand up against the price-cutting pirate right around the corner. As a salesman to any Latin-American country I had rather sell the quality article at the top of the market than any low-priced article, even the lowest in the market, and I've had to sell in both divisions, too."

As to other facilities for foreign trade, Mr. Kahler had this to say: "There never will be any shortage of tonnage to care for our foreign freight, whether or not it flies the American flag. I, for one, don't care a particle which particular banner waves above my cases so long as I can get decent deliveries at decent rates, and both of these, I submit, we have generally been able to secure from the shipping at present available. As for banks, if you and I want American banks abroad, there is one and only one way to get them, and I take it that we are both doing everything we can in that direction for motives quite apart from our desire for these institutions. For the only way in which we can secure these aids to American commerce is to get a volume of business sufficient to ensure them a profitable field."

A BOOKKEEPING PROTEST.

Bankers Object to Method of Figuring Net Income.

The banking firm of Swartwout & Appenzeller, as the representative of holders of several million dollars of New York Railways adjustment mortgage 5 per cent. income bonds, has protested to the company's Directors against the method in vogue of figuring net income.

The bankers say that in the eighteen months ended with June 30, 1913, $975,516 was taken from the gross income account and credited to the account of "Injuries to persons and property deferred."

As the money was not actually expended, the firm says that it should have been returned to the income account and made applicable to the payment of interest on the bonds.

NO THIRD AVE. DIVIDEND.

President Whitridge Would Wait Several Years Yet.

President F. W. Whitridge of the Third Avenue Railway made public a statement which he had submitted to the Directors on the outlook for dividends on the company's stock. Mr. Whitridge says that the Third Avenue should not resume dividends for several years.

The company reports for December operating revenue of $916,843, an increase of $121,548, and a gain in surplus of $18,202. For the first six months earings were $5,653,864, an increase of $670,622, and the surplus $578,908, a gain of $48,607. Regarding dividends, Mr. Whitridge says:

> There is hardly a day when I am not asked about a dividend on the Third Avenue stock, because, I suppose, there appears to be such large surplus earnings, wich, in ordinary parlance, are "applicable to the payment of dividends" on that stock.
>
> Our accounts are kept in accordance with the rules of the Public Service Commission, and if there is any odium attached to reporting large net earnings, and thereby misleading investors or speculators,, I am happy to have that odium shared by the commission.
>
> Money, however, which is applicable to the payment of dividends is, as I understand, money in the bank not necessary to be spent for other purposes. That is not our case. Our present surplus earnings are not applicable to the payment of dividends at all, because it is necessary and desirable, and, so far as I can foresee, it will continue to be necessary and desirable to expend these earnings upon the property for several years to come.

Mr. Whitridge adds that the dividend should wait until the allowance for depreciation will care for the needs of the property over and above the ordinary maintenance and until the effect of the new subways on earnings has been ascertained.

Chicago Sells New Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Cook County today disposed of an issue of $1,000,000 4 per cent. county and municipal bonds for $985,110 and accrued interest from June 1, 1913. The bonds went to a syndicate composed of the Merchants' Loan and Trust Company, N. W. Halsey & Co., and T. B. Leach & Co. Four bids were received, including one from W. A. Reil & Co. of New York for $973,137. The high figures offered for the bonds is due, according to financial men, to the provision of the new income tax law which excludes municipal and Government bonds from income taxation.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Wheat and corn were active and strong, and oats moved forward with a firm tone. Wheat sold into new high ground for the present movement. Corn advanced from 1 to 1¼c. and oats from ⅛ to ⅝c. Cotton rose from 7 to 14 points net under steady buying. Provisions and cotton oil were rather soft.

WHEAT.

The wheat market moved into new high ground during yesterday's operations, the May position at Chicago selling at 93c, which was the highest point reached since Sept. 30, and which represented an advance of 6¼c per bushel from the low of the season, made on Oct. 17. The advance was due largely to a growing feeling of confidence on the buying side, which has been developing recently. The continued light shipments from Russia to Europe have had a bullish effect, and it was apparent that the trade generally considered the market in a strong commercial position, which justified higher values.

Broomhall in his weekly summary of conditions said that supplies in both Argentina and Australia would doubtless increase in the near future. Crop advices from European countries have been generally favorable, although there were some complaints received during the day of a lack of snow covering in some parts of Russia, where the weather is severely cold. The weather in the West was warmer and generally favorable.

In the local cash market No. 2 hard Winter wheat was quoted at 98¼c, cost, insurance, and freight, New York; No. 2 red Winter, $1.00½, elevator; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.00¾, free on board, and No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.01¾, free on board.

CORN.

Reports that Argentina has finally disposed of its surplus stock of old corn removed one of the principal bearish features in the corn market, as the Eastern cash demand has been supplied for several months past largely from the Argentine, and consequently prices developed firmness and closed strong at the high point of the day, with net gains of 1 to 1¼c. The cash situation in the West was noticeably firmer. The cessation of offerings from the Argentine apparently caused Europe to look to other markets for supplies, and there were inquiries from abroad for American corn through Baltimore, with bids very close to a working basis.

In the local cash market No. 3 yellow corn was quoted at 71c, cost, insurance, and freight, to arrive.

OATS.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was firm and higher during the early operations based on continued strength in the hog market and in sympathy with grain, but the price of the leading products was believed to be above a parity with hogs, and this resulted in considerable selling late in the day. Prices were easy at the close. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 30,000, estimated for Thursday, 26,000; Kansas City received 10,000, and Omaha 11,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Further advances occurred in the cottonseed oil market with continued covering as well as buying by the West and the South. The strength of lard was again a bullish feature, and it was thought that leading refiners, who recently were active sellers, were on the buying side. Late in the session thre was a quick reaction under renewed selling by refiners, and as the demand was less active prices gave way quickly, closing at about the low of the day.

COTTON.

The cotton market was higher yesterday on continued reports of an improved spot demand and a bullish interpretation of the census report on supply and distribution for the month of December. March contracts sold up to 12.57, or 13 points above the closing figures of Tuesday, and 6 points over the best level reached on the bulge which followed the small ginning figures of last Friday. The close was steady and from 7 to 14 points net higher.

The market opened steady at a decline of 1 point under a few overnight selling orders and in sympathy with rather disappointing cables. There was no important selling pressure, however, and prices quickly firmed up on Wall Street buying, a considerable demand from Southern sources, and support of March from leading spot house brokers. This latter demand seemed to increase the uneasiness of recent sellers, and near months led the advance which carried all the old crop positions some 11 to 15 points net higher in the late trading. Closing prices were a shade off from the best under realizing.

The census report showing domestic mill consumption of 482,198 bales for the month of December indicated a well-maintained volume of activity, and a consumption of 1,977,000 bales for the first four months of this season compared with 1,870,000 for the same time last year.

Southern spot markets officially reported were unchanged to ⅛ up, with several of the markets reporting a firm undertone. The local market for spot cotton was quiet and 10 points higher at 12.70 for middling upland. Sales, nil.

COFFEE.

The setback which occurred in the coffee market during the last hour on Tuesday caused an easier feeling in the European markets, but the local market failed to respond, and prices at the opening were steady at 4 points lower for March and 2 to 6 points higher for the other months.

Sales for the day were 63,750 bags. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were firm and about unchanged. The conditions in mild coffee were considered a bullish factor, as stocks here are about 57,000 bags less than a year ago and the leading grades are commanding unusual premiums over Brazilian coffee and offers of new crop milds for future shipment are light, notwithstanding early predictions of a large yield. The Havre market at the close was ¼f to ½f net lower, and Hamburg declined ¼ to ½ pfennig. In Brazil the Rio spot market was firm and 125 reis higher; Santos spots were unchanged, and futures opened at a decline of 75 reis.

The local spot market was moderately active and prices remained firm and unchanged at 9¾c for Rio 7s.

TEXTILE BUSINESS GAINS.

Improvement in Cotton and Wool Market, Says American Reporter.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 14.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"Quite a little improvement has occurred in the cotton goods market during the past week, at least in most fabrics of a staple or a semi-staple character. Two things may be given for this improvement, first, a firmer price for raw cotton, and, second, because buyers have been unable to obtain various lines of cotton goods in anything like the delivery that many of them expected. Mills have been kept in operation and the demand has been quite regular, so that practically no stocks of goods are available for spot delivery. Prices are not as favorable as they might be, and buyers are beginning to realize that present prices are not likely to be any lower in the near future, in fact slight advances have occurred upon some fabrics, especially those in which large amounts of raw material are used, such as ducks and drills.

"The week ends with the worsted and woolen yarn market in an encouraging condition. Even domestic spinners who were recently pessimistic are becoming convinced that they will enjoy one of the best seasons yet recorded. Cotton yarn spinners are sufficiently anxious for business so that no attempt has yet been made to advance prices. At this writing quotations of a week ago generally remain unchanged. The raw silk market shows a more buoyant condition than has been noted for several weeks previously. If domestic wool and worsted manufacturers are able to hold the entire market against foreign competition the time is opportune to eliminate the easy practice of permitting buyers to cancel their orders or refuse to receive goods without sufficient regard to equity or justice."

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The cold wave continues in New England, although with some moderation since Tuesday night, and low temperatures also continue in the Middle and South Atlantic States, but over the interior it is generally warmer, with temperatures much above the seasonal average in the lake region and the West generally, except in the central Rocky Mountain region.

A disturbance now central over Lake Superior has caused some snow in the upper lake region, and rains and snows also continue west of the Rocky Mountains, with another pronounced depression over British Columbia.

There will be local snows Thursday in the lower lake region and Thursday night or Friday in New England and Eastern New York.

Rains and snows will also continue west of the Rockies, and will extend into the Northwest.

Elsewhere the weather will be fair Thursday and Friday.

It will be warmer Thursday in the Atlantic States, the lower lake region, and the Ohio Valley, and moderate temperatures will prevail Friday over all districts.

Winds for Thursday and Friday along the North Atlantic Coast will be variable, becoming south during Thursday and increasing; Middle Atlantic Coast, south and increasing; South Atlantic Coast, moderate northeast and east.

FORECASTS; TO-DAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York — Increasing cloudiness and warmer Thursday; probably local snows at night. Friday, fair; brisk and high southwest to west winds.

Western New York — Snow and warmer Thursday. Friday, probably fair, brisk and high southwest to west winds.

Eastern Pennsylvania — Increasing cloudiness and warmer Thursday; probably snow in afternoon or night in north. Friday, fair; brisk to moderate light southwest to northwest winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Mrs. Morris K. Jesup Buys New Park Avenue Apartment in $2,000,000 Deal—$5,000,000 Additional Mortgage on Equitable Block—Harlem Y. M. C. A. Purchases Three Houses—Brooklyn Building at Auction for $280,000.

The largest apartment house deal of the year and the most important since the purchase by Arthur Curtiss James late last year of the big twelve-story Fifth Avenue house on the northeast corner of Eighty-first Street, was closed yesterday in the purchase by Mrs. Morris K. Jesup of the tallest apartment structure in the city, the seventeen-story building on the northeast corner of Park Avenue and Seventy-ninth Street. The transaction involved a large element of trade in which Mrs. Jesup gave in part payment west side property.

The Park Avenue building was bought from the operators, Bing & Bing, who erected the building last season. It was ready for occupancy in October, and about fourteen of the suites, there being but one on a floor, are rented at from $12,000 to $15,000. Among the tenants are Dr. W. Seward Webb, Mrs. N. Bramhall Gilbert, John Hays Hammond, J. Benjamin Strong, Jr., Walter G. Oakman, Norman B. Ream, and Mrs. George De Forest Lord. The building covers a plot 100 on the avenue by 85 on the street and has been held at over $1,000,000.

In part payment Mrs. Jesup gave to Bing & Bing two west side apartment houses, one being the seven-story building known as the Saxony, on the southwest corner of Broadway and Eighty-second Street, 90.4 on Broadway by 102 on the street, and the adjoining six-story house known as the Dewitt, at 254 West Eighty-second Street, fronting 55 by 103 deep, thus giving a total street frontage for the two houses of 157 feet. These properties are at present assessed at $480,000.

The aggregate value of the entire properties was in excess of $2,000,000. The transaction was closed through the brokerage firm of the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, who were also the brokers in the sale a short time ago to Mr. James of the Fifth Avenue apartment. They will also act as the agents for the properties involved in the recent trade.

$5,000,000 Additional Mortgage for Equitable Block.

An additional mortgage of $5,000,000 has been obtained by the Equitable Office Building Corporation on the block bounded by Broadway, Nassau, Pine, and Cedar Streets. The loan has been obtained for the new building from the Title Guarantee and Trust Company. The previous mortgage is $20,500,000.

Harlem Y. M. C. A. Buys Plot.

The Harlem branch of the Young Men's Christian Association has increased its holdings by the purchase of the three three-story dwellings 6, 8 and 10 West 126th Street from George and Antoinette B. Taylor. The structures occupy a plot 57.6 by 99.11 by irregular, located 102.6 feet west of Fifth Avenue. The association owns the adjoining houses, 12 and 14, and also the abutting property at 3 to 15 West 125th Street, where the Harlem branch is located. These structures will probably be used as dormitories.

A Recent Buyer.

Samuel Lipman, President of the Martha Building Company, is the buyer of the old Charles Street Presbyterian Church, at 39 and 41 Charles Street, recently sold through William H. Matthews & Co. Justice Guy on Tuesday granted permission to the church to sell the property for $38,000.

Bronx Borough Sale.

A builder has purchased from Samuel Carucci a vacant plot 157 by 150 feet on the southwest corner of 176th Street and Clinton Avenue. The site is to be improved with two six-story apartment houses.

An all cash deal was reported yesterday by the John W. Cornish Construction Company, which sold 1,816 Marmion Avenue, a five-story flat house, on a plot 52 by 70 feet. The buyer is an investor.

The D. H. Jackson Company (Daniel H. Jackson, President,) has bought from Mary A. McCann, 639 East 137th Street, a six-story new law tenement, on plot 37.6 by 100. John F. Dowd was the broker in the transaction.

$100,000 Bronx Apartments.

Plans have been completed by Gronenberg & Leuchtag for two five-story apartment houses to be erected on a lot 104 by 77 feet for the Til Mil Realty Company, Samuel Williams, President, located on the east side of Washington Avenue, 123 feet north of 169th Street. The buildings will accommodate forty-six families, and cost $100,000.

$280,000 for Brooklyn Building.

The Brooklyn auction room furnished an important sale yesterday in the offering by William H. Smith, of the Baldwin Building at 380 and 382 Fulton Street, southwest corner of Smith Street. It was purchased by Balch, Price & Co., furriers, for $280,000. The buyers occupy the adjoining building at 378 Fulton Street, and two floors of the Baldwin Building, the remainder of which is tenanted by the Hilton Company, clothiers, whose lease expires in August, 1915. Its frontage is 48.9 feet on Fulton Street by 125 feet on Smith Street. It is assessed by the city for $311,000.

Long Island.

Joseph Ward of Manhattan has purchased from T. B. Ackerson & Co. a dwelling and two acres of ground on the Ackerson Boulevard.

New Long Island City Apartments.

The Van Alst Construction Company will build for Gronenberg & Leuchtag two five-story apartment houses on the southeast corner of Twelfth Street and Van Alst Avenue, Long Island City, on a lot 75 feet by 90 feet, to cost $70,000. These buildings have been designed to accommodate forty-eight families.

Leases.

William J. Roome & Co. have leased for the estate of Nicholas Wernert, the property at the northeast corner of Twenty-third Street and Seventh Avenue, for a long term of years. The station for the new Seventh Avenue Subway will be at the corner.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased for the 318-24 East Thirty-second Street Company (F. J. Agate, President,) five floors and the basement of the twelve-story building, 318-24 East Thirty-second Street, to the Fuller-Burr Company, for a term of five years, at an aggregate rental of about $80,000. About 60,000 square feet of space is involved. The same brokers reported the lease, a short time ago, of six floors in the building, to Frankel Brothers, clothing manufacturers. The building shows a rent roll of $35,000, and negotiations are pending for a lease of the last remaining loft in the building. The quick renting of the building shows that space in the neighborhood is in demand.

Sydney S. Cohen has leased the store at 243 West 125th Street, to McCarthy & Carey, for ten years at an aggregate rental of $40,000; the store 245 West 125th Street, to J. H. Libman; the store 247 West 125th Street, to Clarke & Banderhoefen, and the store 249 West 125th Street, to H. Ritter.

Moreau Carpenter, to Bertram Bieber, and for August Heckscher space on the second floor of the Fifth Avenue Arcade Building, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, to John T. Kersig & Co., importers of rugs.

Building Statistics.

Statistics compiled by Engineering News relative to the building industry of the United States for the years 1912-1913 show a falling off of $60,000,000 in 111 cities. In forty-six Eastern cities, including New York, having a population of 10,805,000 the cost of the contemplated building from plans filed in 1913 was $338,776,000 compared with $392,774,000 in the same cities in 1912. This represents a falling off of $63,998,000 or 16.3 per cent., which is somewhat less than the total falling off in the five boroughs of New York. In the Borough of Manhattan building plans filed totaled $70,000,000, the smallest in any year since 1899.

The Effective Way

The New York Times:

Some time ago I lost a watch charm which I value highly on account of associations. Immediately upon its loss I advertised in a morning newspaper, but without result. I placed the same advertisement in The New York Times, and it gives me pleasure to state that through The New York Times my charm has been recovered.

Believing this may be a matter of interest to you and thanking you for the interest taken in my case.

SEES TRADE MENACE IN ADAMSON BILL

Board of Trade Attacks Measure Providing for Federal Commercial Directory.

AID TO UNFAIR COMPETITION

Business Organizations Throughout Country to be Asked to Join in Fight on Bill.

In announcing its opposition to the Adamson bill pending in Congress the New York Board of Trade and Transportation yesterday made the following statement:

"Serious injury to the business interests of the country would result from the enactment into law of Congressman Adamson's bill providing for a Federal commercial directory and the regulation of transactions of individuals, partnerships, and corporations engaging in interstate commerce."

Members of the House will be supplied with a "business" argument against the bill and they will be asked to work for its defeat. The Board of Trade will also request the general business organizations throughout the country to join in the opposition to the measure.

Ormsby McHarg, former Assistant Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Board of Trade, which has for some time been considering the chief features of the bill and their effect on commerce, in presenting the conclusions of the committee at the meeting of the board yesterday, summarized its objectionable features in this way:

"Mr. Adamson would have an intimate Federal account keeping of the situation and affairs, hitherto in this country considered personal and not generally to be pried into; of every partnership and corporation engaged in interstate commerce, and this not for purposes of taxation or other admitted public concern, but for exposure to the curious or covetous.

"One provision would permit corporations or other concerns to invade any State without further license, thus depriving any State of the long-established right of deciding who shall or shall not be allowed to do business within its borders and under its laws. If this law should pass it would mean a short cut to a Federal corporation law, usurping the powers now universally enjoyed by each of the States."

In substance the bill proposes that the Secretary of Commerce must issue a commercial directory yearly of interstate and foreign commerce in the United States, in which business must be classified in three divisions, individual, partnerships, and corporations. The bill says:

> Every natural person whose business exceeds the limits of a State, territory, or district of the United States, has the option of insertion in the directory upon paying a fee of $10, and furnishing his sworn statement setting out the character, extent, and conduct of his business with sufficient reference to his assets, liabilities, and methods to show his solvency and reliability; thereupon the Secretary shall so list him as to indicate and classify his business and standing.

The committee of the Board of Trade cites these reasons for opposition to the measure:

"The facts demanded and to be published would expose to unscrupulous and predatory manufacturers and traders the ripened fruits of methods, acumen, probity, care, diligence, and experience, acquisitions of good will and custom and customers, to safeguarding which the possessor has rights as have designers and inventors to the protection of patents and trademarks.

"Such disclosures will encourage unfair competition now concerning economists, and sought to be prevented by legislation abroad. It will swell the ranks and help the raids of producers and sellers of inferior wares to be palmed off as 'just as good' as the product of manufacturers of reputation gained by long sources of praiseworthy workmanship, fair dealing, and good business.

"It will enable great concerns to obtain the trade secrets of the smaller, and utilize them to crush out less potential rivals. It will make easy of acquisition processes and pethods, pursuit of which has provoked more hostility between two great commercial nations than has the competition of their vast armaments on land and sea."

The bill also provides a fine of $5,000 and a liability of five years' imprisonment for perjury in the event of a false statement.

CENSUS FIGURES ON COTTON

CUSTOMS INQUIRY ENDS.

Mitchel's Investigators of Methods Decide to Quit.

After five months of service, the Cleveland Commission appointed by John Purroy Mitchel when Collector of the Port, to work out reforms in the local Custom House, disbanded yesterday owing apparently to the indifference of the Treasury administration to a continuance of the commission's labors. The commission was appointed by Mr. Mitchel soon after his assumption of the Collectorship last June, and was by him designated as the "Collector's special staff." F. A. Cleveland of the Bureau of Municipal Research was put at the head of the commission, which had seven members.

The commission filed many reports on changes in the office deemed by it desirable. These in turn were forwarded to William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury. With the appointment of Dudley Field Malone as Collector, interest in the investigations began to lag in official circles. Most of the reports with accompanying recommendations were, it is said, placed in the archives of the Treasury Department at Washington, otherwise known as the "tomb."

Since the first of the month the members of the commission have been without compensation, and in the absence of an intimation from the Treasury authorities that their services were required longer, it was decided to disband. The investigation is reported to have cost the Government between $50,000 and $60,000.

DEALER TELLS COAL PROFIT.

A Wizard if He Makes Over 25 Cents a Ton, Says M. F. Burns.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—The Interstate Commerce Commission to-day resumed the inquiry into the anthracite coal industry which was suspended in November because of the death of Commissioner John H. Marble.

Michael F. Burns, President of a coal company doing a business of 2,750,000 tons a year in New York, was called to show whether his concern was favored by any coal carrying railroads or railroad coal companies. Mr. Burns testified that his company was on a parity with other coal dealers in New York. He said, however, that his company received an allowance of 12 and 15 cents a ton for handling steam and domestic sizes of coal on piers when its own men did the work.

Discussing the coal trade in New York, he said that a dealer who made more than 25 cents a ton was a wizard. "You have to stay on the job all the time and earn a profit by selling a large tonnage," he said.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES

Further information may be obtained from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington, D. C., and at the branch offices of the bureau, 315 Custom House, by giving the name of the item referred to:

12,347. EXPANDED METAL.—A foreign firm of engineers, contractors, and proprietors of an iron works which is officially authorized to do business with the Gov., would be glad to act as agents or form other business relations with Am. mfrs. of iron and steel, especially in expanded metals.

12,348. ELECTRIC LIGHTING PLANT.—The Municipal Council of Trebizond, Turkey, invites offers for a forty years concession for lighting the town by electricity. Lights must not be less than 40,000 candle power.

12,349. RIVER STEAMERS.—A resident of a Latin-American country desires catalogues and prices of small, flat-bottom, stern-wheel river steamers, burning wood, with capacity to carry five to ten tons of cargo. A company in the country also wishes prices, with catalogues, of flat-bottom river steamers up to 100 tons capacity, wooden and steel barges, and gasoline engines up to seventy-five horse power.

12,350. TIMBER FOR RAILWAY TIES.—A leading firm in a foreign country, which deals largely in equipment for the local railways, is desirous of getting in touch with Am. firms exporting railway sleepers or ties, or timber for the same purpose. It is desired to obtain timber which has been creosoted or otherwise treated to be rendered immune from white ants.

12,351. POWER SPRAYERS FOR ORCHARDS.—A land owner residing in S. E. Europe, who owns orchards containing over 100,000 apple trees, desires to import immediately a power sprayer to spray his trees. He also desires to import a large quantity of arsenate of lead.

12,352. REFINED SULPHUR.—An English firm has inquired for the names of local representatives of American producers of refined sulphur.

12,353. POST CARDS.—A foreign business man desires to get into communication with mfrs. in the U. S. of general lines of picture post cards. He says he can give no estimate of the size of his order, but it is probable that they would not be large at first. Terms would be cash on delivery of goods, and quotations may be in United States currency, f. o. b. He does not want cards with views or flowers; those showing figures of women and children and comic subjects having the greatest sale.

12,354. TENNIS SUPPLIES.—A business man in Australia wants the names of the leading Am. mfrs. of tennis racquets, (frames only,) gut for stringing the same, and tennis balls used in the international matches.

12,355. INCUBATORS AND BROODERS.—A French mfgr. wants catalogues of parts for the mfg. of brooders and incubators, such as burners, lamps, thermometers, regulators, &c.

BILL TO PROTECT DESIGNS.

Low Cost and Immediate Registration Its Chief Aims.

The National Registration League and the Federation of Trade Press Associations of the United States, to provide adequate protection at a low fee for American manufacturers against piracy of their best patterns, succeeded on Monday in introducing a bill in Congress.

The bill provides for the registration of designs for all classes of manufactured products without examination save that necessary to insure that the papers are made out in the proper form. In case of litigation, this registration will be accepted as proof of priority. The bill also provides for an examination to determine that the design which is to be registered is not for purposes contrary to public policies.

It provides that a design may be registered for a period of three years at a cost of $1, ten years for $10, and twenty years for $30. A registration for either of the shorter terms may be extended to either of the longer at any time before the expiration of the original registration period. Designs are defined as applied to or embodied in a specific product. It permits a design embodied in one product to be registered when applying to another product, that is, it will permit registration of a design used in making lace that has already been used in making silk and registered by a silk manufacturer. In this it differs materially from the present patent laws, and as commercial designs cannot be copyrighted the bill provides for the only flexible system of protection that can be utilized in this country.

The administrative features of the bill are said to be very simple. One of the best features of the bill is that it will provide for immediate registration and protection, a thing heretofore impossible to obtain in this country.

CENTRAL LOSES $250,000.

Nickel Plate Passes Common Dividend—Morgan Out, Vanderbilt In.

The income of the New York Central Lines, through the medium of the Lake Shore, was reduced by $250,000 yesterday when Directors of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis omitted the regular annual dividend on the common stock. The first and second preferred dividends were declared as usual. The Lake Shore owns $6,240,000 of the Nickel Plate's common stock, on which it received 4 per cent. or $250,000 last year.

To succeed J. P. Morgan, whose resignation as a Director of the New York Central was announced two weeks ago, Harold S. Vanderbilt was elected. Another vacancy, left by the death of George S. Bowdoin, has not been filled.
